JOHNSON HITS HOOVER; MAY RUN NEXT YEAR

STATES BALLOT BOX ONLY REMEDY LEFT

(Associated Press.)

Hiram Johnson, of California, about whom a Republican presidential bee has buzzed in former years, yesterday called on the Nation to repudiate at "the ballot box" President Hoover's policy toward the League of Nations.

The senator's words, spoken for talking pictures in California and made public here, echoed loudly down the corridors of political gossip. Guesses were about even whether they actually put him into the running for the 1932 nomination.

By entering the League of Nations council meetings on the Sino-Japanese dispute, Johnson asserted, "The administration takes us into Europe's political controversies in violation of the Constitution and in defiance of the people's will."

"The only remedy left the people against their betrayers is the ballot box," he added.

While the President and his fellow Californian have not been politically friendly, Senator Johnson did not oppose Hoover's nomination or election in 1928.

Capital Speculates.

Washington speculated last night at thought of a meeting between Johnson and Hoover in their home State presidential primary next spring. California's primary is among the first to be held.

In 1920 Johnson was one of three over whom the Republican convention deadlocked. In 1924 he took some delegates away from Coolidge. In 1928 he said he was through with presidential politics. He has not modified that assertion since.

There have been open breaks between Mr. Hoover and Mr. Johnson on legislative policies during the present administration, but the senator's statement yesterday was his first challenge to the Hoover reelection campaign.

"Next year," he said, "Americans must reaffirm the old American policy of friendship for all nations, political connections with none, and in emphatic tones again say this government is American, and must be administered not first for Europeans, but first for Americans."

Senator Johnson was a leader in the memorable Senate fight against joining the League of Nations. He is now ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee.

His statement also lashed at Japan, whom he accused of taking part of Manchuria and of "violating every treaty designed to promote peace."

Statement by Johnson.

The statement follows:

"After 12 years, our country, so far as the present administration could involve us, has been finally jockeyed and juggled into the League of Nations. It is pretended, of course, that we sacrifice nothing of our independence, but when you sit in an official body as part of it and participate in

Girl's Body Shows No Trace of Poison

Miss Wilma Wiggington River Victim, Drowned Self, Is Belief.

Leonardtown, Md., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Chemists from Baltimore today reported to State's Attorney John A. Bristoe, of St. Marys County, that no trace of poison had been found in the viscera of Miss Wilma Wiggington, of Roslyn, Long Island, a writer, found in the Patuxent River about two weeks ago.

There were bruises about the head and body but it was explained these might have been caused by crabs or fish during the hours the body was in the water. Previously she prepared letters indicating her desire to end her life.

The coroner withheld his verdict until the vital organs of the young woman could be examined.

Economy to Keep Old Ironsides Here

(Associated Press.)

At anchor in the Potomac, the frigate Constitution will spend the winter here as a measure of economy.

Secretary Adams said yesterday that the old warship would be docked for the rest of the year when it reaches here on the last stop of its Atlantic seaboard tour.

In a letter to Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, Mr. Adams explained the step was a move for economy, adding, "The old ship is costing us at the rate of $200,000 a year."

BERLIN MAY INVITE HOOVER TO PARLEY

World Conference Seen as Best Means to Settle Debt Problems.

Berlin, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—An international conference, in which even President Hoover might participate, is advanced in German Government circles as the best possible means of dealing with reparations and other financial problems involved in the present economic uncertainty.

Agitation for such a conference is expected to form the corner stone of Germany's foreign policy during the next few weeks.

Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch arrived from Paris today to receive Chancellor Bruening's instructions for the discussions he is to have with Premier Laval when the premier returns to France.

The arrival of the ambassador led to a reexamination of Germany's policy from which the conference suggestion emerged.

The summoning of Herr von Hoesch was in line with Chancellor Bruening's decision to lose no time translating into practical action the recommendations made by President Hoover and Premier Laval in Washington.

Official circles intimated the ambassador will point out to the French premier that even ahead of revision of the Young plan must come discussion of what will happen when the freezing agreement expires next March. This agreement keeps intact foreign credits in Germany.

Just how action can be taken in regard to these credits will be something of a diplomatic nut to crack. Neither the freezing committee, headed by Albert H. Wiggin, New York banker, exists any longer, nor does the seven-power conference at London, which recommended that the Bank for International Settlements appoint the Wiggin committee.

Assuming, however, that after the negotiations with M. Laval some acceptable method of procedure is found, the next question so far as Germany is concerned is what good a committee of investigation, appointed by the World Bank as provided by the Young plan, could accomplish.

It is said here that Germany's condition has been adequately studied by the Wiggin committee and by such

Iowa Plans Corn Sale To Raise $10,000,000

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 30 (A.P.) A State-wide corn purchasing campaign resembling roughly the war-time liberty loan campaigns, intended to put from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in the hands of Iowa farmers, was started today.

The plan calls for the sale of millions of bushels of Iowa corn at 60 cents a bushel, the campaign to start early in November. Every Iowa business man and every salaried person receiving $2,400 or more annually will be asked to purchase at least one unit of 10 bushels.

BETTER TRADE SIGNS PLEASING TO PRESIDENT

Hoarding Found Abated and Credit Confidence Restored.

BRITISH GOLD MOVE FAILS TO SHAKE U. S.

Executive Tells Press That Number of Bank Failures Drops Sharply.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

The American financial structure has successfully weathered the shock of Great Britain's abandonment of the gold standard and all the basic factors point to a complete restoration of confidence in the domestic credit position, President Hoover informed the Nation yesterday.

Hoarding of cash, which had subjected banking reserves to a severe strain at a time when the European situation demanded heavy exports of American gold, has abated notably. Basic commodity prices have registered a marked advance in the last ten days. Abnormal demand for export gold has ceased and the sentiment of panicky uncertainty which for a time dominated both security and commodity exchanges, has given way to a growing feeling of optimism.

"I am happy to note the very great change which is evident in the credit situation since the announcement of financial plans on October 7," the President said at his regular Friday press conference.

High Point of Hoarding.

"Following the abandonment of the gold standard in England a wave of great apprehension spread over the country. Hoarding of currency rose to the high point of $200,000,000 a week between that time and the announcement of the credit pool and other credit measures. Country bank failures had risen to nearly 25 a day during this period. At the same time the drain of gold abroad due to the alarm of foreign holders of American credits had in this period risen to as high as over $200,000,000 a week.

"Evidence over the last week indicates that not only has hoarding ceased, but actually $24,000,000 of hoarded money has returned to the banks. The small bank failures have almost ceased—the last report showing only 7 out of 20,000 total. Foreign exchanges are returned to a basis at which it is no longer advantageous to ship gold abroad.

"The practical effect of this recovery is shown in an increase in the price of wheat by 10 or 12 cents a bushel and cotton by $15 to $20 a bale."

Retail Trade Expansion.

The President's statement was based on reports from the Federal Reserve Board, which showed, in addition to increased money deposits in all sections of the country, a continued expansion of retail trade as reflected in combined bank clearings. For three successive weeks, these reports showed, the volume of normal trade transactions has shown an increase over the corresponding period of last year. During the last two weeks this has been true in each of

Mussolini, in Edict, Bars More Wage Cuts

Rome, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini today assured Italy there will be no further general reduction in wages.

Under his presidency, the central committee of corporations rejected suggestions it had been studying for nation-wide cuts in industrial salaries. The committee declared decreases inadvisable despite the tendency of other nations to meet the depression in that manner.

TORIES PASS CHANCE TO RUN GOVERNMENT

London, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Stanley Baldwin, whose Conservative party has 472 of the 615 seats in the next House of Commons, already has given assurance he will not attempt to run the government, it was learned today.

Mr. Baldwin agreed, it was understood, to a suggestion that Conservatives get no more than 12 of the portfolios in the next cabinet. That cabinet is expected to have the usual 21 members, and 12 is considered a modest total for the Conservatives in view of their overwhelming parliamentary strength.

Accredited versions of Mr. Baldwin's decision are in line with his statement immediately after the general election Tuesday that the victory belonged to the national government and not to any one party.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald left London today for his country home, Chequers, to get some rest between sessions of study on the measures to better Britain's economic and financial condition, which will be advanced by his government. Mr. MacDonald expects to return to London Sunday evening.

The belief was reiterated in informal circles that no action will be taken in regard to tariff protection—emergency or otherwise—until after the Christmas holidays.

King George received two members of the government today—Philip Snowden, retiring chancellor of the exchequer, and J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions and colonies.

In a discussion lasting more than half an hour, Mr. Snowden, it was understood, presented the king with first-hand information on the financial state of the country.

It is believed likely that Mr. Snowden may get the position of lord president of the council in the new cabinet. This post involves no particular duties and is conferred for the purpose of providing the administration with the advice of men particularly conversant with national problems. Such a plan would mean raising Mr. Snowden to the peerage since he is not a member of the new House.

"Jim" Thomas reported to the king on the recent disturbances in the island of Cyprus. It is expected that Mr. Thomas will continue as secretary of state for dominions, but the portfolio for colonies may be taken from him.

Gen. Collins Hurt As 5 Cars Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—Brig. Gen. Edgar T. Collins, attached to the War Department, was injured today in a five-car automobile accident resulting from failure of a truck driver to observe a boulevard stop sign at Monroe and McHenry streets.

The general, who was on his way to the Third Corps Area headquarters here, refused to go to a hospital, but was treated for a lacerated scalp and neck at the headquarters infirmary. His machine was driven by Joseph Reynolds, War Department chauffeur.

According to police, the truck turned on Monroe street without stopping at a boulevard sign, and collided with another machine, which, in turn, careened across the street and crashed into Gen. Collins' car. Two other machines were damaged.

Akron Plans Visit In Capital Monday

Weather permitting, Washington will get its first glimpse of the Navy's new dirigible, Akron, Monday, when the big ship may fly down from Lakehurst, via Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Under the Navy Department's tentative plans, the Akron will take off at 5:20 from its Lakehurst hangar. The rest of the schedule has not been worked out in detail. The passenger list is already closed, the department stated. The ship left Washington off its itinerary when it flew from Akron to Lakehurst.

U. S. INACTION ON MANCHURIA STIRS GENEVA

League Circles Gravely Concerned by Failure to Send Views.

SUPPORT OF DEMAND ON JAPANESE SOUGHT

Tokyo Doubts Feasibility of Manchurian Evacuation by November 16.

Geneva, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Grave concern was expressed in League of Nations circles tonight over the absence of any reaction from Washington to the league council's Manchurian resolution adopted six days ago.

All during the week Geneva authorities waited for some gesture of indorsement by the American Government of the council's demand that Japan withdraw her troops to the Manchurian Railway zone by November 16.

Some sign of approval had been expected in view of Secretary of State Stimson's note in September calling on the league to exert all its authority to bring about peace and giving assurances of America's cordial support.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, and M. A. Aghnides, chief of the armaments section, had planned to go to London next week to see Arthur Henderson regarding his presidency of the disarmament conference scheduled for February. Because of the gravity of the Manchurian situation, it is not certain that they will make the journey.

Henderson's Availability Doubted.

In informed quarters it is believed almost impossible for Mr. Henderson, now no longer Britain's foreign secretary, to serve as president.

This brings up the difficult question of selecting a man for this important post, although, in view of the Manchurian situation, hopes for holding the conference appear to be on the wane.

(Associated Press.)

The American Government is looking into the position of Russia in connection with the Manchurian dispute between Japan and China.

Officials regard the Russian aspect of the matter as a deliberate one and they have not yet gone to the bottom of it.

Due to the fact that the Soviet government is not recognized by the United States and there are no American diplomats in Russia, the Government's effort to obtain accurate data is made difficult.

Japanese Seek Popular Support.

Tokyo, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Patriotic organizations throughout Japan were organizing public opinion today in support of the government's Manchurian policy, while dispatches from Mukden told of the start of a Chinese military campaign to drive the last vestiges of the Nationalist Chinese regime out of southern Manchuria.

The outlook for early solution of the situation resulting from an armed clash September 18 near Mukden between Chinese soldiers and Japanese railway guards was not considered hopeful.

Revolt of Military In Brazil Crushed

Civilians and State Police Force Chasseurs to Capitulate.

Rio de Janiro, Brazil, Oct. 30 (A.P.). The revolting members of the Twenty-first Regiment of Brazilian Chasseurs and scouting battalion at Pernambuco surrendered this afternoon, an official government communique said.

The Pernambuco government was quoted in the communique as saying that civilians and state police besieged the barracks, and the rebels were arrested and taken to prison without resistance.

The revolt began on Wednesday night and continued throughout yesterday, with street cars and telephone communications halted, but lighting facilities in operation. The cruiser Rio Grande do Sul was dispatched to the scene. A captain was killed, one lieutenant was wounded, and an undetermined number of others were injured.

Churchman Is Acquitted In Killing of His Son, 23

Amite, La., Oct. 30 (U.P.).—A jury of farmers in district court tonight acquitted Flint Higginbotham, 56-year-old churchman and prohibitionist, of manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of his son, David, 23.

The father had admitted killing the son. He said after his arrest, "David turned out to be a no-account and finally I caught him bootlegging. That was too much." The parent gave no show of emotion as the verdict was read and refused to comment on his acquittal.

William Edison Plans Fight on Father's Will

A fight on the inventor's will has divided the house of Edison. William (left) will fight the will, saying it is unfair. He accuses Charles (right) of "undue influence" on his father.

Bequests Called Unfair; Thomas A., Jr., Regrets Brother's Move.

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A fight over the division of the Thomas A. Edison millions loomed today when William L. (Billy) Edison, a son of the famous inventor, announced he would contest his father's will.

In a statement to the press, the son, one of the inventor's three children by his first marriage, said he would charge undue influence on the part of his stepmother and his half-brother, Charles Edison.

William characterized the will as "unfair," and said he would not be alone in the attempt to break it. He declined to say who would join him.

The will of the inventor, filed in New Jersey yesterday, left the major

Stimson Dispatches Note to Geneva Containing Three Reservations.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary of State Stimson, after consulting with the Navy Department and the Secretary of War, has accepted the suggestion of the League of Nations for a truce on armament increases beginning with November 1. The American note was dispatched to the League of Nations yesterday. The United States has, however, made certain reservations for the acceptance of the proposal.

The reservations are three: First, that this acceptance should not affect replacements for obsolete or used war material; second, that it should not affect the American position at the Geneva conference, whatsoever it may be; third, that similar action of acceptance be taken by other principal military and naval powers.

The arms truce was embodied in a proposal submitted to the league at the last meeting of the assembly by Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi. At that time it failed of complete adoption by the assembly, due principally to French objections. Certain trivial modifications were subsequently made in it and in this form it was accepted by all the delegates and forwarded to every country for consideration.

The American Minister to Switzerland, Hugh R. Wilson, was present in Geneva at the time the arms truce was adopted. He is now in this country and assisted the Secretary in drafting the general tenor of the American reply. The American reply was held up for several weeks since the proposal's reception here September 30, in order to have the expert counsel of J. Theodore Marriner, former chief of the western European division of the department, who was in Europe for several months preparing for the general disarmament conference. Mr. Marriner, who arrived with French Premier Laval, and Mr. Wilson, will be two of the American advisors at the Geneva conference.

Construction of cruisers will go forward without interruption. Fifteen of these cruisers are now either built or building, and the other three pro-

U.S. AND CITY WORK FOR IDLE ADJUSTED

Hoover Moves to Get Most Benefit for Jobless From Two Programs.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

President Hoover yesterday moved to bring about a close coordination of Federal and District activities to get the most benefit for the unemployed out of the public works program in the National Capital this winter.

District Commissioners Luther H. Reichelderfer and Herbert B. Crosby, E. C. Graham, chairman of the District unemployment relief committee; Ellwood Street, director of the Community Chest; Charles C. Glover, jr., District representative of the Gifford national unemployment committee; Fred Croxton, national committee executive, and Merle Thorpe, a member of the national unemployment organization, attended the conference with the President in the White House.

A definite plan for getting the greatest advantage out of the public construction program is to be drafted by the District officials and submitted at a later meeting, it was said. President Hoover summarized the conference in a statement made public after it had adjourned. The statement said:

"A conference was held this afternoon with the chairman of the District employment committee, representatives of the Community Chest, the District Commissioners, Mr. Gifford's committee and others, in the matter of coordination between the Federal departments with the District activities in relief of unemployment over the winter.

"The District authorities will present a plan by which the departments and contractors working on public construction can actively cooperate to handle such unemployment problems as may arise in the District."

Although the detailed plan is yet to be worked out, it is a foregone conclusion that it will include a scheme whereby the District government will keep its several thousand per diem employes on the pay roll by

HOOVER PICKING 'JURORS' TO TRY NAVAL CHARGES

SECRETARY STIMSON DEFENDS PRESIDENT

Executive Awaits Roster of League to Form Board to Decide Issue.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Wearing his fighting clothes—the brown suit he had on that day he told the American Federation of Labor it could not dictate the appointment of a Secretary of Labor—President Hoover yesterday began to select a committee before which he hopes to "convict" William Howard Gardiner, head of the Navy League.

President Hoover indicted Gardiner the night before on two counts—expressing "untruths and distortions of fact" about the administration's naval policy, and trying to thwart the administration's economy program. At the same time the President said he expected an apology from Gardiner.

The overt act was a statement by the Big Navy champion on Wednesday, a statement which accused President Hoover of displaying "abysmal ignorance" with regard to naval affairs.

Hoover Defenders Speak.

In a preliminary bombardment yesterday, Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State; Theodore Joslin, secretary to the President, and Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, associate secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, went to the defense of President Hoover in his controversy with Gardiner.

Gardiner remained silent, standing on his statement of the night before that he was "surprised" that the President should have his own committee investigate the matter instead of referring it to Congress.

Meantime, however, Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the board of directors of the Navy League, called a special meeting of the organization's executive committee to take up the President's surprising reprisal against Gardiner.

Views on Wisdom of Step.

In the drawing rooms, the club foyers and in the offices on Capitol Hill men and women were discussing the wisdom of the President's action in going after Gardiner. There were two views, of course. Some thought the President had made a foolish move by dignifying a statement that quickly would have been forgotten; others praised him for his courageous step, pointing out that he would have been accused of cowardice if he had not called Gardiner's hand.

The President himself was smiling broadly when he gave out what news he had on the controversy at yesterday's regular Friday press conference.

"I am waiting," he said, "to secure a list of members of the Navy League. As soon as that list is obtainable I shall select representation from the membership on a committee which will be able to establish the untruths promulgated by the president of that body."

The President had announced the night before that he would include some members of the Navy League on the committee, a committee whose function will be to listen while representatives of "agencies of the Government" demonstrate the "untruths and distortions of fact" voiced by Mr. Gardiner.

4,000 Members in League.

There are about 4,000 men and women in the Navy League. Their names are expected to be in the President's hands today, and the selections are expected to follow quickly.

The impression exists that the President already has decided who the other members of the committee will be, but so far there has been no hint as to their identity.

There was considerable speculation as to who would represent the "agencies of the Government," which President Hoover has said will show

Milling Phoenix Mob Fights To See Ruth Judd's Return

Guards on Dead Run Speed Her to Cell Within Few Blocks of Morgue Where Her Two Alleged Victims Repose.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Winnie Ruth Judd came home today to stand trial for her life, for the slaying of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, once known as her best friends.

Two weeks ago today Mrs. Judd admittedly called on them, in their duplex apartment, described in Miss Samuelson's diary as "the cutest little place" and killed them. The next day she had packed their bodies, as baggage, in a trunk. They were found in a Los Angeles railway station. She surrendered there.

"Anne's" and "Sammy's" bodies lay in a morgue, a few blocks from the county courthouse today, as Winnie Judd was ushered speedily through a gaping crowd of 5,000 people and taken through the portals of the jail, almost on a dead run—the end of her fight against extradition and an Arizona trial.

Her nerves were jangled by reports reaching her en route from Los Angeles during the 15-hour journey by automobile, of milling crowds waiting to see her, and she abandoned herself to near terror as she neared the outskirts of Phoenix. She cowered on the floor of Sheriff J. R. McFadden's car when a motorcycle patrolman, a member of her police escort in Phoenix, struck soft sand and was sent spinning from his mount.

The man was not seriously hurt, but envisioning an attack by an angered citizenry, Mrs. Judd broke under the strain.

McFadden and Mrs. Lon Jordan, jail matron, riding by her side, succeeded in calming her before the automobile whirled into the courthouse drive, where 5,000 spectators were held back by fences and ropes.

The crowd, made up not only of curious Phoenix citizens, but Mexican and Indian inhabitants of the desert nearby, remained orderly after a vain

Golf Women Here Accused Of Slighting Baltimoreans

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 30.—Women inaugurated the National Women's Country Club in Washington and women promoted it, women financed it and women manage it, and Mrs. Jerome Sloman, wife of a Baltimore City councilman and a prominent woman golfer, said tonight that the managing "is done to suit themselves."

Mrs. Sloman won first low net prize in a nine-hole medalist tournament at the formal opening of the club's golf course yesterday, she said. Her name was posted as the winner on the bulletin board after the match, she added, but when she returned from a threesome exhibition match after the tournament, the silver loving cup had been awarded to some one else.

"Why it was outrageous," Mrs. Sloman declared. "They fixed up the scores to suit themselves. I've sent special delivery letters to Mrs. Guy V. Henry, of Washington, the chairman of arrangements for the opening, who presented the prizes, and to Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, president of the club, demanding an explanation."

With seven other Baltimore women golfers, Mrs. Sloman said, she accepted an invitation to attend the opening ceremonies at the new clubhouse on Bradley Hills boulevard. Mrs. Sloman is the woman's golf champion of the Suburban Club.

All of the local women were invited to participate in the tourney. They were told to come to Washington a little late for the affair, which was held in the morning, Mrs. Sloman said, to give the Washington women an opportunity to get started around the course early. They arrived late, she added, and were told they could not participate, but one of their

WILSON REITERATES REMARKS ON LEGION

Dry Leader Says He Sees No Occasion to Retract Words on Meeting.

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, whose remarks about the Detroit American Legion convention started a country-wide controversy, yesterday made the following statement:

"A great deal of misunderstanding has arisen about just what I wish to say on the American Legion. My exact words were published in the Associated Press reports from St. Joseph, Mo. The story is an exact reproduction of my words, no more, no less. I have, on further investigation, seen no occasion to take back one of them.

"I have never made a denunciation of the American Legion, as such, or of its convention, or of its action asking for a referendum. Any man who has wet sentiments has as much right to vote wet in his legion convention, or elsewhere, as I would have to vote dry."

Dr. Wilson's "exact words" in his St. Joseph address of September 24, as transmitted by the Associated Press, were:

"The legion has again taken the wet side. I am not surprised. If you could have seen the outfit that gathered in Detroit as I did, you would be surprised that 394 men (the number voting against the prohibition referendum resolution) could be found who would stand up for the Constitution and decency and sobriety. Where did they get them?

"When these men were being trained overseas it was as sober soldiers in dry cantonments. America tried to make total abstainers of every one. They went across to France the cleanest Army that ever assembled on any field. A million maintained their American ideals even in French cities.

"But some dropped down to another level. This is the crowd that seeks to dominate the legion and our civilization. The wet propaganda for which the legion has been used has so alienated thousands that they no longer attend the convention.

"There was a marked absence of the sober, well-behaved typical American. The other crowd is in power. That is why the headquarters over in Windsor was placed in the Government liquor store. That is why such numbers of staggering drunks disgraced the uniform and yelled for beer."

Robert Williams, Actor, Is Low After Operation

Los Angeles, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Robert Williams, film actor, who recently came here from New York to appear in a motion picture opposite Constance Bennett, was in a serious condition in a Hollywood hospital today. He underwent an operation for acute appendicitis last night.

Williams was stricken while his new picture was being filmed. He also appeared opposite Ina Claire in "Rebound," occupying the same role in the stage version.

Reclamation Chief Hit on U. S. Control

Western State Engineers Assail Mead's Stand as to Waters.

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Dr. Elwood Mead, Federal reclamation commissioner, was criticized for his stand on Government ownership of unappropriated waters in Western States, in a resolution adopted at the closing session of the fourth annual conference of the Association of Western State Engineers here today.

The association also reaffirmed its stand for State ownership and control of such waters. Dr. Mead, a member of the association, did not attend the conference, but sent a paper which was read.

In its resolution, the association declared the paper, entitled "Policies With Respect to Reservoirs—The Federal Viewpoint," "implies but does not specify that the control of such streams should be placed with some Federal agency."

Hyde Advises End Of Marginal Land

Adjustment of Farms to Stop Overproduction Also Needed.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, addressing a farmers' week audience here tonight, said agriculture is entering an era of readjustment in which marginal land must be abandoned and "our agricultural plant adjusted t remove overproduction."

Secretary Hyde emphasized the necessity of turning farm land now being unprofitable into timber land or pasture areas.

"These lands," he said, "do not profit the farmer; he holds them at the expense of his family's comforts. These and many other problems call for readjustment of our agricultural plant."

He called overproduction the primary cause of the depressed state of agriculture.

Paris Hardships Faced By Destitute Americans

Paris, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—A small army of destitute Americans, trapped in Paris by economic depression, is facing a winter of hardships. Among the destitute are students, entertainers and visitors. They come from all parts of the United States.

Seventy students have appealed to the American Aid Society of Paris this month. Most of them came here with little money and were caught when their parents in the United States suffered financial reverses. The aid society has raised about $7,000 for relief in the last two months.

Navy League All at Sea! Gilbert and Sullivan Gone

By JOHN J. DALY

WHAT to do?

That seems to be the question of the hour.

Here comes the Navy League, the Big Navy League, the Big League of the Navy, the League of the Big Navy, or whatever it may be called, challenging the Commander in Chief to debate the condition of sea-going vessels and the social status of the admiralty.

With Gilbert and Sullivan gone, there is no one to set all this to music, with appropriate lyrics for the light operatic stage.

The main thought of the Nation, on any annoyance, seems to be "Get rid of it, do away with it, scrap it, have done with it—and the devil take the hindmost."

In keeping with the elimination process advocated in so many quarters—Movements that would smother one out of every five politicians, retire two out of every three sailors, soldiers and marines, turn under every third row of cotton, and forget every Fourth of July—some one now wants to sink every fifth battleship and build three more to take its place.

THERE is no end to this business—getting rid of riddles by riddling them.

In the scholastic realm, many pupils would do away with the sixth grade entirely, getting a year off for good behavior.

Every seventh car, many believe, should be taken bodily off the highways before it falls apart. This, for the advantage of the pedestrians—if there are any pedestrians left. The seventh sons of seventh sons say the seven deadly sins are responsible for most of the world's ills, and many a man stretching in the seventh inning has seen a game won or lost. Something ought to be done about this, too!

EIGHT bells in the Navy marks the change of watch, but the way they are talking about the Navy these days some of the gobs may not have any watches to change. The Larboard watch has already been abolished. However, they haven't got the Navy's goat—yet; though the Farm Board at any moment is liable to advance a theory, to get every eight billys and nannys alike.

Ninth innings in the national pastime—baseball—have been provocative of waste of energy and time—capecially with the score tied in the ninth, thus throwing the game into extra innings. With the abolishment of the ninth inning, the saving of time would be incalculable, and many a fan would get home in time for dinner, nor keep the good wife waiting. The same is true of the last race. Away with it, and save wear and tear on the nerves of worshippers leaving the tracks.

IT was the Farm Board that recently came forth with a solution of the milk problem. It seems the country is being flooded with milk. Not with milk and honey, nor yet the milk of human kindness, but the lacteal fluid of the bovine family. The way to remedy this overproduction is to kill every tenth cow in the herd, experts say. There is no mention of throwing the bull, nor taking the joker out of the pack.

At a time when the world needs it, these are the little bon mots that add to the gaiety of nations.

ENGLAND is in the throes of a political upheaval the like of which John Bull never saw. Mussolini is still wondering what to do about Italy, and Italy what to do about Mussolini. France is waiting for the return of her wandering son, Laval. Germany is sending Chancellor Bruening over to see the sidewalks of New York and the Corinthian columns on the Treasury Building. While China and Japan make up their minds about Manchuria, sitting on the steppes of Russia, America goes to war over its own Navy, shouting "Don't give up the dry dock!"

In the meantime, somebody is rocking the ship of state. The first hundred years are the hardest, and the last mile is the worst of the hike. As they say in the yards, "There's many a ship 'twixt the scup and the slip."

WILLIAM EDISON TO ATTACK INVENTOR'S WILL AS UNFAIR

part of the estate to Charles and Theodore, with a provision that they may divide the residue of the estate among all six children when and as they shall deem judicious.

"I have decided to contest the unfair will of my father," said William L., in his statement. "Undue influence was brought to bear on my father by Charles Edison and my stepmother, Mina Miller Edison.

"The codicil attached to the will was made only a few months before my father's death, which in itself, knowing he was about to die, showed what influence my stepmother and Charles had over him.

"Every invention of importance that my father made and from which he gained such a reputation was conceived long before he met his second wife; none of great importance was created after his marriage to Mina Miller Edison.

"I do not care to say who will join me in the contest, but you can be assured I will not be alone."

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 30 (A.P.). The Edisons, says one of them, were like any large family, and they loved each other with no regard to the fact that three of them were by the first wife of Thomas A. Edison and three of them by the second.

Thomas A. Edison, jr., drew this verbal picture today, and declared himself "at a loss to explain" the action of his brother, William, who has announced he intends to sue to break the will of his father.

The oldest son of the great inventor, though he is among four of the six children bequeathed only a small part of the estate, believes the will was a fair one. The will left the bulk of the estate to Charles and Theodore, sons by the second marriage.

"Why not?" Thomas A., jr., asked. "Charles and Theodore stuck by father. They went to college and studied engineering so as to be able to help him in his work. They worked hard, conscientiously, and both are very able. They started at the bottom in father's company, and labored to the top through all the departments. They deserved to inherit the fruits of the labor to which they contributed so much."

Mr. Edison married Miss Mary G. Stillwell in 1873. Marion was the first born. Thomas A., jr., followed two years later. He is now 54. Then came William. He is 51. Their mother died in 1884.

Two years later Mr. Edison married Miss Mina M. Miller, who survives him. The children of the second marriage, in order, were Madeline, now 42; Charles, now 40, and Theodore, now 33.

Following upon his second honeymoon, the inventor, his bride, and Marion, Thomas and William moved from New York to Glenmont, N. J., where the Edison home has been maintained since. That was 45 years ago.

Marion First to Leave.

Marion was the first to leave home. She traveled to Europe in 1900, married a German army officer named Oser, and settled in southern Germany. She returned to the United States five years ago and has since resided at Norwalk, Conn.

Thomas departed from the parental wing, but with parental blessings, at 21. He suffered chronic headaches, and his father feared they were caused by work in the laboratory. He journeyed to Burlington, N. J., and there set up a small laboratory of his own, managing to keep himself in the open more than before. He is now a consulting engineer at East Orange.

William left at 23 to establish a poultry farm at Morristown, N. J. He was particularly interested in the raising of pheasants. Later he moved to Wilmington, Del., where he has lived since.

The second group of children remained at Glenmont until their marriages and then established homes nearby. Madeline became Mrs. John Eyre Sloane.

Charles became president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., holding company for Thomas A. Edison Industries. Theodore became head of the research department for the same firm.

United at Christmas.

At Christmas time, year in and year out, all six children assembled at the Glenmont home, exchanging gifts and jollity. Thomas said only illness succeeded in keeping any of them away, although Mrs. Oser missed a few Christmases because of the great distance at which she lived.

The inventor presided at the dinner and was always much pleased to have his children gathered about him. Mrs. Edison was "mother" to all of them.

"I never saw any evidence of ill feeling between the two sets of children," Thomas said today. "Nor were there any signs of unfriendliness toward the present Mrs. Edison on the part of my brother and sister.

"My stepmother has been very kind to me, and I am very fond of her. She is just like another mother.

"Mrs. Edison was especially solicitous when I was ill. My relations with her children have been wonderful, and I am very fond of them. Throughout my life there has never been anything but the most cordial relations between us all.

"But what has happened today is very disturbing. I can not understand Will's action. It is a flareup that I am at a loss to explain.

Strong Friendship Bond.

"Our different ideas and our fixed plans in life, coupled with the fact that we were separated by many years, made it difficult—almost impossible—for us to be companions. However, there was a strong bond of friendship and love between us at all times."

At the time of his father's death Thomas was at the sick bed of his wife, who had pneumonia, and who was at that time not expected to live.

"I loved my father too much ever to question his will," he concluded.

Charles Edison listened to the news of his half brother's intended action very gravely and said, "Thank you, very much." Theodore would make no comment. Mrs. Sloane said she was taking no part in the proposed contest.

Charles affirmed that his mother had been provided for with "the utmost generosity" before his father's death, but denied published reports that she had great wealth.

Nude Babies in Movies Approved in New York

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The New York State education department today ruled that the matings of snails, spiders and microscopic one-celled animals have no proper place on the public motion picture screen.

The department confirmed the action of James T. Wingate, director of the motion picture division, who ruled out as indecent such scenes in a film by Clarence Darrow in the film, entitled "The Mystery of Life," is represented as a scientific explanation of the theory of evolution. The department ruled, however, that Mr. Wingate erred when he deleted scenes in which unclothed babies appeared.

John Hertz to Accept Post With Paramount

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Publix Corporation, announced today that John Hertz, of Chicago, had accepted his invitation to become a member of the board of directors and chairman of the finance committee of the company.

Mr. Zukor said he also had invited Albert D. Lasker, chairman of Lord, Thomas & Logan Advertising Agency, and William Wrigley, jr., of Chicago, to join the board.

CLOSED BANK PLANS FOR REORGANIZATION

New York Trust Company Head Promises Quick Liquidation.

New York, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Depositors of the Federation Bank & Trust Co., large labor bank, which closed its doors this afternoon after a seepage of deposits, will be able to realize almost immediately on 66 2-3 per cent of their funds following a mobilization of the city's banking resources.

High labor officials, including William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Mathew Woll, vice president, and John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, were officers or directors of the bank, which has been in business since 1923. On September 30 its deposits were $13,339,206.

One of the speediest reorganizations in the history of American banking was promised tonight by Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust Co. and head of a consortium of local banks that backed plans for quick payments to depositors.

Even before James A. Broderick, State bank commissioner, closed the doors of the bank, papers had been drawn up providing for a taking over of its accounts by Manufacturers Trust Co., liquidating agent. The plan provides for transfer of federation accounts to manufacturers and depositors will immediately be credited with amounts equal to 66 2-3 per cent of their labor bank deposits.

It is hoped that tomorrow they will be able to draw against their accounts, but approval of the transaction must first be granted by the Supreme Court.

Any addition to the 66 2-3 per cent payment to depositors will be contingent upon liquidation of the institution's assets, which will be carried out at once.

Blow in Fight Kills High School Coach

Statesville, N. C., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Ray Perdue, 24, Statesville High School coach, was fatally injured today at Taylorsville, in a fight with Garfield Jennings, of Taylorsville, head linesman for a football game between Taylorsville and Perdue's team.

Perdue, native of Roanoke, Va., died while being brought to a hospital here. Jennings, 22, was held in $5,000 bond pending a hearing.

Near the close of the game's first half, Coach Perdue stepped to the side lines and protested a decision to the referee. Jennings, witnesses said, struck him in the face with his fist and he dropped unconscious. Medical aid was given at once, but he died of concussion. He had coached here for two years and also taught history.

Nicholson Visions New Cyprus Revolt

Asserts Greek-Speaking Natives Are British in Theory Only.

Only in theory are the Greek-speaking inhabitants of Cyprus British subjects, says Soterios Nicholson.

"Although British guns and soldiers have put down the revolt of Cyprians against the British crown," he says, "efforts of Great Britain to hold the island in face of strong native feeling that it should be under Grecian rule are far from successful.

"The recent revolution was ill-timed and not sufficiently organized to guarantee any measure of success. But leaders of the movement now are proceeding to reorganize along lines which will be more fruitful."

BERLIN MAY INVITE HOOVER TO PARLEY

international finance experts as Marcus Wallenberg, of Sweden. The German viewpoint is that action is needed now and not further recommendations.

For this reason the credit bank plan proposed by Emile Francqui, of Belgium, is considered merely theoretical unless some organism exists for putting it into effect. The same judgment applies to certain financial plans advanced by German economists.

Only way to provide that organism, according to the German viewpoint, is by speedily calling a conference at which principal delegates would be premiers of interested European states and if possible President Hoover himself.

For the purpose of rectifying newspaper estimates, it was semiofficially announced that Germany's foreign short-term (under 12 months) indebtedness stood July 28 at 12,000,000,000 marks (about $2,830,000,000), long-term debts (over 12 months) aggregated 11,500,000,000 marks (about $2,712,000,000). Since July it is estimated about one billion marks (about $235,000,000) has been repaid.

Germany Will Not Fail On Debts, Says Engineer

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Germany, while for the moment economically and politically ailing, does not, in the opinion of Dr. Carl F. von Siemens, noted engineer and industrialist of that country intend to repudiate her debts nor default intentionally in the payment of her international obligations.

Dr. Von Siemens, guest of honor at a meeting of the Bond Club of New York, spoke on behalf of the German nation and urged leniency and sympathetic cooperation of foreign creditors to aid the country in getting back on its feet.

Castaways Will Land Today.

Balboa, Panama Canal, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The American gunboat Sacramento, bearing three American castaways back to civilization after six months on a South Pacific island, will arrive tomorrow morning. The men will be examined in quarantine before being allowed on shore.

New Lieutenant Also Is Lieutenant Colonel

(Associated Press.)

A sergeant yesterday was promoted to second lieutenant and automatically became Lieut. Colonel Millard Adams.

Evidently raising their boy to be a soldier, Adams' parents named him "Colonel."

Now, at 21, he is fairly well on his way, with this newest promotion in the Ohio National Guard.

Lieut. Colonel Adams lives in Hamilton, Ohio.

LAVAL IGNORES PLAN OF NEW CREDIT BANK

France to Seek Way to Gain Full Moral Benefit of Aid to Germany.

Paris, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Premier Laval, homeward bound from his conferences with President Hoover, is not considering the proposal to form an international credit bank for thawing out Germany's frozen credits, the Havas News Agency said today and French bankers are opposed to the scheme.

M. Laval was said to be keeping his own counsel regarding his plans to reconsider German reparations payments and has not even informed his cabinet of his conversations with President Hoover in that respect. He is scheduled to see German Ambassador von Hoesch after a meeting of his cabinet ministers next Tuesday.

The scheme as advanced by Emile Francqui, Belgian minister of state, is regarded in banking circles here as an effort of certain private bankers to release their own funds sunk in Germany. Any plan not giving the French the full moral benefit, a high official said, will be acceptable neither to the government nor the Bank of France.

A strictly French plan to deal with the situation has not been formulated, it was said, but the turn of events in Paris and Berlin within the next few days is expected to bring the two countries face to face with credits and reparations and to demand a course of action.

The counterproposal of Charles Rist, financial adviser to the premier, to place paper indorsed by the Reichsbank on the world market, was said to be strictly of his own design but it was believed his ideas would find more adherents here than such a credit bank.

The premier is due at Havre Monday morning on the liner Ile de France and will go to Paris at once to lay the ground for executing recommendations on the world economic situation as advanced by him and the American President in Washington.

Turtle Mountain Chosen As Border Peace Garden

Brandon, Manitoba, Oct. 30 (A.P.). Selection of Turtle Mountain as the site of the international peace gardens was announced today by the international committee.

Members of the committee include Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways; E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railways; Lady Eaton, of Toronto, and Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. The Turtle Mountain site is on the international boundary, partly in Manitoba and partly in North Dakota.

Lympne, Kent, England, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Miss Peggy Salaman, 19-year-old society girl, took off tonight from Lympne Airport in an attempt to set a time record on a flight by stages to South Africa. Miss Salaman only tonight informed her family of her South African plan.

GEN. CALLES CALLS FOR MEXICAN UNITY

Tells Governors Dissension, Gossip and Intrigue Must Be Ended.

Mexico City, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's strong man, who has resumed an active part in affairs of state, told an assemblage of Mexican governors tonight that dissension, intrigue, favoritism and unrest in the nation must be forever ended.

The dynamic general, who accepted the portfolio of secretary of war when the government was reorganized recently, was speaking at a banquet. Among those who heard him were President Ortiz Rubio, Perez Trevino, president of the national revolutionary party, and the governors of all except two of the Mexican states.

"From now on we shall proceed with all vigor to end dissension, gossip, intrigue and favoritism," the general said. "We are going to make national life disciplined, clear, transparent and trustworthy.

"We have been living in an epoch of inquietude which fortunately now is ended. Agitation must end. We must resolve to punish the troublemakers. Your presence here indicates your cooperation with the Federal Government. It is our duty to pause and observe our errors now, and our main defect is that politically we have been working within a closed circuit. The ability of outsiders has not been properly rewarded."

Eight of the fifteen State deputies of Chihuahua sent telegrams to the Federal Government today saying it was "inconvenient" for Andres Ortiz to remain as governor, according to a Chihuahua dispatch to the newspaper Universal Grafico.

The dispatch said the deputies demanded the voluntary resignation of the governor.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A report was received in Juarez today that Gov. Andres Ortiz of Chihuahua would continue in office.

A strong fight to oust him culminated last night at Chihuahua City with the wounding of a judge and an altercation in the Legislature.

Fuente Saucedo, Chihuahua City official, telephoned the state tax collector in Juarez that Gov. Ortiz had "straightened things out" with Mexico City officials.

Foreign Representation Menaced by Haiti Pay Cut

Diplomatic representation of Haiti in foreign countries, including the Haitian legation in Washington, was pictured yesterday as threatened with elimination if budgetary reform measures proposed by United States diplomatic and financial agents in Haiti are adopted.

United States Minister Dana G. Munro and Financial Agent Sidney De Le Rue, according to reports received here, have suggested a horizontal cut in salaries of all Haitian officials, including the president of the republic. This drastic proposal, it was said, was advanced to balance the Haitian budget, threatened with deficit of approximately $100,000. Such a reduction would not affect salaries of American officials in Haiti, still under U. S. Marine occupation.

According to Haitian quarters here, the Haitian government has already deposited with the National City Bank of New York a fund of approximately $3,000,000 to cover interest and amortization payments for the year ending October 31, 1932, on Haitian foreign obligations, which have now been reduced to approximately $10,000,000.

Simmons Murder Trial Evidence Is Concluded

Lebanon, Ind., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The last bit of evidence in the Carrie Simmons poison murder trial was put into the record today.

The case of the 47-year-old woman, who is alleged to have caused the death of two daughters, Alice Jean, 10, and Virginia, 14, was adjourned until Monday, when attorneys will begin closing arguments. Submission of the case to the jury is expected some time next Tuesday. The trial started Monday, September 28.

U. S. ACCEPTS ARMS TRUCE IN NOTE CABLED TO GENEVA

vided in the Coolidge administration will not be begun before 1933, when the arms truce will no longer be in effect.

However, the construction of six destroyers scheduled to be laid down after the first of the year will be delayed, if not ultimately cancelled. These cruisers are part of the group of eleven authoried some years ago, of which five have already been completed. The other six represent a cost of from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000. This further reduction, coming so soon after the amputation of $59,000,000 from the Navy's total budget of $401,000,000, performed by Secretary of the Navy Adams a fortnight ago, has added considerably to the discontent in the Navy forces, both in Congress and in the service itself.

Is "Gentleman's Agreement."

The State Department spokesman announced yesterday, however, that the position of the American Navy with regard to Great Britain and Japan remains unimpaired.

The same spokesman declared that the agreement to refrain from armament increases is binding insofar as a "gentleman's agreement." The other nations, such as Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan will be mutually under the same honorable obligation.

Although France was disposed to oppose the arms truce when it was suggested by Foreign Minister Grandi, it is believed that President Hoover, in his conversations with French Premier Laval, secured from him the informal assurance that France would likewise accept the arms truce, so long as it provided for the replacement of French warships, cruisers or airplanes for obsolescence or destruction.

The secretary general of the league, Sir Eric Drummond, will communicate with each nation, the replies of the different governments to enable them to consider the replies of their regional participants and to take a final decision on the truce at that time. This may possibly hold up the effectiveness of the truce but only for a few days at most.

The full text of the American reply follows:

"The Secretary of State presents his compliments to the secretary general of the League of Nations, and with reference to the latter's note of October 2 with regard to an armaments truce proposed by the assembly, has the honor to make the following declaration:

"'The Government of the United States has received the resolution of the Council of the League of Nations of September 30, 1931, suggesting an armaments truce and declares that, without prejudicing its position at the forthcoming general disarmament conference or affecting any proposal it may desire to submit to that conference, it is prepared, for the period of one year, beginning November 1, 1931, to accept the truce, provided that like action is taken by the other principal military and naval powers.

"'It is the understanding of this Government that the proposed truce shall not apply to construction which had been begun or for which contracts had been let prior to its entry into force.

"'The Government of the United States hopes that by a unanimous acceptance of this truce an atmosphere of confidence will be created which will prevent competition in armaments and prepare the ground for the successful conclusion of the general disarmament conference.'"

15 Governments Accept League of Nations Truce

Geneva, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—A total of fifteen governments had subscribed tonight to the League of Nations Assembly proposal for a world-wide arms truce for one year, beginning Sunday.

The acceptances of Denmark, Norway and Sweden were received tonight.

Other nations agreeing to the holiday include the United States, Soviet Russia, Luxembourg, Albania, Switzerland, Egypt, Chile, Japan, Siam, Latvia, Czechoslovakia and Italy.

The truce was proposed by Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy, as a means of aiding in preparation for the 1932 world disarmament conference. The league assembly took over the proposal and asked all nations to adhere.

HOUSE COOL TOWARD PLAN OF TREADWAY

(Associated Press.)

Common interests in vital issues was the key suggested yesterday by two Republicans to open the door to party cooperation in the closely divided incoming House.

Representatives Hoch, of Kansas, and Martin, of Massachusetts, said they believed that regardless of whether Republicans or Democrats organized the House, party lines would be disregarded on legislation of general good to the country.

"After the Speaker is elected and the House organization determined," Hoch said, "whether it be Democratic or Republican, we will be dealing not with mere party prospects, but with the vital interests of America."

Martin expressed belief the Republicans would unite and organize the House, but added that "on major issues of general benefit, strong elements of both parties will support them." He predicted a bipartisan vote on most legislation and declared that more contests would be between the conservatives and independents of both parties than along partisan lines.

Treadway Proposal.

In the meantime the proposal by Representative Treadway, of Massachusetts, for the House to name a temporary Speaker in event of a deadlock until certain administration recommendations had been acted upon was coolly received by House members.

Sandlin and Wilson (Democrats), Louisiana, among others, said "it would be all right if we pick the Speaker."

Rankin, of Mississippi, said "Mr. Treadway need not exercise himself. • • • The Democrats are going to organize the House and elect a Speaker on the first ballot."

In a statement, the Mississippian added:

"Something must be done to block the attempts now being made to cancel or reduce the foreign debt to the United States through moratorium or otherwise. Every intelligent man knows these moratoriums, cancellations or reductions would unload additional burdens onto the American taxpayers and that the motive behind them is to enable large financial interests in this country to collect the private loans which they have made abroad."

Representative Hope of Kansas said yesterday he had "high hopes" that Representative Homer Hoch of Kansas would be nominated as the Republican Speakership candidate.

"We Kansans are hoping for Mr. Hoch and the delegation is strong for him," Hope said. "We believe he could get the united support of the party."

Hoch has been proposed for the nomination by a large number of Midwestern members.

At least one independent Republican from the Northwest does not intend to meet with the Wisconsin insurgents at Madison to formulate demands on the regulars before Congress convenes.

To Meet in Capital.

Representative James H. Sinclair, of North Dakota, said yesterday the Progressives planned to meet in Washington late in November and there was no need for him to go to Madison "when the Wisconsin members will be here in sufficient time before Congress meets in December to discuss whatever plans they have."

He said he "probably will vote with the Republican organization if we can get a reasonable liberalization of the House rules of procedure so we can pry legislation out of committees."

Mr. Sinclair was one of the independents punished by the regulars eight years ago when he helped to lead the contest for the late Henry Allen Cooper, of Wisconsin, for Speaker against the regular candidate.

He was never reinstated to his post on the agriculture committee, although he was later given an assignment on the flood control committee.

Mr. Sinclair said he would support a rule to bring bills out of committee when 100 members of the House petition the Speaker to discharge the committee from further consideration. He said he also would advocate a rule requiring five objections before a minor bill on the consent calendar is defeated.

date set by the League of Nations, was most improbable.

They declared the Chinese had not given any indication of being able to organize responsible local governments in Manchuria. Reorganization of the Nanking Nationalist government was delaying all efforts at direct negotiation between the republic and Japan.

With diplomacy stalemated temporarily, the news of new military activity in Manchuria not involving Japanese troops was received with interest.

Chang's Forces Retreat.

Troops of Gen. Chang Hsueh-cheng, former subordinate of Gov. Chang Hsueh-liang of Manchuria, backed by troops of Gen. Ling Yin-ching, veteran Manchurian official, crossed the river Liao to attack the remaining forces of Gov. Chang, which retreated immediately toward the Great Wall.

The Shinbi Doshikai, social organization of members of the House of Peers, high army and navy officers, scholars and merchants met today and adopted a resolution opposing interference of any third party in Manchuria and also asking that Japan keep troops in Manchuria until the safety of Japanese lives and property is guaranteed.

Feeling concerning north Manchuria was easier today, after several days of rumors that Russia was preparing for trouble. The statement by L. M. Karakhan, acting foreign affairs commissar, repudiating all reports of Russian military measures intended to affect the Manchurian situation, tended to relieve the tension felt here.

Daily Oil Production Drops in September

(Associated Press.)

Daily average production of crude petroleum in the United States dropped to the lowest point in more than five years during September.

The Bureau of Mines said that in September a daily average of 2,121,000 barrels were produced. The daily production represented a decline of 86,000 barrels below the output of a year ago.

HUGE COMBINE BUYS UNITED STATES LINES

(Associated Press.)

The United States Lines, premier American flag service in the North Atlantic, yesterday passed into the hands of one of the strongest shipping combines ever formed in this country.

The eleven passenger ships, including the giant Leviathan, are now owned jointly by the Dollar-Dawson West Coast combination and the Roosevelt-International Mercantile Co., of New York.

In the group are men who have made American shipping history in the revival of this country's merchant marine since the world war.

Among them are R. Stanley Dollar, K. D. Dawson, of Portland; Kermit Roosevelt and John M. and P. A. S. Franklin.

The change in ownership was accomplished without interruption of service.

Adequate Sailings Guaranteed.

The Shipping Board, which sold the lines to Paul W. Chapman and his associates for $16,300,000 in 1929, obtained a guarantee that adequate sailing schedules will be maintained.

The combine also promised that the existing vessels and the two additional fast liners now being built will be operated in the North Atlantic and that the flagship, Leviathan, will make no less than seven annual sailings.

The new owners took over $3,170,000 of long-term obligations to the Government, representing the balance due from the Chapman group. They agreed to furnish a working capital of $3,500,000 and guaranteed the payment of $2,500,000 for completing the two new liners.

One million of the operating fund is to be in cash, the rest in letters of credit. Stockholders of the old company, which could not pay for the ships, will be paid share for share with a new issue of stocks by the combine.

Month of Negotiation.

Filing of the purchase contract with the board yesterday ended months of negotiation, which for a time found the East and West coast interests aligned against each other. Out of the threat of a shipping test of strength, grew the agreement to unite.

Mr. Chapman, who organized the group which bought the lines from the board, was represented in the Dollar-Dawson group, but to what extent was not disclosed by the board.

Chairman O'Connor said the West and East coast groups held equal share in the holding company organized under Nevada laws to take over the lines.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 91

SANDLOT enthusiasts with a good memory may remember the old Marquette Baseball League, long since consigned to the limbo of forgotten athletic associations.

But back in 1906 the league was a flourishing enterprise, and the pennant awarded annually to the outfit playing better baseball was a coveted trophy.

CANNON REITERATES DEFIANCE OF GLASS

Senator Denies Sudden Timidity Imputed to Him by Bishop.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., today renewed his invitation to Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, to publish in his newspapers, the Lynchburg News and Daily Advance, sixteen charges which the bishop said would cause him to enter suit for libel. He charged the senator with showing a "sudden timidity" not in keeping with utterances made during the past month and said he found this attitude "amazing and somewhat amusing."

Senator Glass reiterated his refusal to comply with the request as made, stating that he had too much respect for the church to engage in an "unseemly rhetorical controversy during the sessions in Lynchburg of the Virginia Methodist Conference. He added, however, that what he and his newspapers had said in the past is a matter of public record and "not a syllable uttered by me or a sentence printed by my papers will be modified or retracted, and Bishop Cannon is at liberty to pursue any course at law that he pleases with complete confidence that no pecuniary or other obligation will be evaded."

Bishop Cannon's statement, he added: "Senator Glass' sudden timidity," follows:

Glass' Words Called Absurd.

"Senator Glass' reply to my request that he change his innuendoes and insinuations against me into direct charges, to be printed in the editorial columns of the Lynchburg papers controlled by himself, is amazing and somewhat amusing.

"His announcement of his decision to leave me to the courts and the Senate investigating committee is so sudden. He has been attacking me not only for years past, but within the past 60 days attacked me as running away to Europe and as hiding behind the skirts of a woman secretary. No later than October 12 Senator Glass gave to the press a communication addressed by him to the Attorney General of the United States in which he continued his campaign of innuendoes and insinuations against me in connection with the conduct of the Goldhurst case, and as late as October 20, in a lengthy article in the New York Times, he emphasized his previous statement to the Attorney General.

"His press statement that I had timed my statement to affect the attitude of the Virginia Conference toward me is absurd and would, if true, not in any way affect the main issue involved. Senator Glass knows that the present court proceedings and the Nye committee can pass upon only two of the sixteen items enumerated by me, and that the other fourteen items can be investigated and dealt with only by a suit of libel.

Senator Refuses to Retract.

"Possibly even yet Senator Glass may shake off his sudden timidity and decide to instruct the Lynchburg News and Advance—both good properties—to publish editorially and assume full responsibility for the publication of the sixteen items which they have already published as a press release."

Senator Glass' statement was as follows:

"I do not intend that Bishop Cannon shall divert attention from the grave criminal charges made against him by responsible persons and the District of Columbia grand jury by engaging me in an unseemly rhetorical controversy during the sessions in Lynchburg of the Virginia Methodist Conference. I have too much respect for the church to yield to any such temptation.

"The little I have said about him, the little my newspapers have said, is of public record. Not a syllable uttered by me nor a sentence printed by my papers will be modified or retracted, and Bishop Cannon is at liberty to pursue any course at law that he pleases with complete confidence that no pecuniary or other obligation will be evaded. Hence, for the present, he may continue to vent his fury over the fact that by a Senate resolution I furnished him with a medium and an opportunity to perform the apparently difficult task of proving himself an honest man."

DEACON CONVICTED OF KILLING STUDENT

Daughter Told Conflicting Stories of How Youth Met His Death.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Roy G. King, 41-year-old church deacon, today was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death July 20 of Lewis (Buddy) Palmer, Colorado Springs High School student, slain while in the company of King's daughter.

The conviction carries a penalty of one to eight years in the State penitentiary. Jurors said their verdict was a compromise to avoid a deadlock. At one time the jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction.

The defense was given ten days to file motion for a new trial. Defense counsel said a retrial would be sought. Sentence will be pronounced November 10, Judge Arthur Cornforth announced after the verdict was read. The jury deliberated approximately 23 hours.

Palmer was shot to death while keeping a "pick-up date," with Glenda, King's daughter. Glenda told police the youth was shot by a hobo who assaulted her.

After her version of the slaying had been accepted by police officials, an investigation was started by Sheriff Robert M. Jackson, which resulted in Glenda's arrest. After relating several conflicting accounts and naming three Colorado Springs youths as the slayer, Glenda confessed her father killed the boy when he encountered them in Palmer's automobile. The shooting, she said, occurred during a struggle.

King was arrested and finally admitted the slaying, police said. The youths Glenda accused were released.

No motive for the crime was established, although King in his confession said he shot Palmer to protect his daughter. At the trial King repudiated his confession, as did his daughter.

"They might as well have freed him," Samuel L. Palmer, father of the slain youth, said when he heard the verdict.

Length of Stockings Will Be Standardized

(United Press.)

The standardization program that President Hoover fostered as Secretary of Commerce brought an agreement yesterday to shorten the length of milady's silk stockings.

Hosiery for women and men too, is to be standardized at shorter lengths under an agreement between manufacturers and officials of the Federal Bureau of Standards.

Hereafter, women's stockings are to be 30 inches in length. Men's will be 14 inches for size 10 and under and 14½ inches for larger sizes.

Elimination of variations in length "is of economic importance to both the wearer and the manufacturer," the Bureau of Standards said. Other advantages cited are comfort, saving in material, increased efficiency of mills, and fairer methods of competition.

SHERWOOD DENIES WALKER IS CLIENT

Accountant and Bride Leave for St. Louis on Their Way Home.

Mexico City, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Russell T. Sherwood departed by train at 9:05 (Mountain time) tonight for the United States.

Their tickets were for St. Louis, where the train is due at 11 a. m. Monday.

Sherwood said he would not go directly to New York. He declined to answer when asked if he had ever represented Mayor Walker in any transaction.

Makes Statement.

"Mayor Walker was never one of my clients," Sherwood said. "I have never been employed by Mayor Walker, I am not now employed by him and I have never been an employe nor an official of New York City."

"Regarding the activities of the investigating committee, I know of nobody more competent or more qualified to answer for his own affairs than the mayor himself," said a statement dictated by Sherwood. "I reiterate that my stay in Mexico was solely for the purpose of enjoying my [illegible] I am able to say I have enjoyed."

Court Order Issued.

New York, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Samuel Seabury, counsel for the legislative committee investigating municipal graft today, obtained a court order requiring Russell T. Sherwood to appear within seven days to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

The order also instructs the sheriff to seize any of Sherwood's property in the State, up to $100,000. This includes the right to attach the safety deposit box which Sherwood rented jointly with Mayor James J. Walker. Such seizures are to be made in order that they may satisfy any judgment that may be rendered against the missing witness.

Sherwood was subpenaed to appear before the committee for questioning as to his business relations with the mayor. When he did not appear this week, Seabury immediately started action to have him adjudged in contempt of the committee.

3,000 Reno Decrees Given in 6 Months

Estimates Show Lawyers Are $500,000 Richer; Courts $128,000.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Ties that fettered more than 3,000 married couples were severed by the Reno courts during the first half of Nevada's new six-weeks divorce law.

During the same six months it is estimated that Reno divorce lawyers were enriched by nearly $500,000 and approximately $128,000 was paid out in court and filing fees.

The 3,234 divorce complaints filed in Reno during the last six months alone exceeded by more than 1,000 the high total for any preceding twelve months in the history of Washoe County. A corresponding increase was noted in several of the sixteen other counties in Nevada.

RAIL UNIONS ASKED TO ACCEPT SLASH

New York Central Employes' Attitude Has Not Been Made Known Yet.

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A request that employes accept a 10 per cent reduction in wages for a period of one year has been presented by the New York Central Railroad to representatives of the unions and brotherhoods.

This was disclosed in an official statement by the railroad today confirming reports that negotiations between the railroad and its employes have been conducted for several days. The attitude of the unions toward the proposal has not yet been made public.

Discussion Progresses.

The statement by the railroad said: "Officers of the New York Central confirm reports that discussion is in progress with representatives of various classes of employes with a view to having them voluntarily agree to accept reduction in the scales of pay 10 per cent for a period of one year."

The railroad's statement was followed by one from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Cleveland which said that the New York Central had not conversed with that brotherhood's representatives concerning a wage cut. The railroad explained that the proposal had not yet been made to the engineers.

So far, the New York Central officials said, only the clerks and telegraphers have been asked to consider the proposal, but it is the intention of the road to send the request to all the brotherhoods and unions. The conference with the Order of Railway Telegraphers was held yesterday, and the conference with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks was held Monday.

Since the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission denying the railroads their requested 15 per cent freight rate increase, there have been repeated rumors in Wall street that the carriers generally would negotiate with employes for a voluntary wage cut in an attempt to offset dwindling revenues.

Reports Renewed.

These reports, renewed today with the New York Central announcement, became more specific and rumor had it that all the railroads in New York, including the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Pennsylvania and others, had entered into negotiations with their employes with a view to effecting a temporary 10 per cent cut.

However, the other major roads in New York said they had not held any discussions with unions or brotherhoods concerning a wage cut.

Baltimore, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, today indorsed the plan of the New York Central in seeking a voluntary wage reduction by its employes and painted a picture of better business conditions in the near future.

Mr. Willard declared that the present wave of depression could not last in a nation the size of the United States. When the upturn would come he could not say, but expressed confidence that it was not far off.

Upturn Expected.

The Baltimore & Ohio chief said that if a reduction among rail employes becomes necessary, the method of voluntary agreement between roads and the brotherhoods would be preferable to any other. His statement followed announcement that the New York Central officials were seeking such a wage agreement.

Cleveland, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Employes of the New York Central Railroad, under rules of the railroad brotherhoods, have no authority to make a separate settlement of a wage question, A. Johnston, president of the Brotherhod of Locomotive Engineers, said today, when he was informed unofficially that the railroad is negotiating for a voluntary 10 per cent wage decrease.

Not Notified.

The New York Central's negotiations have not been submitted to the Brotherhood of Engineers, Johnston said. He added that he has not even received an official notice of the existence of such negotiations, but said it was probable he would receive a notice within a few days. He had no further comment to make.

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhod of Firemen and Enginemen, expressed surprise and doubt that the reported negotiations have been started.

WORLD TARIFF BODY SUGGESTED BY HULL

(United Press.)

A three-point program for reestablishing world-wide prosperity through tariff revision and international trade agreements was advocated yesterday by Senator Cordell Hull (Democrat), Tennessee, in a speech before the Women's National Democratic Club.

Hull held the Hawley-Smoot tariff law to be an underlying cause of the depression.

"For each $100,000,000 of imports shut out by the Smoot-Hawley act, this country, by reason of retaliation and other disadvantages, suffers a loss of $500,000,000 in foreign export advantages," he said.

Hull's program calls for:

1. Establishment of a world economic conference or international trade agreement congress to eliminate by mutual consent discriminations, unfair trade practices and other economic barriers, and to promote fair, equal and friendly trade relations internationally.

2. Reciprocal trade treaties based on the most-favored-nation doctrine for tariff concessions and reductions, with a provision that if after six months Congress fails to ratify or reject such a treaty it shall be made operative by presidential proclamation.

3. Repeal of the flexible clause of the tariff law and readjustment of present tariff rates by Congress.

Bride Again Denies Opposing Colored Aid

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday denied emphatically a published report that he had stated at a meeting of the Washington Bar Association last week he would resign rather than agree to engage a colored assistant corporation counsel.

"I not only made no such statement," Mr. Bride said, "but I would welcome appointment of a colored assistant as I have several times told groups of colored citizens." The report was carried in a colored newspaper published in Baltimore.

Banner Is Taken In Bonus Parade

Veterans Not Allowed to Carry Sign on March at White House.

Divested of a banner demanding full payment of the veterans' bonus, nineteen former service men, representing themselves as the Workers' Former Service Men's League, were allowed to parade unmolested past the White House yesterday.

Park Policeman C. E. Rabbit took the banner from Solomon Harper, colored, over protest of the marchers. Police reserves were called to the scene, but allowed the veterans to march without interference through Lafayette Park to the Veterans' Bureau.

Harper said Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Administration, had agreed to see him, but Gen. Hines' offices are in the Interior Department Building, instead of the Veterans' Bureau Building. It was said at his office that Harper had made no appointment, and the general was in executive conference all afternoon.

the twelve Federal Reserve Districts as well as of the national total.

A few hours before the White House issued its summary of events, George M. Simultaneously the tickers informed the financial world that supplementary organizations to liquidate frozen real estate mortgage paper had been launched in seven States.

Reassuring Influences.

Behind the abrupt change in the credit situation, official observers see the reassuring influence of several major developments on the world stage during the last two weeks. First, runs this view, the Hoover-Laval conversations have made a beginning after twelve years on the basic problem of war debts and reparations. Next, the sweeping victory of the national government in England last Tuesday gave definite direction to affairs there after a long period of faltering and uncertainty. Finally, assurances from the Gifford committee that the domestic problem of unemployment relief will be administered vigorously on all fronts throughout the winter coincided with reports from widely scattered industrial centers of slightly expanding production schedules.

At the same time negotiations between the Interstate Commerce Commission and a committee of the Association of Railways Executives produced assurances that the emergency rate scheme suggested two weeks ago would be worked out satisfactorily well in advance of the official December 1 dead line.

Chicago Corn Pool Started.

Bearing directly upon the recent advances in commodity prices, officials view completion of the cotton pool in the South and the launching of a corn pool in Chicago as the most encouraging developments of the last two weeks. Financial arrangements recently completed in New Orleans will enable the trade to withhold about 7,500,000 bales from the market this year against 1932 acreage reduction. In Chicago bankers have perfected preliminary plans for a 10,000,000 pool applicable to corn.

The action of the New York Clearing House Association in taking under advisement a proposal to prohibit loans to brokers for the account of nonbanking reserves also is regarded as an important stabilizing factor in the long-time view. Because the volume of this type of loan now is abnormally small, bankers believe the practice might be abolished with a minimum of inconvenience and adjustment. The way then would be blocked against the recurrence of the 1928-29 experience, when something more than $4,000,000,000 in such loans wrenched control of the credit situation from the Federal Reserve system. It was this new reservoir of speculative funds which carried the stock market to its final dizzy heights. Likewise, it was the panicky withdrawal of these funds after the crash which shocked the financial system almost to the point of prostration.

FUTURE BRIDE OF ARMY ACE

PRESIDENT SELECTING "JURY" TO TRY NAVY LEAGUE CHARGE

that Mr. Gardiner was, in effect, talking through his hat.

Inasmuch as it is the Navy that is involved, it would seem that Charles Francis Adams, the Secretary of that department, ought to be called, or at least some of his admirals. For the admirals, this would be somewhat embarrassing. Naturally, they stand for the same thing the Navy League stands for—a powerful Navy. At the same time, however, they must remember that the President is their commander-in-chief, and that he has been attacked.

Stimson's Statement.

Secretary of State Stimson is another possible witness for the President. The story he might tell was contained in a statement he made in answer to a question at his press conference yesterday. It follows:

"In answer to your question, I have been handed a copy of the Navy League's statement and, although I have not read it through, my eye fell on a single sentence on the first page. This statement touches on two things with which I am personally familiar. The statement says that there were admittedly agreements at the Rapidan 'never officially divulged in their entirety.' This is entirely false and has been publicly refuted many times.

Senate Access to Records.

"The statement says that 'the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the Senate committee on foreign relations to see the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London naval conference of 1930.' This also is false. As a matter of fact, we permitted every member of the Senate committee on foreign relations who would agree not to publish the records in the newspapers to have full access to the records. The only members of the committee on foreign relations who did not see the records were persons who were unwilling to make that promise. We never refused to allow the Senate committee to see them in executive session. The committee never sat in executive session. The whole statement is entirely false. Senator Reed had the papers in his custody and was authorized by me to show them to any member who would promise to see them in the confidence in which diplomatic papers are regularly kept. He showed them to several members of the committee, how many I do not know. All of this is a matter of public record and has been published many times.

"Any pamphlet which starts off with two such misstatements, so deliberately and flagrantly false, is not worthy of any further comment."

Theodore Joslin, Secretary to the President, made a statement yesterday that evidently was designed to counteract stories that the President was aroused because Gardiner had said he was "abysmally ignorant."

"The objects of the President's inquiry," Joslin said, "are, first, to call the attention of the country and members of the Navy League to the tissue of falsehoods that have been spread by Mr. Gardiner, and, second, to show the true purpose of these falsehoods and the people who are interested in propagandizing them."

Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, associate secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, said that Mr. Gardiner was "fighting with his back to the wall," otherwise he would never have made his "astounding attack" on the President.

It was Mrs. Morgan's pacifist organization that induced President Coolidge first to modify and then to scrap the annual national Defense Day exercises.

Capitol Hill Comment.

Comment on Capitol Hill was limited. The night before Chairman Will Wood, of the House appropriations committee, who is determined to reduce naval expenditures, called the Navy League officials "a bunch of bushwhackers."

Senator Simeon D Fess (Republican), of Ohio, said:

"For 20 years I have stood for an adequate Navy, just as much so today as ever. My understanding is the President will not be satisfied with anything short of an adequate Navy.

"These self-appointed propagandists make it quite embarrassing for the legislator to support an adequate program. However, he must do it in spite of the propagandists."

Gardiner Remains Silent.

The Navy League headquarters here is located at 1749 E street northwest, about two blocks from the Navy Department, and in a building that once housed a saloon.

A reporter, calling there yesterday, found Mr. Gardiner busy dictating a telegram to a woman clerk. The man who has been elected to the Anarias Club by President Hoover is tall and angular, given to quick, nervous speech, and wears horn-rimmed glasses.

The reporter, who had seen in "Who's Who" that Mr. Gardiner retired from business in 1914 to do "war work," was anxious to find out whether he had served in the war with Spain or the World War, but Mr. Gardiner had nothing to say.

Like President Hoover, however, Mr. Gardiner seemed to be enjoying the current row with the White House.

Mr. Gardiner is now 56 years old. He is a native of Boston. After graduating from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology he became an electrical engineer and was an associate of Henry L. Doherty in the public utilities field.

Prominent Men on Board.

In its last big controversy, the Navy League was arrayed against Josephus Daniels, then Secretary of the Navy. Daniels issued an order forbidding members of the league to board any Navy vessel or visit any navy yard or station. This order later was rescinded by Secretary Edwin Denby.

Thus far the present Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Adams, has had nothing to say about the Hoover-Gardiner controversy. Leaving the White House after yesterday's Cabinet meeting, he said he had not even read Gardiner's charges.

Inasmuch as President Hoover has asked for the complete roster of the Navy League, it is believed that he has decided not to appoint any members of that organization's executive committee to his proposed "vindication" committee.

The members of this executive committee, in addition to Mr. Gardiner, are Walter Bruce Howe, former Senator James W. Wadsworth, jr., of New York; Theodore Douglas Robinson, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Henry Cabot Lodge, Ogden Reid, of the New York Herald-Tribune; Arthur Curtiss James, of New York, and Col. Henry Breckenridge, former Assistant Secretary of War.

Roosevelt Was Member.

N. M. Hubbard, jr., of Chicago, and Nelson Macy, of New York, also are members of the executive committee.

Directors of the Navy League include Woodbury Blair, Clement L. Bouve, Mrs. James Carroll Frazer, William M. Galvin, and David Jayne Hill, all of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Aida de Acosta Breckenridge, Mrs. Robert W. Kelley and Mrs. Herbert Longendyke, of New York City; George P. Chittenden, Boston, Mass.; Templeton Crocker, Burlingame, Calif.; Marion Epply, Newport, R. I.; George E. Leach, Minneapolis, Minn.; Gen. Charles F. Macklin, Baltimore; Charles Martindale, Indianapolis; Clarence Ousley, of Fort Worth, Tex., former national commander of the American Legion, and Mrs. Leigh Richmond Smith, of Berkeley, Calif.

William M. Galvin, executive secretary of the league, recalled yesterday that the organization has had on its membership rolls such notables as the late Cardinal Gibbons, Theodore Roosevelt, whose birthday was selected by the league for the celebration of Navy Day, gave the organization a part of the money that was awarded to him when he won the Nobel peace prize.

Church Council's Head Commends Hoover Stand

New York, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—President Hoover's efforts to effect economies in next year's naval budget and in military appropriations generally were commended today in a statement by Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches in America.

TRADE GUIDE AGENCY APPROVED BY SLOAN

Motors Chief Disagrees With New York Banker at Senate Hearing.

(Associated Press.

Big business disagreed yesterday on the desirability of setting up a governmental agency to warn against economic excesses.

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors, testifying before a Senate manufactures subcommittee, recommended enactment of the bill proposed by Chairman La Follette of the committee to establish such a council, and said he believed economic planning is possible.

Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank, frankly told the committee, however, that "there are bound to be business depressions every so often" and added that "there isn't any commission or brain that can stop it."

Wiggin took the position, nevertheless, that it would do no harm to try the council idea, though he was quite certain it would not succeed.

Wiggin Stresses Basel Report.

The New York banker, questioned by the commitee more than an hour, discussed current business problems from many angles and outlined what he considers the causes and cures.

He volunteered little information, and most of his testimony was in the form of brief answers to La Follette's questions.

Wiggin summarized the findings of the international bankers committee at Basel last summer as his views on steps necessary to business recovery. They were rapprochement between France and Germany, reductions in reparations and war debts, and lower tariffs.

High tariffs and diversion of bank money into speculative channels were named by Wiggin as among the causes of the depression.

Questioned closely by La Follette, Wiggin denied banks were responsible for the depression, but agreed their credit policies had turned out to be so liberal that they encouraged expansion.

Sloan Strongly Indorses Bill.

Sloan sat on the edge of his chair and leaned over the committee table as though eager to answer La Follette's questions.

"As the bill stands I am for it," he said. "I'm very much in favor of it and I think it's a step in the right direction." He added that if it was composed of a group of really big men "something would come out of it."

"It's a scheme that would accomplish a great deal through evolution," he said.

Sloan advocated liberalization of antitrust laws in the public interest, long time planning of public works, characterized proposals for an international automobile cartel as impractical and told of conditions in the automobile industry.

Sees End to Exports.

The President of General Motors said he thought there was not much of a future for the automobile export trade.

"The world is setting up tariffs, and it seems to be the desire of all countries to be industrially self-sustaining," he asserted.

He predicted that even after economic recovery this country's export trade will still be curtailed.

Wiggin foresaw a "substantial improvement in business" in this country, but said recovery abroad was necessary before there could be complete recovery here.

La Follette asked if anything had been learned from present conditions to prevent another business slump.

Holds Stable Trade Impossible.

"We have learned something," Wiggin replied, "but we all forget very quickly. A new generation makes the same mistakes the old one did. Nothing will prevent recurrences of business troubles."

The banker said he thought it impossible to stabilize business.

"Manufacturers keep on manufacturing as long as they can make a profit," he said. "They can't see ahead far enough to stop producing as long as there is a demand."

Wiggin also approved proposals for modifying the antitrust laws, but agreed with La Follette that the United States Chamber of Commerce plan suggested price fixing.

"If modification of the Sherman act involved fixing prices by the Government I would be opposed to it," he said.

"You would consider that too high a price to pay?" La Follette asked.

"I would," Wiggin replied.

Suit for Child Adopted By Hayakawa Delayed

Los Angeles, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A continuance until November 6 of the suit filed by Ruth Noble, actress, to regain custody of a 2-year-old boy whose parentage she said she shared with Sessue Hayakawa, Japanese film actor, was granted in Superior Court today.

The suit asked nullification of an agreement by which Miss Noble said she was paid money with promises of more for custody of the child who was adopted by Hayakawa and his wife last August. She said the child was born while she and the actor were on a vaudeville tour. No indication was given the case had been settled out of court.

Native Hero Fails to Save American Clawed by Lion

Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A native gunbearer emerged today as the heroic figure in a desperate struggle with a wounded lion which cost the life of an American hunter in the African wilds.

W. H. Herren, a contractor, of Aberdeen, Wash., who was on a hunting expedition in Kenya with his wife and two other Americans, was fatally clawed in the encounter and died in a hospital at Mwanza last Sunday from the effects of gangrene poisoning.

Separating from the main party, Herren and Gus Peret, of Portland, Oreg., established a camp near Tanganyika last Friday and started out on a hunting and photographing trip. Herren shot a male lion and, believing it was dead, approached while Peret ground the film.

"Gus, he's got me," Herren suddenly shouted and Peret saw that the supposedly dead lion had leaped upon his companion. They rolled about the ground and the hunter thrust his two hands in the beast's mouth to stand him off. Peret was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting the man.

At this point the gunbearer crept up on the thrashing pair, seized the lion's tail and dragged it off Herren. Peret then shot the animal to death. The victim was rushed to Ikoma, where a part of one leg was amputated, but efforts to save him were fruitless.

The party plans to return to London by airplane with Herren's ashes. The others are Mrs. Herren and W. H. Colman, of Seattle, Wash. They had planned an extensive safari to obtain specimens for Washington University, the Los Angeles Museum and the Cincinnati Zoo.

BANKS WILL RENEW BIG BRITISH CREDIT

U. S. and French Institutions Agree to Three Months' Extension of Loan.

New York, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank and the Bank of France today agreed to renew part of the $250,000,000 credit they jointly gave to the Bank of England August 1 for a period of three months.

Each of the two institutions will renew $75,000,000 of the credit for another three months from tomorrow when the credit expires. This leaves a balance of $100,000,000 due the two institutions, of which $50,000,000 is to come to the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

A London dispatch said the Bank of England was arranging sale of 15,000,000 pounds sterling gold bars in part provision of paying the balance.

In announcing the extension of the credit, the New York Federal Reserve Bank issued the following statement:

"On August 1, 1931 announcement was made that the Federal Reserve Bank in association with other reserve banks had agreed to purchase from the Bank of England up to approximately $125,000,000 in prime commercial bills. That agreement expires October 31, 1931.

"The Federal Reserve Bank of New York in association with other Federal Reserve banks has renewed the agreement for a period of three months for approximately the equivalent of $75,000,000. The amount required by the Bank of England.

"Renewal of this agreement with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has been made in cooperation with the Bank of France which took part in the credit arrangement in favor of the Bank of England now aggregating $150,000,000."

Klan Denies Signs Were Put on Roads

Bitting Says Guard Will Watch for Posters of Political Attack.

Having denounced the placing of any signs attacking the candidacy of any candidate for public office in Arlington County at the election which will be held on Tuesday, Howard E. Bitting, exalted cyclops of Ballston Klan, No. 6, announced last night that he will lead a large group of the members of the klan over the roads of the county tonight in an effort to apprehend the person or persons who have erected signs.

Albert H. Cohen to whom it has been revealed the klan signs were directed, last night said that the rumors current in Arlington County to the effect that he has withdrawn from the race are absolutely groundless.

IDLE INSURANCE ACT MEETS OPPOSITION

Manufacturers Fight Move by Governments; Favor Voluntary Action.

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Imposition of State and Federal unemployment insurance on private industry was opposed by the National Association of Manufacturers today.

"We urge the consideration by national and local government of policies stimulating voluntary action in relation to this problem by permitting deduction from taxation of reserves or expenditures to provide unemployment reserves," the resolution said.

"The natural desire of management to improve every circumstance of employment relations assures that reward, rather than penalty, encourages the development of policy."

A grave responsibility rests upon all employers to seek, by every rational means, to maintain and stabalize employment, and contribute in their respective localities to unemployment relief, said the resolution.

It was asserted that neither Government nor management can assure uninterrupted employment, but a sound special system should constantly endeavor to minimize the occurrence of unemployment and to effect and conserve enlarged employment opportunities.

C. S. Armstrong, of Worcester, Mass., was chairman of the resolutions committee.

In a resolution recommending administrative modification of the antitrust laws, the committee urged wider voluntary cooperation, accomplished through improved relations between Government and management. This, it was said, is an indispensable condition of recovery from adverse business conditions and deserves immediate consideration by Congress.

The association also urged maintenance of the protective tariff to "equalize conditions of competition on the American level."

Pittsburgh Meters Win In Capital Controversy

Settling a prolonged technical controversy, the District Commissioners yesterday awarded a contract for providing 6,000 water meters at $6 each to the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Co., although the Badger Meter Manufacturing Co. submitted a lower bid.

Capt. Hugh P. Oram, assistant Engineer Commissioner, and Water Department officials held that the Badger bid did not comply with specifications. They were sustained by the Bureau of Standards. Representative John C. Schafer, of Wisconsin, appealed to the Commissioners on behalf of the Badger company.

FARRELL DISCERNS BETTERMENT SIGNS

Informs Steel Constructors Cutthroat Competition Should Be Stopped.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 30 (A.P.).—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, expressed optimism over the country's business future at a "shop talk" session here today.

A number of delegates to the annual meeting of the American Institute of Steel Construction gathered in his hotel room following adjournment of the convention.

Farrell said he saw unmistakable signs of improvement in conditions; and although they were slight, he said he believed it was an indication the country already was headed for better times.

He reiterated what he said he had been preaching for years, that organizations can greatly improve conditions if they eliminate "cutthroat" competition.

Basis for Farrell's optimism is provided in recent announcements by the Steel Corporation, especially in Pittsburgh district, of resumption of work at mills which have been on a greatly reduced schedule for weeks. Between 3,000 and 4,000 men will go back to their jobs Monday at the Edgar Thompson Works, Braddock, Pa. Several thousand men resumed work at the Homestead, Pa., works this week.

C. N. Fitts, Boston, was reelected president of the institute today. Clyde MacCormack, of Phoenixville, Pa., was named first vice president; C. G. Conley, Mount Vernon, Ohio, second vice president; T. J. Foster, New York, treasurer, and Robert T. Brooks, Long Island City, N. Y., assistant treasurer.

The institute will meet here again next year.

PHOENIX MOB FIGHTS TO SEE RUTH JUDD

concerted rush in an effort to see the girlish slayer.

Women with children in their arms, and three feminine sympathizers with bouquets in their hands, were held behind the guard ropes as Mrs. Judd stepped to the ground. McFadden and Mrs. Jordan, grasped her by the arms, one on either side, and sprang for the door.

Mrs. Judd kept pace between them, scarcely looking right or left, as she was rushed through the courthouse rear basement entrance, through the sheriff's office, and into an elevator which was waiting.

Two minutes later, six floors above, she had been entered officially into the jail by Sheriff McFadden.

She opened her lips for the first time since the courthouse had been reached.

"Well," she breathed, "I'm glad I'm here at last."

Arizona, faced directly with the problem of disposal of the Winnie Ruth Judd case, has had meager experience—despite its erstwhile gun-toting and cattle-rustling reputation—with women killers.

In its history, either as a State or a territory, Arizona has convicted 28 women of slayings, on charges ranging down to manslaughter. Only two were convicted of first-degree murder during the 53 years records have been preserved, and only one of them has been hanged, Mrs. Eva Dugan.

Should a jury of Maricopa County citizens find Mrs. Judd guilty of murder in the first degree, without recommendation for mercy, she would be hanged, even though the State should change its method before the date of her execution.

Tank Perfecter Dies in Poverty.

Berlin, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Friedrich Wilhelm Goebel, who was credited with perfecting the advanced type of tanks which Germany used with startling effect in the World War, died today in extreme poverty.

Gandhi to Visit King George In His Loin Cloth and Shawl

London, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi will don his coarse white loin cloth, homespun shawl and sandals next Thursday and go up to Buckingham Palace to have tea with the king and queen.

A royal command to attend the tea party was placed in the thin brown hand of the Indian Nationalist leader today. Peering through his large spectacles, Gandhi saw that a note in the lower right-hand corner read, "Morning dress." He said, of course, he would wear morning dress, which, to him, means his regular native apparel.

All of the India round-table conference delegates will attend the party. It will be the first time the king has seen Gadhi since the Nationalist leader arrived in London to demand that the British government grant independence to the people of India. Upon arrival, Gandhi said that if he had the pleasure of meeting the king he intended to wear his native costume.

Gandhi plans to appear in loin cloth and shawl among the many guests who will be at Buckingham Palace, including the rich and splendidly clad princes of India. Although he was warned before his arrival in London that the meager costume he wears in India might prove too scanty for the chill British climate, Gandhi persisted in his refusal to wear European clothes and has wrapped himself in warm blankets and shawls as the weather became more severe.

OSIAS URGES U. S. TO FREE FILIPINOS

Resident Commissioner Is Speaker at Interior Department.

An ardent plea for America to "fulfil its sacred pledge" and grant independence to the Philippines, was made last night by Camilo Osias, resident commissioner from the Philippines, at the Philippine flag day ceremonies at the Interior Department.

Commissioner Osias declared every President since McKinley had promised the islands their freedom as they demonstrate their ability to maintain a stable government. That time has come, and it is now the duty of the United States to make good its promise, he said.

He traced the history of the Philippine flag since, under the Spanish rule, the death penalty was imposed for its display. The American Government permits the emblem to be shown so long as it is displayed with and on the left of the American colors.

The commissioner was introduced by Senor Mauro Baradi, president of the Filipino Club. There were songs by Mrs. Osias in the Tagalog dialect and in Spanish; and Silvia, Salvador, Stella and Sebastian Segura appeared in songs and dances. Arturo Tomelden was master of ceremonies.

Man Found Wounded By Knife Will Not Talk

Bleeding from a deep knife wound in his right hip, Jack Hoy, 40 years old, of 2515 Cliffbourne place northeast, was found by a passerby early yesterday leaning against a tree in front of 2431 Eighteenth street northwest, weak from loss of blood.

The man was discovered by Philip Suris, of 3012 Fourteenth street northwest, who summoned the Emergency Hospital ambulance. Hoy refused to tell police how he received his wound. He was kept at the hospital for observation.

BALTIMORE WOMEN ACCUSE D. C. CLUB

hostesses "finally condescended to permit us to go on anyhow."

Then, according to Mrs. Sloman, the Baltimore women played around under the State handicap, 9 for nine holes, and she made a score of 43—9—34. Mrs. William B. Hurst, jr., women's champion of the Elk Ridge Hunt Club, made 44—7—37, and she, too, was listed for a low net prize before she went out to play a two-some exhibition match, Mrs. Sloman said. She never drew for the prize, but was listed as having lost out in the draw when she returned from the twosome, Mrs. Sloman continued.

"Four out of the five prizes given in the low net class should have gone to Baltimore women," Mrs. Sloman declared, "and all of the Baltimore women who were there are highly incensed at the treatment we got."

Mrs. Sloman said she was "particularly disturbed" at the fact that the first low net prize, the loving cup she believes she won, was awarded to Mrs. J. C. Rhyne, of the Congressional Club, Washington.

"Mrs. Rhyne's handicap was fixed up afterwards," Mrs. Sloman asserted, explaining that Mrs. Rhyne has played in tournaments which entitle her only to a handicap of twelve for a full course, and not one of fourteen, or seven for the tournament she played yesterday.

Nothing was said about the State handicap under which the Baltimore women played, Mrs. Sloman said, "until Mrs. Trace, Mrs. Hurst and myself turned in low scores."

"Washington woman have no right to question the State handicaps of Baltimore women under any circumstances, anyhow," she continued.

Mrs. Rhyne, Mrs. Sloman explained, had come in third in the low gross with a score of 41, but with the handicap of 7 was placed first on the revised prize winning list for the first low net prize.

"Regardless of the handicap, if they objected to that," Mrs. Sloman said, "I was a scratch player and should have gotten a gross prize without counting the handicap on my gross score of 43.

"I want to know from Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Tuckerman why the original prize list was changed after it was posted and the fact was completely ignored that myself and Mrs. Hurst were not given the low gross prizes, not to say the low net prize for which I was posted."

Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, of Indian Spring, won the first low gross prize with a score of 39. Fourth low gross went to Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., of Chevy Chase, with a score of 44, and fifth to Mrs. Norman B. Frost, of Washington, with 45.

Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, president of the National Women's Country Club, said last night that she had not yet been informed by Mrs. Jerome Sloman, of Baltimore, concerning the protest in the award of prizes at the recent tournament. Mrs. Tuckerman declared that any misunderstanding doubtless was due to the fact that the Baltimore women were expected to play under their respective club handicaps rather than their State handicaps. This provision was announced before the tournament, she said. The tournament was directed by Mrs. Guy Henry, chairman of the golf committee, who could not be reached for a statement last night.

The board of governors consists of Lady Lindsay, Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. John Henry Dwight, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. James E. Hughes, Mrs. Charles MacVeagh, Mrs. J. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Frank W. Votes for Filipino Women Advocated by Mrs. Hurley

Secretary's Wife Refuses Comment on Question of Independence.

(Associated Press.)

The hard working, capable and charming women of the Philippine Islands gave Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley a crusade's conviction that they ought to be voters.

The striking young wife of the Secretary of War revealed this yesterday in telling what she did while her husband pondered independence problems in the light of a first-hand study of conditions. She said in effect that she had what is known as a grand time.

"It is my opinion"—Mrs. Hurley spoke earnestly—"that no nation can rise above the moral or intellectual standards of its women.

"The Philippine women will lead in the advancement of education and the building of the Philippine nation. They should be permitted to participate publicly in this work by having the right to vote."

It wasn't that she advanced the internal political reform, woman suffrage, as a step toward Philippine independence; Mrs. Hurley wouldn't venture any comment on that subject. It was clear she had her own opinion, but obviously she felt it was one about which her husband should talk for the family.

The women who met her and entertained and showered her with favors, however, she championed enthusiastically. She explained it is usually they who manage domestic finances and they who have led a wide movement for educational development.

Yet the Filipino women, Mrs. Hurley found, have gone American less slowly than their menfolk. They still wear the beautiful and picturesque mestizo costume of stiff gauze like blouse made from pina or pineapple cloth, with a heavy silk skirt and long train, all intricately hand embroidered. Mrs. Hurley brought one back, and treasures it.

"The men wear American clothes almost entirely," she said. "They are succeeding in being Occidental."

MRS. PATRICK J. HURLEY

Perhaps for this reason, Mrs. Hurley saw few strange sights. She found the scenery unforgettable, however, particularly the blue and green and purple water through which she cruised among the islands for a week.

While the Secretary conferred with Philippine officials, Mrs. Hurley inspected many schools. And then, again, the Filipino women endeared themselves.

"With all the independence furore, this question was the chief one about which everybody was thinking," she said, "yet the women who were with me constantly never once mentioned it—they seemed to understand."

The "very gentle, very uncritical" population in general pleased Mrs. Hurley.

"Their welcome, their cheers, their farewell, were so kindly"—she made a gesture as if searching for words—"I can't tell you how it appealed to me. They were always so smiling, always strewing flowers, always calling 'mabuhuy'—a happy life!"

RITCHIE DENOUNCES DRY LAW AND TARIFF

New York Southern Society Applauds Candidacy for Presidency.

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A demobilization of political oratory and a mobilization of the constructive brains of the country were advanced by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland tonight before the New York Southern Society as the logical means of solving the Nation's problems.

"The day for meeting crises by beating political tom-toms has passed," he said, as he called for a union of politics and economics.

The occasion of the governor's address was the formal opening in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel of the new home of the society.

As Gov. Ritchie concluded, from one of the tables at which 1,300 were seated a voice shouted:

"I move we approve the nomination and election of Gov. Ritchie as the next President!"

Applause and cheers followed.

In criticizing political activities of the past he denounced prohibition, the tariff and Government ownership of utilities.

"We pass a tariff ostensibly in the interest of American business and American farmers," he said, "and it pretty nearly ruins our ability to do business with the world at the very time we need world markets for our surplus goods and produce.

"We try to lift the Western farmer and the Northwestern farmer up by his bootstraps, by purchasing millions of bushels of wheat in the vain hope of stabilizing the price, and then we dare not sell it for fear of breaking the market altogether. So we exchange it for Brazilian coffee and thus put the Government into competition with business.

"It may be bad politics to say it, but I do not believe there is any magic remedy."

Motorcyclist Arrested After Woman Is Injured

The operator of a motorcycle was held on charges of reckless driving last night following an accident which resulted in injuries to a woman pedestrian at Massachusetts avenue and Third street northwest.

The woman, Mrs. Elsie Barker, 62 years old, of 312 D street northeast, was taken to Casualty Hospital in an automobile. She is in an undetermined condition with a concussion of the brain. The operator of the motorcycle, Howard Clements, 21 years old, colored, of 1850 Third street northwest, struck the woman as she was attempting to cross the street, according to police.

its proceedings, you are in honor bound to see it through. It was not necessary for us to join the League of Nations to write an individual note to Japan about the Kellogg piffle pact.

"No War in Orient."

"There is no real war in the Orient, because you can't have war between a chopstick and a machine gun. Japan, violating every treaty designed to promote peace, has with the strong arm taken part of Manchuria, and what Japan takes she keeps. The administration, acting for international bankers, seizes upon the occasion to rush us into the League of Nations—the league rejected by the United States Senate and at the polls repudiated by the American people.

"The act of the administration takes us into Europe's political controversies and is in violation of the Constitution and in defiance of the people's will. The only remedy left the people against their betrayers is the ballot box. Next year Americans must reaffirm the old American policy of friendship for all nations, political connections with none, and in emphatic tones again say this government is American, and must be administered not first for Europeans, but first for Americans."

COURTS WILL DECIDE RIVER NAVIGABILITY

Power Commission Agrees to Step in Controversy on Virginia Stream.

(Associated Press.)

The long controverted question of the navigability of the New River in Virginia is to be presented to the courts for settlement.

Under pressure from Attorney General Mitchell and Senator Walsh, of Montana, the Power Commission has agreed to the step. It marks the end of a dispute within the commission and carries out the will of the minority, as recorded in the decision refusing a special type of license to the Appalachian Power Co. to construct a dam near Radford, Va.

The commission held the river contributed to interstate commerce and maintained that its decision could more properly be based upon the section of the water power act dealing with that phase, than upon the question of navigability.

Power Company Contention.

The power company brought suit on the ground that the New River was not navigable. The case is now pending in the United States District Court at Lynchburg, Va. It is regarded as a test of the Power Commission's authority and the constitutionality of the law operating it. A number of States intervened in the commission's hearing.

Attorney General Mitchell took a hand in the matter after the power commission had refused to agree that the power company's contention of the river's nonnavigability should be answered.

Two members of the commission, Frank R. McNinch and Claude L. Draper, proposed and vigorously supported a proposal that the commission reverse a finding of the former commission that the river was nonnavigable.

As the impasse within the commission continued over answering the company's suit, Mitchell called the members together. He supported the view that the case be tried on the question of navigability.

Senator Walsh's Position.

In the meantime Senator Walsh wrote Chairman Smith that the question had evoked "considerable discussion." He said: "There is a widespread conviction that it is navigable, and that the order of the commission assailed ought to be upheld on that ground."

"Whatever conclusion may be arrived at touching the controverted question upon which the order of the commisison rests, those entertaining that view are naturally solicitous about whether the commission will meet the question of navigability by taking issue on the averment of the bill in that regard."

The Justice Department is preparing to contest the suit on the grounds of navigability as well as on the grounds that the New River, as principal contributory to the Kanawha, is a serious factor in interstate commerce. The Kanawha has a dredged channel and is an important link in the inland waterway system.

Mrs. Hoover Visits Classes at Goucher

Honorary Degree Holder Most Interested in Gym Work.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who holds an honorary degree from Goucher College, attended classes at the college today, listened to lectures without taking a single note, and remarked after it was all over that she liked the idea of receiving a degree before sitting in a classroom.

Her visit today was her first since she received the degree of doctor of laws from Goucher last April. Mrs. Hoover was the honor guest of the alumnae council, and her stay was so planned that she took part in the general activities of the campus, from attending class to watching a hockey game.

The First Lady was little interested in a lecture on economics, which she attended, and a history class seemed equally dull. But the gymnasium work provided exclamations of approval and surprise.

MT. VERNON HIGHWAY ORIGINATOR IS DEAD

M. B. Harlow, of Alexandria, Dies at Daughter's Home in Capital.

M. B. Harlow, Alexandria banker and the first sponsor of the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Giffin, 1908 Kalorama road northwest. He was 83 years old.

Mr. Harlow was born in Alexandria in 1848. He lived there until moving to Washington in 1918. After coming here he remained interested in that city and spent much time there. He had been vice president of the Alexandria First National Bank since 1909 and was a director of that institution for the last 41 years.

After being educated at St. John's Academy, in Alexandria, he entered business. He conceived the idea of a boulevard connecting the National Capital with the home of George Washington, along the shore of the river, in 1886 and in the next year formed the Mount Vernon Avenue Association, of which he was secretary-treasurer for many years.

When he was elected a member of the board of health of Alexandria in 1872, Mr. Harlow's public career began. In 1874 he was elected to the city council and in 1876 was elected city treasurer, serving until 1900, when he retired from public service.

During the time he was city treasurer it was proposed to reduce the school term from ten months to seven because of a deficit in the funds. He told the board of education that he would not allow this and said he would pay the teachers from his own funds as long as the deficit existed in order to maintain the term at ten months.

Mr. Harlow is survived by a son, William K. Harlow, of Philadelphia; four daughters, Mrs. Coffin, Miss Lollie C. Harlow, and Miss Mary Harlow, of Washington, and Mrs. Ross Elliott, of Riverton, N. J. There are eight grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, Alexandria.

MOVE MADE TO CITE PITTS ON CONTEMPT

Alleged Spurious Papers of Defense May Be Basis of New Action.

Government prosecutors yesterday asked Justice F. D. Letts, in the District Criminal Court, to cite G. Bryan Pitts for contempt for introducing into records of the court, in his trial last December, some 140-odd alleged spurious documents in his defense.

The matter was not acted upon by Justice Letts because another case had been scheduled for the afternoon.

Request came in the midst of a hearing on pleas in abatement by Pitts' counsel, in an indictment returned eleven months ago. The plea is that a grand juror was over the age limit of 65 years and was therefore not a legal grand juror.

Government Prosecutors Neil Burkinshaw and Nugent Dodds, assistant Attorney General, asked that the pleas be dismissed because they were tardy. They pointed to a Supreme Court decision allowing, in one case, less than a week for such a plea, whereas the Pitts' pleas are eleven months old.

The case will not be decided until a further hearing. Dozier A. DeVane and Leon Tobriner, Pitts' counsel, denied in open court a story published in an afternoon newspaper that some 400-odd indictments would be quashed if the court held that the grand juror was over age. They pointed out that all cases which had gone to trial were stopped from now appealing the validity of the indictment. The case, they said, will affect only the Pitts indictment.

Validity of District Auto Title Upheld

Bride Holds Certificates Show Owner Within Law's Meaning.

The validity of the certificates of title issued to Washington automobile owners by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic was upheld yesterday by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride in an opinion submitted to the District Commissioners. The opinion also sustained the authority of the District heads to define the term "owner" in the regulations governing traffic tags.

The opinion was solicited by the commissioners after E. H. Weisbender, Department of Justice attorney, had challenged the legality of many titles issued on the contention that the credit company is the owner of a time-payment car until the final payment is made.

Pointing out that the courts have already upheld State laws which consider the car buyer the owner, Mr. Bride said: "Mr. Weisbender overlooks the fact that the seller * * * and the buyer * * * are interested in one thing only, while possession obtained thereby by such purchaser involves absolute ownership in so far as the general operating and walking public are concerned."

Driver Who Hit Woman In Safety Zone Sought

Police are searching for a large sedan bearing Maryland license plates which yesterday swept across a street car safety zone at Eighteenth street and Belmont road northwest, slightly injuring a woman who was waiting for a car.

The woman, Maude Moore, colored, 31 years old, was taken to Emergency Hospital with cuts about the face. Her condition is not considered serious.

means of a system of furloughs for all.

So far as the District government is concerned that is probably as far as the matter will be carried. District officials do not contemplate adoption of the recommendations advanced by the Gifford committee, headed by Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, that married women should be displaced in favor of unemployed, and that existing municipal jobs should be spread around through a system of part-time work.

President Hoover refrained yesterday from commenting on the recommendations made in the Wheeler report, and it was reported that, at least so far, the report stood on its own feet without direct approval from the Chief Executive.

Warning that more than talk is necessary to relieve unemployment distress and prevent "possible dangers to the whole course of our economic and political future," was contained in a statement made public by the American Engineering Council outlining a program designed to eliminate what the council termed "inordinate and unnecessary delays in carrying forward public works."

The council's program was in line with the conference held by the President dealing especially with the situation in the District and comes a few days before the national unemployment committee is to gather to consider the part public works may be made to play in relieving distress.

People Held Disappointed.

"Federal projects already authorized and appropriated for are sufficient to give a year's work to 300,000 to 500,000 men within the next three or four months," Lawrence W. Wallace, of Washington, executive secretary of the council, said at a meeting of the council's administrative board in the Mayflower Hotel.

R. W. Prince, chief engineer of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., a subsidiary of the communication system headed by Walter S. Gifford, named by the President to head his national committee, was named chairman of the District committee of engineers.

"The American people," the council said in a statement, "have been greatly disappointed because public developments have not served the useful purpose they anticipated in relieving unemployment. They have been disappointed notwithstanding expenditures for public works by all governmental agencies have been approximately 30 per cent higher in 1931 than in 1930 and the total amount appropriated, according to the best information available, was $530,455,000.

Unnecessary Delay Charged.

"Despite this increased expenditure it is commonly believed there have been unnecessary and inordinate delays, and much more work should have been opened. Much of the delay has been due to the public, selfish interests, and political considerations.

"It is believed that work on public projects for which appropriations have been made can be materially speeded up.

"If adequate provision is not soon made for the necessary employment, the emotional tension of the situation may result in ill-considered measures which sober reason and experience will be powerless to prevent. There are in the situation possible dangers to the whole course of our economic and political future, and we are compelled to act in this matter with the utmost expedition."

The council outlined a program which will be pursued by its State committees to hasten public works already authorized and to draft local improvement programs which might be advantageously undertaken. Private capital would be interested in such programs but Government support also would be required to bring the plan to fruition, it was said.

Law Provisions Blamed.

Just how much the council plan can speed up the Federal building program is doubtful. It is estimated that not more than 15 or 20 per cent of delays in Government work is due to inefficiency or slow work or similar causes in the Government service. The great part of the delay is due to the provisions of law which provide in considerable detail just how each step incident to the launching of a Government project shall be handled. To change this would require legislation which it is doubtful Congress would enact.

CONFIDENCE RETURNING.

The notable improvement in the credit situation of the United States in the short space of three weeks since the announcement of the administration's financial plans brings favorable comment from President Hoover. The alarm that followed the suspension of the gold standard in England, resulting in heavy gold withdrawals from this country, hoarding of money and the suspension of numerous small banks, has been abated. Confidence has been reestablished in the general soundness of American institutions, and the improved situation has had prompt reflection in increased prices for wheat and cotton.

Improvement in credit conditions in the United States, even the assurance that credit would be liberalized, was the touchstone that worked a sudden transformation in this country. The better feeling that has spread throughout the Nation can not be accounted for by scattered figures showing slight improvement. From various industrial lines better reports are received regarding activity and employment, but they are not sufficient to account for the encouraging expressions so generally heard during recent weeks. These have come, rather, from the widespread and growing confidence in the essential stability of this country and the belief that machinery has been set in motion which will straighten out financial and economic tangles.

With ample capital, unlimited raw material, foodstuffs and willing labor, and with depleted stocks that need replenishment, it has become increasingly evident that confidence and cooperation were all that the situation lacked. America can not force world trade, but with a home market 20 times as great as exports to all nations combined, the first point of attack for American business is within these 48 States, each of which is as important as a foreign country. Regulations are now being put into effect that should break the business blockade and start the procession moving steadily forward once more.

All the recent important happenings have tended to restore and support confidence in both American and world conditions. Aside from the creation of the National Credit Corporation the visit of Premier Laval and the gratifying results of the British elections have added to the rising tide of American optimism.

Somewhat better prices for farm products have matched improvement in the steel industry. President Farrell, of the United States Steel Corporation, foresees a greater demand for steel and says the upgrade for employment in that industry has already begun. At a meeting of the American Manufacturers Association in New York 58 per cent of 800 companies made reports to the effect that prospects for the winter are fair, good or excellent. President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, is encouraged over the more general practice of spreading work.

The plus signs are not startling, but they exist today where not long ago they were negative. Most important of all is the undoubted return of courage and confidence that has spread throughout the Nation as a result of recent measures which give assurance that financial institutions will be protected and that credit will be available for legitimate needs.

ELIMINATING DELAY.

The Supreme Court is one of the few institutions that can be congratulated on having to close down temporarily for want of business. The manner in which this distinguished tribunal continues to keep abreast of its work is the most encouraging sign in the whole field of judicial practice. Its example should not be lost upon the courts of the country.

Credit for bringing the Supreme Court docket up to date goes to the late Chief Justice Taft. Not long ago it took two years for a case appealed from the lower courts to be disposed of. With remarkable energy Chief Justice Taft and his associates cleared the calendar. Chief Justice Hughes has carried on this good work with no less dispatch. The court has set an example for industry and efficient management that is worthy of emulation throughout the country.

The large number of cases which the court has recently refused to review suggests that greater reliance is placed upon decisions of the Circuit Courts of Appeals. Hundreds of cases that should not have passed the Courts of Appeals have been carried to the Supreme Court. Many of them have been based on flimsy technicalities and have been appealed for the sole purpose of delaying the process of justice. When the supreme tribunal rules out all but vital questions arising under the Constitution and laws of the United States it discourages unwarranted appeals while expediting its important work.

The mere elimination of delay is a vital factor in the administration of justice. A judgment may be defeated when its execution is postponed for years because of clogged court machinery. The Supreme Court is now in a position to hear cases as soon as they are presented to it. That very fact spells discouragement for those who try to cheat the law by dilatory expedients.

THE NAVY LEAGUE INQUIRY.

If President Hoover had paid no attention to the pamphlet issued by the Navy League the country would not have paid much attention to it. As in the case of all other leagues, associations, and organizations with high-sounding names and formidable lists of officers and members, the Navy League's utterances are those of a few individuals, at most, and usually of only one. Mr. Hoover recognizes this fact when he states that his committee's inquiry "will absolve the members of the league who have not participated in the statement." Among the league's members are many persons who can not but disagree with the statements put forth by the president of the league.

A novel method is adopted by the President in combating the statements attributed to the Navy League. He is to appoint a committee, before which "agencies of the Government will demonstrate these untruths and distortions of fact." Apparently this committee is to have no authority of law. No doubt President Gardiner, of the Navy League, will assert the right to present witnesses in his behalf, and perhaps he will insist upon cross-examining the "Government agencies" that are to appear before the committee. An extralegal naval court of inquiry seems to be emerging—a body without official powers, but also without official limitations.

Considering the scope and gravity of some of the allegations in the Navy League circular, it is quite possible that the committee of inquiry will become a medium for the dissemination of sensational rumors and "revelations" affecting the Navy and American foreign relations. If the committee should go further, as is foreshadowed by a White House statement, in an effort to "show the true purpose of these falsehoods and the people who are propagandizing them," it may be that important officials and prominent individuals will become involved in bitter controversies. That the proceedings will prove beneficial to the Navy and the country is doubtful. The disputes will be over opinions, which are never reconciled by added dispute.

SENATE SOCIALISTS.

The so-called Progressives of the Senate are laying elaborate plans for the salvation of business and industry. At the last session of Congress they merely attempted to feed the unemployed out of the Federal Treasury. Now they are attempting to correct the fundamental deficiencies in the economic set-up by legislative fiat. The long recess since last March has given them an opportunity to marshal their forces and they are prepared to demand sweeping changes in the control of business.

Foremost among these panaceas is Senator La Follette's bill to create a national economic council. A subcommittee, of which the Wisconsin senator is chairman, is conducting hearings on the measure. The Progressives wish to throw the responsibility for the vicissitudes of business upon the Government. Why should industrial leaders be allowed to do their own thinking and planning? If the business of the country is to be run as Senator La Follette thinks it should be, it must yield to bureaucratic domination.

Several distinguished industrial chiefs of the country have appeared before this committee and registered their disapproval of Mr. La Follette's scheme. Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., has suggested that a national economic council built upon the foundation of trade associations would be a stabilizing influence. Such a council would coordinate the efforts of business groups instead of throttling business through governmental interference. A committee on the continuity of business and employment which has made a study of this problem for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is likewise in favor of an economic council to be set up by business organizations. The question is whether business should cooperate in solving general problems of production and distribution, or whether the Government should launch a bureaucratic experiment pointing directly to socialism.

This is only one point in the Progressive program. A committee organized by the conference which Senator Norris called in Washington last spring recently advocated the establishment of a Government railway system. The proposed Federal railroad would compete directly with private carriers. The purpose of this radical departure from American practice would be to set up "standards of service and rates which could be applied in regulation of privately owned and operated electrical utilities." Of course, the real purpose is to commit the Government to public ownership and operation of utilities as the first step toward socialism.

It is by the distortion of words that this clique of politicians is allowed to camouflage its socialistic aims under the guise of "Progressivism." In reality the Senate insurgents are marching under the banner of socialism. Yet it is too much to expect that the Norris-La Follette-Brookhart combination will be honest enough to show its real colors. Progressives could not sneak into Congress as Republicans if they openly confessed that they were Socialists. So the fraud must be carried on, as long as it fools the people who elect Progressives.

GOLD PRODUCTION GROWS.

While virtually every important industry has suffered from the depression, gold mines have experienced prosperity such as has not been seen since 1915 and 1916. Production costs have been reduced, owing to lower wages and other economies, while the price of gold has remained constant. This situation has led to the revival of fields formerly unprofitable. Mining authorities estimate that the output for 1931 will be larger than for any of the last fifteen years, reaching 21,000,000 ounces as compared with the 20,000,000 ounces for 1930.

There is little probability of the fulfillment of the prophecy by the League of Nations committee on gold that the near future would witness a rapid exhaustion of the world's gold resources. High-grade mines, it is true, are becoming scarce. The new gold properties require a large amount of capital for development, while "grass-root" mines that finance themselves are not being found. But growth of gold production may result from large-scale, low-grade enterprises. If the period of lower costs continues for a time, marginal mines will, doubtless, become an important factor in the gold supply.

Placer mining has been revived in a number of sections where it had been abandoned. As a relief measure for the unemployed of California, that State has arranged to buy small quantities of gold from placer mines at the standard price. This has opened the way to profitable working of many streams by individuals.

The United States, long prominent in gold production, has lost its preeminence in recent years. Most of the famous camps have seen their best days and new mines are scarce. The depression, however, has brought profit to many of the old properties that were lying dormant.

At present, Government Gold Mining Areas, in Far East Rand, is the world's largest gold producing mine, with an output of 1,107,000 ounces. The Union of South Africa is the foremost gold-producing country.

It is an interesting fact that, although gold is scattered in every part of the globe, 53 per cent of the output comes from this section. South Africa produced last year 10,716,000 ounces. American production came second, with a total of 2,102,000 ounces.

It is claimed that machinery is responsible for the idle manpower. But machinery is now selling apples, too.

You can lead a Republican to water, but you can't make him swap horses in the middle of the stream.

In sending Gov. Long to the Senate Louisiana makes sure we shall hear a lot of Huey.

WHAT IS A REPUBLICAN?

From the Minneapolis Journal.

Is Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, a Republican? Are the members of the Progressive group who follow his leadership Republicans?

These questions are raised by the Journal's recent assertion that there are really three parties in Congress, not two, and that the fact should be recognized in the organization of the House when the session begins next month.

One correspondent insists that Norris is a Republican, because he was elected as one. "What or who is the party, if not the people?" he demands.

Another asks, "What is a Republican?" and inquires whether Norris has lost his party standing by his attitude on public utilities and Muscle Shoals.

No doubt, there are various kinds of Republicans with varying views on public questions. But there is a tribunal in which party matters are settled, party candidates chosen and party principles decided on. That is the Republican national convention. It is made up of delegates from every State and every congressional district in the country, elected as representative of Republican opinion in that State or district.

The national convention every four years defines Republicanism. How can any man, senator though he be, claim to be a Republican unless he stands on the platform and supports the candidates of the convention? If he disapproves of either, the manly and candid thing for him to do is to leave the party and join or organize one that does suit him. But Senator Norris knows or fears that he could not be elected in Nebraska unless he ran as a Republican. So he clings to the name on any election day when he is up for reelection, and pours contumely upon it on all other days.

We have in this country government by parties, and have had almost from the beginning. For the most part there have been but two parties—the one in power and the one in opposition. At regular intervals the conduct of government by the party in power is submitted to the electorate, along with the claims of the party in opposition that it should become the party in power. Whenever third parties have arisen they have been rejected at the polls. Obviously, the American people believe in and practice the two-party system of government.

This furnishes the main reason why public men like Norris and La Follette and Brookhart and Nye, while opposing Republican principles and candidates and policies, refuse to form a party of their own. They lack the courage to wear their own colors when standing for office. They borrow Republican plumage, only to dishonor it between elections. They oppose Hoover, as they opposed Coolidge, and as they will oppose any regular Republican elected to the Presidency.

But not one of the whole Progressive group, save Shipstead in the Senate and Kvale in the House, has dared to run as a Progressive or will dare to do so a year hence. They cling to the Republican life buoy lest, losing their hold, they sink into oblivion.

POST HASTE.

Snow in Chicago, 95 degrees in Los Angeles; why don't cities send to Washington for the pattern of perfect fall weather?

Enough statements have been made in the current news to justify the wise saying that "A little learning is a dangerous thing," and also that other one regarding those "who out of too much learning become mad."

But classification of congressmen and their pronouncements into these two categories could not be undertaken by anything less than a commission.

The engineers estimate that automobiles save 2 cents a mile when running on cement pavement. That runs into real money since Americans drive more than 200,000,000,000 miles a year.

The independent oil producers are preparing to land on Congress for a tariff on oil that would add $1,000,000,000 to the annual cost of oil and gasoline used in the United States. The inefficient small wells would get less than one-tenth of the increase. One importing company is fighting the tariff; the other big companies are not, because they would get the 90 per cent increase on their American production.

EDISON FOR HALL OF FAME.

If the present rules are maintained, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, it will be 29 years before Edison's bust can be placed in the Hall of Fame. According to the principles which guide the electors, a man's greatness can not be properly judged in less than 25 years after his death. Inasmuch as the last election was in 1930, and elections occur every five years, Edison will not be eligible until 1960. That his bust will be placed with America's great as soon as the rules permit goes without saying. Without doubt, his selection will be by unanimous vote, which will be an honor not yet accorded to any one. When Washington was chosen, he received the votes of 96 of the 100 electors. No one has a better record than he. Meanwhile, the group of inventors in the Hall of Fame remains strikingly small. Joseph Henry, who produced the electro-magnet; Robert Fulton, of the steamboat; Morse, of the telegraph; Whitney, of the cotton gin, and Howe, of the sewing machine, are the only ones. Yet the contributions of that quintet made a far greater impress upon the life habits of their fellow-countrymen and of the world, for that matter, than whole blocs of their statued colleagues.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: In many respects you are an uncommonly fortunate youngster. So far as I know, you aren't denied anything you greatly desire. You have parents whose chief delight is to help you enjoy life. You have health, friends, a sense of humor, a normal young animal's delight in physical well-being.

But in one important particular you have been cheated and I'm afraid the Fates are storing up trouble for you.

If you were the oldest of seven children in a poor but honest family, the job of washing, dressing, pacifying and nursing infants long since would have taught you the art of unselfish service.

And if you were the sole companion or chief support of a widowed mother, hard necessity would have given you a sense of duty and taught you to do this and that merely because you ought to do it.

And in either case that wide mouth of yours, now eloquent of nothing except good nature and hilarity would be showing a firmness and a mature sweetness that isn't there.

In short, because life has been too easy you are still a thoughtless kid with no self-discipline at all except that afforded by your conscience in matters of morality.

Unhesitatingly and as innocently as a 2-year-old, you choose the way that promises the most pleasure or profit for yourself, without giving a thought to the effect your decision may have on the happiness or convenience of others.

You aren't selfish. I notice you're always willing to fall in with the crowd and adjust yourself to the plans of other youngsters. It isn't ego that troubles you. It's just absolute, 100 per cent thoughtlessness.

It's a bad fault, Honey, because it's tricky. It jells as part of your character. You begin by banging on the piano in thoughtless disregard of your mother's headache, and years later you end by joining a merry theater party because you've forgotten for the moment that your husband is lying under a wrecked car and the baby is at home alone with croup.

Thoughtfulness isn't an easy habit to learn if life is easy and free of unselfish duties; but it can be done if you'll make deliberate effort until it becomes second nature, and learn it you must if you hope to have the good opinion of "regular folks"" when you're no longer young enough to get away with murder. Love, DAD.

Alice to the Rescue.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Out of the West, like young Lochinvar, comes word of a boom for none other than Alice Roosevelt Longworth for the Republican nomination for Vice President. The boom, to be sure, is not a very deafening detonation, but in its rolling echoes there is heard something suspiciously like the sound of suppressed chuckles.

To the irreverent observer the savor of the situation lies in the thought of "Princess Alice" succeeding in office her old foe, Charlie Curtis, who joined his sister, Dolly Gann, when she took the warpath to capture Mrs. Longworth's social scalp. More tea was spilled in Washington drawing rooms over that star bout than over any of the other eccentricities of the present administration, but no decision was ever reached between the contestants. If Nicholas Longworth's widow should receive the secondary position on the next Hoover ticket, however, the world would be compelled to concede her the victory.

The boom for Mrs. Longworth has a slightly more serious aspect as well, as another indication of the restless uneasiness that seems to pervade the ranks of regular Republicanism at the prospect of the next presidential campaign. More significant still, it continues to pave the way for Vice President Curtis to step neatly out of the ticket.

Can't Put It Over.

Atlanta Constitution.

For more than 50 years Democratic preconvention politics have been more or less fermented by a leaven of Tammany interests in New York City. Tammany is usually in the saddle there and claims a right of dictatorship over the party's national leadership and policies.

And just about as often as Tammany has assumed that position, whether under Boss Tweed, John Kelly, Dick Croker or Charlie Murphy, Tammany has lost. It has found the great majority of the national Democrats preferring to lose their battle than to win it as the political peons of Tammany. The Democratic victories of 1884, 1892, 1912 and 1916 were won in clear despite of Tammany, and it would seem that by this time the reputedly smart Tammany leaders should have learned the lesson that they will not be permitted to rule the party.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

British Correspondent Thinks It Is Unhealthy for America to Have So Much Gold.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is some talk of the American Government extending the period of nonpayment of reparations, loans, &c., to another two years.

Well European countries look like "blowing up" before the two years is up. In fact, things are gradually getting desperate.

Even France has been trying hard to cover up her returns relating to the unemployed and it has now got about that she is also very uneasy, the returns during the last week or so having jumped alarmingly, going up from one million to two and a half, and a further big rise anticipated shortly.

American and French banks are hoarding the gold and not giving it a run by lending to those countries in need of it for business purposes. The end of it will be that America and France will "catch a nasty cold" if they do not alter their present banking methods. After holding sufficient to cover their needs and the paper money circulation there is no earthly reason in keeping the rest locked up. It won't earn anything, and really becomes a source of worry to holders.

Britain having gone off the gold standard, I see no reason why some other monetary system should not be evolved in the near future—that is if the American, French and British bankers do not get together and pull things out of the fire.

Signs on Public Buildings Would Be Convenience for Visitors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is quite possible to put the name of every Government building in an auspicious location without in any way disfiguring the building. This would be one of the greatest conveniences to visitors that have been inaugurated in the Capital for years. It would require only a small expenditure.

My plan is to install a metal sign, about the size of an ordinary street sign, directly in front of the building at the curbing, with lettering on both sides. This would enable the motorist as well as the pedestrian to obtain the name of the building in the quickest and most convenient way possible.

Hundreds of thousands of visitors pass through the Capital yearly, some hurriedly, others leisurely. At present there is no satisfactory or convenient way in which they can discover the names of the buildings that they visit. The installation of these signs would be a lasting and highly beneficial improvement to the Government structures of the national city. EDWARD P. BRINTON.

Municipal Woodpile Good Plan for Relief of Destitute Men—Suggestions Asked for Relief of Stranded Women.

Will not some woman suggest a similar method of providing relief for stranded women?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE TWO SPIRITS.

In each of us two souls there are.
And one is weak and one is strong,
And day by day along life's way
All men are torn 'twixt right and wrong;
Temptation is a subtle thing.
With varying lures it leads us on,
All roads it fares to set its snares,
But right must travel only one.

Some sneer at those to drink a prey,
Yet they themselves are sore beset.
The bravest men find moments when
Their finer instincts they forget.
For, tempted by the joy they crave
Of selfish gain or selfish pride,
They, too, will race to what is base
And push the struggling right aside.

For money some do shameful things
Within the precincts of the law.
With no regard for bargains hard,
They'll fight for gain with tooth and claw.
Not all the failures to be fine
Are caused by open scarlet sin,
Men bitter grow, their power to show,
And sometimes break their word to win.

The right must struggle 'gainst the odds,
Temptation strikes with subtle skill,
And if the conscience merely nods,
Man's baser nature works its will.
In each of us two spirits dwell
And one is dark and one is fair.
And man must fight for what is right
Or wrong will catch him unaware.

An engagement of interest to Washington is that of Miss Alicia M. Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson, of New York and Chicago, to Mr. Joseph W. Brooks, former football star. Miss Patterson has been a licensed pilot only since 1929, but has already broken the women's airplane speed record between Cleveland and New York, Philadelphia and New York, and established a two-way record between Albany and New York for women fliers. She returned recently from an airplane trip in Australia and the Far East with Miss Elizabeth Chase, of Chicago. She is interested in other sports than aviation. She also is known as a good racquet player, fly fisher and wing shot.

She is now in Europe with Mrs. Alton A. Brody, daughter of Mr. Irvin S. Cobb, author. The marriage will probably take place this winter.

Mr. Brooks broke into football limelight at Williams College in 1908, when he was named all-America tackle. He is the son of Mr. Belvedere Brooks, who in 1910 was vice president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. During the war he was captain of the 150th Machine Gun Company of the Forty-second Division in France. He is now with Hallgarten & Co., bankers.

Eugenie LeMerle Bride Of George H. Riggs, Jr.

Charming in its simplicity was the wedding last evening of Miss Eugenie LeMerle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Lyman LeMerle, to Mr. George Henry Riggs, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Henry Riggs, of Frederick, Md.

The ceremony was conducted by candlelight at 8 o'clock in the evening in the home of the bride's parents, 2011 Q street, by the Rev. Charles T. Warner, rector of the St. Albans Church, in the presence of the two families and a few close friends.

Palms, ferns, chrysanthemums and other flowers, illuminated by the light of candles, with the prie-dieu and white satin pillows, made a lovely setting for the wedding party.

The wedding gown was of ivory satin, made princess style with train, decollette off the shoulders, around which fell a rare lace collar of rose point. She wore, for a veil, a lace mantilla of point applique, made for her great-grandmother, Pepita Toledano, of New Orleans and Cordova, Spain; an heirloom worn by her mother and other members of the family. Her only ornament was an old Spanish pearl necklace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Katherine Yates was maid of honor, and wore a gown of burnt orange lace, and carried an arm bouquet of autumn flowers.

Mr. H. DeButts Saunders, a cousin of the bride, was best man for Mr. Riggs.

Mrs. LeMerle, mother of the bride, wore a gown of deep cream satin and over this a lace jacket, of point d'alencon lace, also an heirloom of more than a hundred years. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Mrs. Riggs, mother of the bridegroom, wore black Spanish lace, and with this a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. England, sister of the bridegroom, wore a charming gown of black chiffon and her flowers were pink roses.

After the wedding Mr. Riggs and the bride left for a motor trip through the Southern States, and upon their return will reside with her parents until they can build their own home. Mr. and Mrs. Riggs are architects, having been graduated from George Washington University.

The bride and bridegroom come from colonial stock of Virginia and Maryland. The mother's side of the bride's family descends from Lord and Lady Norris, of England, and the Norris maternal side of the family from Lord and Lady Barrymore, of Ireland, through the descendants of whom her grandfather inherited Barrymore, their home in Fauquier County, Va., a place noted for its gay parties and true Southern hospitality. Mr. Norris, famous civil engineer, was a lover of horses and maintained one of the finest stables in the State.

The grandmother descended from Don Manuel Toledano, of Cordova, Spain, the province of Andalusia. Dr. LeMerle's grandfather came from Nancy, France.

Mr. Riggs descended from Amon Riggs of Revolutionary fame and is connected with many of the oldest families in Maryland. On his mother's side he is descended from Mareen Duvall, the Huguenot, who landed in Maryland in 1659.

Amond the wedding gifts of the bride were three pieces of furniture from his family, which belonged to Amon Riggs, whose sword hangs in the hall at Mount Vernon.

Dr. Riggs, father of the bridegroom, is well known in Maryland, having maintained a private sanitarium for many years near Frederick.

Mrs. Percival S. Ridsdale is in New York visiting her daughter, Miss Donald Fenton McCall.

The Commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. William Durward Connor will be at home tomorrow from 4 until 6 o'clock at quarters No. 8, the Army War College.

Col. and Mrs. Alfred T. Smith entertained last night at the Shoreham in honor of their niece, Miss Eleanor Bass, of Asheville, N. C. Mrs. Arnold Hostess To Mrs. Long and Daughter.

Mrs. Thomas Long and her daughter, Miss Maria Burgwyn Long, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., will be guests over the week-end of Mrs. John Knox Arnold, on Twenty-eighth street. Mrs. Arnold and her guests will motor to Annapolis today for the football game. Miss Long will attend the hop at the academy in the evening.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IN the old days it was sensational if a star got her name in the Broadway electric lights overnight, but by means of radio, Alice Joy, the new Prince Albert singer, who apparently is out to give Miss Kate Smith some competition, became known to the entire country overnight.

It was one of the most sweeping debuts on record and proves that Charles F. Gannon, a former Washingtonian, is quite a picker. Mr. Gannon, who himself also got to the top of the ladder in a hurry, is now a nationally known radio director in New York, and is the one who discovered the young lady with the happy name.

Gannon heard the Illinois girl sing at a party and through his waving the ethereal magic wand, she is now presented over 56 radio stations in three broadcasts every night excepting Sunday. The first of these is at 7:30 o'clock for the Eastern stations, in which WRC is included; the second at 11:30 p. m. for Midwestern stations, and the third at 12:45 a. m. for Far Western stations.

Miss Joy is backed up by an exceptionally melodious popular orchestra under the direction of Paul Van Loan. The new program moves fast and is unquestionably the best in its line that the season has produced.

QUITE another sensation has been that of the Mills Brothers, four Negro boys from Piqua, Ohio, aged 17 to 21, heard over WMAL (tonight, WMAL, 9:30 p. m.), who are accompanied only by a guitar, but due to their ability to imitate musical instruments sound as if they had a whole jazz orchestra with them.

Bob Taplinger tells the inside story of their discovery, as follows:

"The colored boys had been waiting around for an audition when Ralph Wonders, director of the Artists Bureau, played a hunch and arranged an immediate audition. Wonders, after hearing the first number piped the audition into the private office of William S. Parley, president of Columbia. So delighted was Mr. Parley with their vocal rendition that he sent word to Wonders to have them continue. And for more than an hour the four went from one song to another.

"Three days later they were scheduled for their first broadcast. There was no advance ballyhoo. Not a line of print, other than the bare program listing, heralded their network debut.

"AS soon as their fifteen-minute broadcast was over, the telephone switchboard was flooded with calls from listeners. 'Who are they?' . . . 'What kind of instruments do they use?' . . . 'How do they make themselves sound like an orchestra?' . . . 'Where are they from?' . . . 'When can I hear them again?'

Their success was immediate. They were scheduled for four broadcasts the following week and definite proof of their literal overnight popularity occurred when a single program was canceled for a speech of special importance. For 45 minutes two hostesses were busily answering hundreds of calls with assurances that the Mills Brothers would return to the air the following Monday.

Incidentally, the guitar they play is a mail-order model which cost $25, C. O. D.

THE U. S. S. Akron will make its first flight over the Eastern seaboard next Monday morning, weather permitting, and a detailed description of its flight will be broadcast by NBC. The dirigible will take off at Lakehurst, with announcers on the roof of the hangar and aboard the dirigible. Commander Rosendahl and Rear Admiral Moffett, on board the ship, will be invited to carry on two-way conversations with announcers in Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Herluf Provensen, announcing from WRC, will describe the dirigible's arrival and flight over Washington and will sign off as the ship disappears in the sky line.

This is a press and broadcasting flight, members of the press having been invited aboard by the Navy Department.

Announcement by William Wrigley, jr., chewing gum manufacturer, that he had signed a $1,500,000 contract for a five-day-a-week radio program to begin tomorrow has revived speculation about the forthcoming radio splash of the Ford Motor Co.

One story that got into print recently was that Ford would spend $750,000 in a single day, using all stations of both systems from early morning until 6 p. m.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA and his band, a concert dance orchestra, and male quartet: James Melton, Lewis James, Phil Dewey, and Wilfred Glenn, will be heard in the first of a series of Goodyear programs over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

During the initial broadcast Sousa will open with the National Emblem March. Following this broadcast his organization will be presented each Tuesday night.

The National Symphony Orchestra, recently reorganized in the Nation's Capital with Hans Kindler as conductor, will make its debut in a concert to be broadcast from 4:50 to 5:45 p. m. from Constitution Hall here. The orchestra, composed of 80 musicians, has scheduled a full season of 24 concerts.

A review of world economic interdependence by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, economist, and an outline of the fundamentals of a good memory by Dr. Edward S. Robinson, psychologist, will be given in the weekly half-hour lecture series of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education over WRC, 8:30 o'clock tonight.

A program of Columbia talent will be offered in an hour's entertainment, "Welcoming WGN," tonight at 9:30 o'clock. Howard Barlow's Symphony Orchestra, Freddie Rich, the Mills Brothers, Kate Smith, Arthur Tracy, Tony Wons, Morton Downey, Toscha Seidel and many others will be heard during the broadcast.

THE dramatic history of Halloween will be heard through WRC from 11:30 p. m. until the black hour of midnight. The witchery will begin with the gagging of a modern announcer. Listeners will be conjured to the Ireland of the year 1100, when priests swept the heathered hills with sacred fire; then to the year 1400 in England, where folk dated the years from Halloween to Halloween.

Jane Interprets the MODE

New York, Oct. 30.

BY special permission of the copyright owner, meaning me, seein' as how I'm the copyright owner, I am sketching for you today the Grecian nightgown which I designed—oh, ages ago! Ever since this design appeared, lovely ladies have written and asked that I sketch it again, so I just thought I would, today.

To tell you the truth the sketch isn't half as interesting as the nightgown itself, because it's the way it drapes to the figure that gives it its charm, and that you see, is hard to show in a sketch. 'N' then I tried to show you how it opens front and back when you walk, or hangs closed when you stand, and that too looks ever so much better in the garment than in the sketch.

'N' what I couldn't show you at all was how this nightgown is made from 2½ yards of georgette, has no seams or sewing—just a certain tricky way of being hemstitched, then tacked at the shoulders and tied at each side under the arm!

Anyhow, here it is by several requests, and I can promise you that if you ever make and wear one, you will make and wear Grecian nightgowns for the rest of your life.

And then for turning your nightgown right there and then into a negligee, you buy one more yard of the georgette, send it to the hemstitchers after having marked it for hemstitching a certain way, tie these two sleeves at the shoulder of your gown, and have the most graceful and flattering negligee that you can imagine! This, too, is much lovelier than the sketch, but from the sketch you can probably get a pretty good idea of the design.

* * * *

The Grecian nightgown with attachable negligee sleeves! And how to make it in half an hour, honest to goodness and no foolin'! That's the leaflet for next week, so why not send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the explicit directions for making this lovely and flattering nightgown? I absolutely promise you that you can make it, even if you have never sewn a stitch in your life, that it will take exactly half an hour of time after you have purchased the material, and that it will be the most flattering nightgown you have ever worn!

* * * *

The Beauty Sorceress

Says that you have to rub your skin to clean it—not just slap lotions on it. And that that is what is called keeping your skin clean—and not to forget that keeping the skin clean is what keeps it young and lovely.

* * * *

Going—going—practically gone are this week's illustrated leaflets! No foolin'—they went like hot cakes, did these leaflets that told how to make any number of smart costumes from one basic design! But if you'll send your stamped, self-addressed envelope off right this minute to the Dare department of The Post we'll save a copy for you.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:20 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., and from 3:25 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:50 a. m. to 2:10 p. m, from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m., and from 9:50 p. m. to 11:05 p. m.

The planetary aspects of October 31 denote very little of significance, and the day promises to be uneventful. The influences are enlightening from a spiritual and mental, but not from a materialistic point of view. Those who evince an intelligent interest in artistic, literary or philosophical subjects will find themselves gaining immensely in broadness of view and comprehension. Unexpected news may be heard from abroad.

A child born on this October 31 will be determined, possess great concentrative powers, and display patience in working out details. It will be self-possessed, have ample assurance, without being boastful or unpleasantly aggressive. Its affections will be deep, but chiefly centered on one person.

You, if born on October 31, have exceptional ability, and this only needs cultivation to make you a shining light in your community, if not in far larger circles. You undoubtedly are destined for a brilliant career, unless you ruin it by your own foolishness and rashness. The chief danger to be avoided is your susceptibility to the opposite sex. You will never love deeply and constantly, but will be the willing victim of many infatuations, serious while they last, but soon forgotten when they have run their course.

You are frank, direct and straightforward. You have a keen sense of humor, and are partial to social life. Fond of travel, a keen observer and entertaining, you are made welcome in all congenial circles and your friends and admirers are legion. Although able to weave dreams, you are intensely practical and have much common sense.

If a woman you are more logical than intuitive. You possess much charm and grace. Your emotions are not very deep, and your nature is flirtatious.

Both men and women evince a keen interest in public affairs, and have a large share of civic, as well as national, pride. They never, however, take their opinions from others; rather do they help others to form opinions, as they are convincing and persuasive talkers.

Successful people born on October 31:

1—Charles King, film actor.
2—Kuhne Beveridge, sculptress.
3—Philo Remington, manufacturer.
4—Richard M. Hunt, architect.
5—William Gibbs McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury.
6—Alexander W. Randall, statesman.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me when to spray shrubbery and roses with Bordeaux mixture. Shall I mix it myself or is it better to purchase it already mixed? HARRY S.

It is better to purchase commercial Bordeaux mixture. However, it is made as follows: Copper sulphate (blue vitrol), 4 pounds; caustic lime (unslaked), 4 pounds; water, 50 gallons. As a rule, roses and shrubbery should be sprayed both after the first frost and again in the spring before growth starts. It can, of course, be used between these times.

I have tried to make kerosene emulsion, but never succeed. Is there anything I could use to take the place of this emulsion?

MRS. CAROL F.

The home gardener is wise to use a form of tobacco instead of kerosene emulsion. It is difficult to make a good emulsion, and one that is poorly made may injure your plants.

Does red spider cause the leaves of evergreens to turn a grayish-green?

MARJORY H.

When the needles of an evergreen turn a white or grayish-green it is usually due to the prevalence of red spider. Red spider spreads when the humidity is low. Wetting the under surface of the foliage will control this insect. Sulphur dusted on the infested area will help in eradicating the pests, as will also an oil spray.

In England we so frequently see beech trees (fagus sylvatica) used as a hedge. It makes an effective hedge. Could we use this tree in the same way in America? CARL R. P.

Yes; a hedge of these trees should be mose effective in some places. Use the variety you have mentioned. The American hedge is not so adaptable for hedge use.

Is manure good to use to mulch newly planted evergreens?

PAUL H. D.

Well-decayed manure makes an excellent mulch for newly planted evergreens.

All winter, no matter what kind of house plants I buy, the ends of the leaves are sure to turn brown and become brittle. MRS. LARRY H. F.

When the ends of the leaves turn brown and become dry it is always due to the atmosphere, which is too warm and too dry. Except for desert plants most of our house plants demand a moist atmosphere. The best way to overcome the lack of moisture in the air is to constantly spray the foliage with an atomizer filled with cold water. They should also be occasionally carried to the bathroom and given a steam bath. Turn on the hot-water faucets, and when the room is filled with steam, set the plants on the floor and close the room, leaving them in the steam bath for at least an hour or two.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

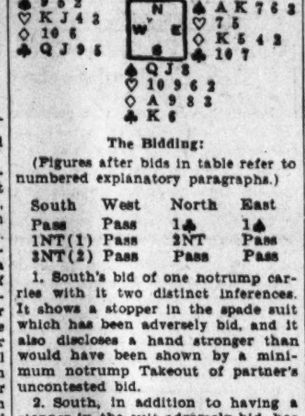
READING THE LANGUAGE OF BIDS.

CONTRACT Bridge bidding furnishes the opportunity for the drawing of the most delicate inferences from partner's bids made under varying conditions. Accurate reading of these bids is the soul of Contract, and the perfect partnership at the Bridge table can make bids which to less experienced players appear daring, if not foolhardy, but are absolutely safe and based upon correct inferences drawn from what partner has said or failed to say.

In today's hand a game contract at notrump was reached by apparently daring, but actually extremely accurate bidding. The contract so made was fulfilled by no less accurate play.

Neither side vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♣	1♠
1NT(1)	Pass	2NT	Pass
3NT(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. South's bid of one notrump carries with it two distinct inferences. It shows a stopper in the spade suit which has been adversely bid, and it also discloses a hand stronger than would have been shown by a minimum notrump Takeout of partner's uncontested bid.

2. South, in addition to having a stopper in the suit adversely bid, has many strong intermediates. Note the important roles taken by these intermediates in the subsequent play of the hand.

Against the contract of three notrump, West opened the highest card of his partner's bid suit, the nine of spades. When the Dummy went down, both East and South made it the object of thoughtful consideration. East, when he noticed that the Ace of diamonds was missing from the Dummy, was certain that he was without a sure card of reentry. If he was to defeat the contract he must be able to bring in his spade suit and not content himself with only two tricks in that suit. He therefore rightly refused to win the first round of the suit. From his failure to win this trick South was able to draw the inference that his hand lacked a sure or even a probable entry outside his bid suit. Upon this basis he planned the play and proceeded to put the plan into execution. Winning the first trick with the spade Queen, he led the two of hearts, and when West played a low card, he played the eight in the Dummy, taking the double finesse against the King and Knave of hearts. When the eight spot held the trick he then laid down the Queen of diamonds, which East refused to cover, and continued with tthe Knave, hoping to catch the Ten and Ace in West's hand. When the Ten fell on the second round the seven of diamonds was led and overtaken with the nine. East holding fast to the King. A heart was then led from the closed hand and the Queen finessed, after which the Ace of hearts was led, making West's King the high card in that suit. The deuce of clubs from Dummy was won with the King in the closed hand, and the Ace of diamonds was led. South then cashed the Ace of clubs and conceded the remaining three tricks to the opposition. Had East won the first two rounds of spades and established the suit, South could then have made five-odd, as West in the play of the hand would have been squeezed, thus costing the defense an extra trick. The moral of this is that good play, even though it fails in accomplishing the most you hope for, will at least minimize the extent of your disaster.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—What is the point value of the second game?

Answer—About 500 points. A loss of three tricks, doubled, by the nonvulnerable side, nets them a gain of 100 points.

FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am turning to you for advice, because I know you can give it if any one can.

We have been married 12 years and have five children, and until within the last year have got along as well as most couples do. Then he became infatuated with a young woman and has been so mean to me ever since that it seems as if I couldn't stand it. This young woman is a decent sort and broke off with him and came to me and apologized, saying she wouldn't see him again; but he isn't the same at all.

Now he has begun to pay attention to a widow who had, I supposed, always been a friend of the family, mine as well as his, but he has neglected me for her all summer, taking her around and leaving me at home. He even let's her talk against me and believes things that are not so about me.

I have tried to be a good wife to him and have never expected any more of him than any wife has a right to expect of a loyal husband, but now she says I have kept him home and never allowed him any freedom. The truth is that I have always enjoyed going to places and have asked him many times to take me, but he would feel too tired to go. Such being the case, I usually end by staying home myself, though I have attended P.-T. A. or grange meetings without him, when I wished he would go with me. Now he says I've been so much without him that he should have a turn at it.

He says he will never leave me and doesn't want a divorce, still he listens to her suggesting his getting one and taking some of the children, though he has no grounds for it.

Do you think he still cares at all for me? If I am sick he seems to, and has asked me to have patience with him and everything will be all right, but I am so unhappy over his actions and the cruel, unkind things he says to me that I am on the verge of insanity, and have even contemplated suicide. At times I am in a perfect frenzy of desperation over it all, yet I don't want people to suspect that anything is wrong between us. What shall I do, brave it out in hopes he will change for the children's sake, or shall I leave him? I am a school teacher and am capable of taking care of the children, if necessary. But I want to live with him and be happy. What can I do to bring it about? Please help me.

UNHAPPY RHODE ISLANDER.

Quite evidently he is sowing a few belated wild oats, aided by the widow who means nothing to him. Your cue is to be calm but aloof. You need not leave your home nor upset your children by asking him to leave. But you can make it clear to him that you have no intention of being his wife while he behaves as if he had never taken a wife. The proper degree of firmness and dignity without any hysteria is all that is needed.

Should he persist in his course you will find as time goes on that it will mean less and less to you as he begins to mean less and less. Once respect is gone, love soon wanes. The world today is witness to that, as thousands of women go about the grim business of keeping a home together for their children only. The man has ceased to count. And these are the men who come creeping back, begging for crumbs as they discern the contempt in their children's eyes.

Just gain control over your own feelings, and then proceed in calmness to live your life apart from him although under the same roof. You will find that he will make a choice when he recognizes the fact that he must, and not before. So take your stand—and hold it. All will be well.

Fashion Czars of Paris Turning to Grecian Lines

Paris (U.P.)—The death knell of the Empress Eugenie mode has been sounded by the fashion czars of Paris, who are now turning to the classicism of Greece for style inspirations.

The chief mourners at the bier of the sparkling, pleasure-loving empress of the second empire on the present occasion are the designers who so successfully revived her entire wardrobe last July and let the women of the world snatch it right out of their hands.

On foreign shores, where the "Eugenie hat" has been carried by determined missionaries, the mode may live on for a while, but in Paris the imperial plumes have been hauled down from the front ranks of fashion.

The Empress Eugenie "lived again" for a few months, but she was worn to a frazzle on every main street and died a natural death due to exhaustion.

The dressmakers and milliners who supplied the world with the Eugenie models have profited but little. No sooner had they launched their style than it was reproduced so widely that their expensive models were abandoned. There was nothing to do but set about finding another style which would be popular—but not too furiously popular. At present it appears that the leading fashion houses will turn to Greece for their next inspiration.

Patou, Worth, Molyneux, Redfern, Lucile and Maggy Rouff will show the new modes soon after Christmas, and there is good authority for the forecast that classical Grecian lines will have a strong influence on the new stylees.

Designers of ancient Greece knew more about the classical lines of the body than any designer has been able to discover since, and the January collection will show a strenuous effort on the part of modern style dictators to recapture a part of the beauty that was created at Athens.

U. S. BOOM BLAMED FOR WORLD SLUMP

League Committee Urges Governmental Action to Relieve Depression.

Geneva, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—The League of Nations economic committee today attributed the chief responsibility for the world economic crisis to the "boom period" in the United States and recommended governmental action to relieve the depression.

Government measures, such as import restrictions, control of foreign exchanges and similar measures will aid in restoration of confidence, the committee report said, but much depends upon solution of great international problems which are not economic in character.

The reference to political problems apparently reflected the recent report of the Wiggin committee of bankers which stressed the necessity for settlement of such problems as Franco-German reconciliation as a basis for revival of business.

The committee report reminded the various states, especially European nations, that lasting prosperity depends upon greater freedom and circulation of goods, capital and services.

"The present difficulties are due primarily to psychological causes which are not past remedy," the report said. "The governments must demonstrate that they are masters of the situation."

In discussing the causes of the world crisis, the report held that the United States "boom period," which ended in 1929 was largely responsible. The report emphasized that after the war there came years of steadily increasing world trade.

This period was followed by a period of depression. Then came the decline of 1929 in the United States. And after a few months the repercussions of the decline began to be felt throughout the world.

International financial difficulties became acute in the spring of 1931 as a result of a period of universal depression. Monetary stability was compromised, undermining the confidence of the world, which is the basis of the international economic organization, the report said.

City Heads Reduce Per Diem Expenses

Allowances for Traveling and Subsistence Are Cut, Effective Nov. 1.

District employes felt the first pinch of the proposed economy program of the Federal and District Governments yesterday when the Commissioners announced that allowances for traveling expenses would be reduced $1 a day after November 1.

Upon recommendation of Daniel J. Donovan, auditor, the District heads cut the per diem allowance for official travel from $6 to $5 and the limitation on actual expenses for subsistence from $7 to $6 a day.

Besides the threat of a general reduction in salaries at the next session of Congress, the Commissioners are faced with the problem of keeping within a 1933 budget that has already been cut to the bone.

Mrs. Gann Places Stress on Loyalty

Capital Residents Urged to Send True Stories of Events Home.

Importance of loyalty in proper functioning of every phase of American Government was emphasized yesterday noon by Mrs. Edward E. Gann, sister and hostess of Vice President Curtis, speaking before membership committee of the National Capital Republican Club.

"Success of the two-party system in the past," she said, "has grown out of the loyalty of the men elected to office by the party which they assume to represent. When the people elect officers of a certain party they have a right to expect that the program of that party will prevail."

Mrs. Gann called attention to the fact that residents of Washington, voting elsewhere, can exert real influence upon their friends back home and urged that letters "puting true interpretation on events transpiring here" be sent back to home towns at frequent intervals.

The institute was held under joint auspices of the Kensington Women's Club and the Woman's Community Club of Kensington, and was in charge of Mrs. H. Matthew Gault, of Baltimore, chairman for club institutes of the State federation.

Mrs. Brown, member of Gov. Ritchie's committee on penal institutions, made an official visit to the jail, which is to be abandoned as soon as the jail on top of the new courthouse at Rockville is completed, on her way to the institute.

Mrs. J. Enos Ray, of Chillum, Maryland director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Estelle Moore, State chairman of public welfare; Mrs. John Paul Troy, of Severna Park; Mrs. Alfred R. Lee, of Decatur Heights, and Mrs. Frank M. Hoadley, editor of the Maryland Clubwoman, were other speakers.

Tenant Farmer Is Sued To Stop Fodder Disposal

Alleging that Clarence Allen Sweeney, a son of his tenant, has threatened to remove or destroy a quantity of fodder, M. Hampton Magruder yesterday filed a request for an injunction in Prince Georges County circuit court.

The bill, filed through Attorney Frank M. Hall, states that the defendant is the son of Greenberry Sweeney, who rents the Magruder farm in Queen Anne for this year. He asks that the injunction restrain young Sweeney from either removing the fodder, or from turning stock into the fields, as he says has been threatened. The injunction should also compel young Sweeney to keep the fodder in good condition.

Walter Miazga, of Brightseat, Md., was yesterday acquitted by a Prince Georges County jury, who decided that he was not guilty of assault and battery and assault with intent to kill O. B. Robinson.

Grange Indorses Driving Licenses

Fairfax Group Registers Opposition to Tag Sale From Richmond.

Providence Grange of Fairfax County, at a recent meeting, indorsed a movement to have the next State Legislature pass a law requiring State permits to drive automobiles. It also favored compulsory liability insurance for car owners.

The grange went on record as opposed to a plan proposed by T. McCall Frazier, State motor vehicle commissioner, which calls for discontinuance of automobile license tag distribution through local offices and centralization of distribution at Richmond.

A resolution was adopted asking the State Legislature to enact a law regulating sale of oleomargarine in the State similar to a law now in force in Pennsylvania.

200 Alexandria Chamber Members Banquet Preston

Signal Honor Paid Secretary-Treasurer of Body for 25 Years; Made First Delegate to All-Virginia Advisory Council.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

One of the finest tributes ever paid to a citizen of Alexandria was that rendered last night when 200 members of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce and of their families, and friends of James T. Preston, secretary-treasurer of the chamber for 25 years, gathered at a banquet in the George Mason Hotel in his honor.

Frank W. Noxor presided at the banquet, and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber, acted as toastmaster. The principal address was made by Francis H. Fannon, chairman of the "twenty-fifth anniversary" committee, who presented to Mr. Preston, in the name of the Chamber of Commerce, a complete set of flat silver.

During the banquet the drum and bugle corps of the American Legion post marched into the dining room and saluted Mr. Preston. It was followed by a body of Boy Scouts, and a composite choir from the various churches of the city sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

President Noxon read a poem to "Jim and Mrs. Jim," and Mr. Hollenga, not to be outdone, as he said, recited an appropriate poem. Mr. Hollenga then presented, in turn, Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, Irvin Diener, representing the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, who, at the close of his remarks, presented Mr. Preston with a gold pen; Mrs. Dolly Peyton Sheperson, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, who, in turn, presented Mrs. Mary W. Troth, chairman of the public relations committee of that club, who presented a huge basket of flowers to Mrs. Preston; and Fred C. Goodnow, president of the Rotary Club, who handed Mr. Preston a present with the admonition to always keep it and he would never be "broke."

Lawson Cooke, general secretary of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, of Richmond, came to present the greetings of his body. He stated that it is the intention of the State chamber to organize an "all-Virginia" advisory council, and that Mr. Preston had been selected as the first member of that council. He handed him a certificate of his appointment.

At the beginning of the banquet a telegraph messenger came into the dining hall with a batch of telegrams, all of them conveying congratulations to Mr. Preston upon his long service. They were from the chambers of commerce of Lynchbur, Norfolk, Richmond, Petersburg, Arlington County, Clifton Forge, Roanoke; from F. B. Howard & Co., G. G. Wolf, Elliott F. Hoffman, Judge William P. Woolls, Representative Howard W. Smith, Michael T. Dwyer and the Western Union Telegraph Co., all of Alexandria, and from Louis and Samuel Bendheim, of Atlantic City.

BACKERS OF HOSMER SEEK "SILENT VOTE"

Commonwealth's Attorney Race Is Expected to Be Campaign Highlight.

Directing their efforts at the "silent vote" of Arlington County, supporters of Emery Hosmer, candidate for Commonwealth's attorney, are waging an intensive campaign for victory in the election to be held Tuesday.

The race for this post is expected to be the high light of the balloting, in which will be elected sheriff, trial justice, members of the new county board and other officers. Seeking the attorneyship, in addition to Hosmer, are William C. Gloth, incumbent; Lawrence Douglas, Clarence R. Ahalt and Amos Crounse.

Realising that about 2,000 voters have no definite political affiliations, the candidates are making a strong last-minute appeal for support, but with Hosmer backers claiming a majority of the silent vote. Hosmer, Arlington attorney and war veteran, has served as master commissioner in chancery, bail commissioner, for six years; chairman of the board of equalization of real estate assessments in 1930, and also is a member of the executive committee of the Arlington County Bar Association.

Charging that Gloth and Douglas are from the same political stable, Hosmer's backers are hopeful that division of voting strength between those two will give their candidate a chance for victory.

REFORMATION DAY TO BE CELEBRATED

Lutheran Churches Tomorrow to Honor Anniversary of Great Founder.

Lutheran churches generally, throughout the world, will celebrate tomorrow as "Reformation Day," this being the anniversary of the birth of the Lutheran Church. This group of Christians, who are very numerous in Washington, will hear anew, from the pulpit and from the rostrum, in their church services and in their Sunday schools and in the meetings of the young people, the story of the great man who founded their communion.

In nearly every Washington Lutheran Church tomorrow the sermon will have Luther, or one of the great cardinal doctrines which are embraced in Luther's creed, as its theme. Some of the ministers, however, will go beyond this, as a glance at their sermon topics indicates, and will talk on the "Church Eternal," which Luther held to with a firm tenacity.

At Georgetown Lutheran Church, the oldest in the city, the congregation will celebrate the Festival of the Reformation in the evening. Dr. John Weidley, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, will preach the sermon.

At Grace Lutheran Church, Pastor Lenski will preach both morning and evening on Luther, and the Young People's Society will have the great reformer as the theme of their meeting.

At St. Paul's Lutheran Church Dr. Henry W. Snyder will commemorate the day with sermon and fitting memorials of another nature.

Missionary Institute Attended by 200 Women

The Missionary Institute of the Woman's Council of the Federation of Churches closed a three-day session with a luncheon at noon on Thursday. McDowell, president of the federation; Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, a former president and now chairman of the social service committee of the federation, and Dr. W. L. Darby, the federation's executive secretary.

These were followed by the chief address of the occasion, which was given by W. W. Husband, assistant secretary of the Department of Labor.

Grace Church Dedicates New Organ Tomorrow

The new organ is the gift of Mrs. James S. Boyd, as a memorial to her brother, the late Samuel H. Wenck, and the chimes of 21 bells, which are played from the console, were presented by Mrs. Mary C. Maphis.

In view of the many problems, both spiritual and material, confronting the Nation this autumn, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington, has appointed Sunday, November 8, as a day of prayer and penitence for the Episcopal churches in the Diocese of Washington. Music and prayers at the Cathedral services and the sermons will be of an appropriate nature for the day. Bishop Freeman will preach over radio Station WMAL at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel.

He has appointed this day of prayer and penitence following the suggestion in the report of the committee of 21 of which he was chairman at the recent general convention of the Episcopal Church held in Denver, Colo.

This group had the task of dealing with world problems, including economic depression, law and order, and world peace. It was recommended that the clergy throughout the country be requested to set apart Sunday, November 8, in order that "the people of this church may assemble to invoke God's mercy, to pray for His forgiveness, and to ask His guidance that this Nation under God may speedily be restored to the wholesome ways of peace and happiness, of sobriety and Christian practice and obedience to His divine will."

THE SATURDAY FOOD AND HOME ECONOMICS PAGE

Appearing Each Week in The Washington Post

FOOD PAGE RECIPES PLEASE HOUSEWIVES

New Ways Found of Making Delightful Dishes, Writes Country Woman.

Letters containing kindly sentiments for the Saturday Food Page constantly come to the Food Editor's desk. One of the nicest last week was the following from Mrs. Grace S. Turner, of Berwyn, Md., showing that the page is read in nearby Virginia and Maryland as well as in Washington. Mrs. Turner wrote:

"I get so much help from your Food Page. Even though I have been married more than 26 years I believe we are never too old to learn. I do learn new ways of making delicious dishes from your many contributed receipts.

"When one is not able to leave home and mingle with other housewives and when one lives in the country it is hard to keep one's family satisfied three times a day without repeating the same dishes. But with The Post Saturday Food Page I find so many delightful recipes to try out that it is now a pleasure for me to cook."

(Awarded Book Prize.)

6 large tart red apples (Sanitary).
1 cup chopped bananas (Sanitary)
1 cup chopped cranberries (Sanitary)
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Chopped nut-meats (M. B. Frazier's)
Whipped cream

Cut off the stem end of the apples, but do not peel them. Remove all of the core and part of the pulp, leaving the walls of the cup about ¾ inch thick. Mix bananas, cranberries, sugar and cinnamon. Fill the cavities in the apples with this mixture, cover with the chopped nuts (M. B. Frazier's), and bake in the oven until tender. Serve cold with a spoonful of whipped cream on top of each apple.

MRS. LILLIAN READE.
Tilghman, Md.

BAKED HAM AND PORK ROLL.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1 pound smoked ham
1 pound fresh pork (Sanitary)
2 eggs
2 cups of cornflakes
½ cup of milk.
Juice of one can of pineapple

Method—Grind the ham and pork through the meat grinder (or have the Sanitary grind it for you). Add the eggs unbeaten, cornflakes and milk; mix all of this well. It must not be too stiff. Make into one large or two small rolls, and bake in an uncovered pan in a moderate oven 1½ hours. The last half hour you pour over the roll the pineapple juice and baste several times during that last half hour. This is really delicious and so good for this time of the year, and it is most reasonable.

MRS. M. L. TURNER.
Berwyn, Md.

Date Bread for Sandwiches Wins Post Food Page Prize

Miss Nellie I. Rohrer Awarded $5 for Recipe That Captured Eyes of Judges and Later Tickled Their Palates.

The $5 prize awarded weekly by the food page editor for the best recipe submitted in The Post recipe contest, goes this week to Miss Nellie I. Rohrer, of 4119 Nebraska avenue northwest.

Miss Rohrer's recipe, "Date Bread for Sandwiches," captivated the eyes of the judges, just as the completed product later persuaded their palates that not all the good things to eat can be gleaned from a regulation cookbook.

Since you must eat bread, it being the staff of life, chief outlet for the country's surplus wheat crops, and all that, why not vary your menu occasionally with date bread, reasons The Post food page editor.

The recipe follows:

Date Bread for Sandwiches.

2 cups plain Washington flour

Elegance With Eggs.

Have you ever planned a dinner menu with eggs as the main dish? And speaking of thrift, what could be less expensive than eggs these days? Nutritionists insist that eggs are cheap at any price, what with the iron, phosphorus and all the valuable vitamins they contain. Moreover, eggs can be used to "extend" more expensive flavors such as that of mushrooms, oysters, and so forth. Speaking of oysters, here is a dish that furnishes all of the required food nutrients, except vitamin C. That can be supplied by adding a cabbage and apple salad to the menu. This economical dinner menu is as delicious as it is easy to prepare.

Noodle Oyster Loaf with Creamed Eggs
Cabbage-Apple Salad
Buttered String Beans
Rolls Butter
Prune Whip with Sponge Drop Cakes

Scalloped Corned Beef.

2 cups corned beef, cut in cubes
1 cup medium white sauce
1 stalk celery
2 slices onion
Buttered bread crumbs

Cook chopped celery and onions in the sauce. Put the canned corned beef in a shallow baking dish and add the sauce. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Cook 15 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350-400 degrees F.).

Anchovy Dressing.

If you have some anchovy paste and want to make a particularly flavorful dressing, mix four teaspoonfuls of anchovy paste with nine tablespoonfuls of oil and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Then add one-half teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, one-quarter teaspoon of paprika, six drops of Worcestershire sauce and one teaspoonful of minced parsley. This makes a slightly thick dressing. Be sure to mix these ingredients thoroughly. This dressing is particularly good on salads that include hard-boiled eggs.

Noodle Oyster Loaf.

1 4-oz. pkg. noodles
¾ cup milk
3 eggs, beaten
½ pint oysters
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook the noodles in boiling salted water 15 minutes. Drain. Combine with milk, beaten eggs and oysters and mix thoroughly with the noodles. Season and pour into buttered pan which has been dusted with flour or sifted crumbs. Set in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Unmold on platter and slice. On each slice place a hard cooked egg cut into halves lengthwise, mask with white sauce and garnish with parsley and paprika. Serves 6.

Corned Beef Cutlets.

2 cups minced canned corned beef
1 cup thick white sauce
Few grains cayenne
1 tablespoon minced green pepper

Add sauce to corned beef, then add seasonings. Spread on a plate to cool. Shape in the form of cutlets, dip in crumbs, egg, then crumbs again, fry in deep fat at a temperature of 380 degrees F. for 1½ minutes. Drain. Garnish with green leaves. Serves four.

Chilled sliced corned beef makes a most attractive cut for the cold meat platter. Served with a salad or creamed potatoes, your family and guests will thoroughly enjoy their Sunday night supper. Hot baking powder biscuits and jam make an attractive accompaniment. A few cans of corned beef will make fall meal planning a less difficult task.

Hints on Salads.

Tomatoes and green pepper and any salad green.

Ground artichoke and cucumber with lettuce or cress.

Apple, celery and cress.

Shredded cabbage with onion and tomatoes.

Asparagus tips, tomato and lettuce.

Cooked and diced potatoes; string beans; beets; carrots or turnips; and lettuce or romaine.

Slices of endive and romaine.

Brussels sprouts on lettuce or romaine.

Sliced tomatoes, cucumber and cress.

Cauliflower, asparagus and any salad green.

Crated carrots, celery and lettuce.

Fish and Cold Meats.

The full flavors of fish and cold meats that are to be used in salads are brought out by marinating them in French dressing for several hours before serving. Marinating fish preserves its color and freshness, and gives firmness to the flakes.

Cold meats need a high seasoning and marinatng allows the seasoning to penetrate the meat and keeps it from becoming too dry.

To Marinate Meat or Fish.

Mix twelve tablespoonfuls of oil and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Add one tablespoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper. Mix this thoroughly with the salad material and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours.

Prune Whip.

2 egg whites
¾ lb. prunes
⅔ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Pinch of salt

Soak prunes until tender. Put through sieve or food chopper. Add sugar, lemon juice and salt. Add to egg white and beat until mixture holds shape. Chill and serve.

Sponge Drop Cakes.

3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
¼ cup boiling water
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¾ cup pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon rated lemon rind

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually and beat until thick, dissolving as much of the sugar as possible. Add the water, lemon juice and rind. Fold in the flour which has been sifted three times with the salt and baking powder. Drop by spoonfuls on ungreased cookie sheet and bake about 15-20 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Thousand Island Dressing.

To one cupful of oil lemonaise add one-third cup of chili sauce, one-third cup of whipped cream, two tablespoonfuls of chopped sour and sweet pickles, or chowchow, and one chopped pimento. Mix these ingredients well. Serve on lettuce or any green salad, or on egg, chicken, ham, tongue, celery, or asparagus salad.

LIKE WAFFLES?
They're Delicious These Cold Mornings

There's nothing like a good breakfast for starting the day off right . . . and there's nothing like delicious waffles served with sausage and maple syrup to make your breakfast a tempting one these cold mornings.

Waffles made electrically are the best you have ever tasted. The new electric waffle makers that operate for a fraction of a cent with low cost "Matchless Service," make waffle baking a simple matter. Heat indicators and automatic controls tell you just when to pour the batter and when your waffles are cooked to just the degree of golden brown you like best. They're really inexpensive to buy, too. Your neighborhood electric shop has them on display.

SOCIAL WORK GROUP IS WARNED OF CRISIS

Hodson Says "Unthinkable Form of National Disaster" Menaces.

Unless some means is provided through private and public charities at least to prevent starvation, the United States will face "an unthinkable form of national disaster," William Hodson, director of the New York Welfare Council, told members of the City-Wide Conference on Social Work at a luncheon at the Willard Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Hodson emphasized the need for teamwork in figuring out ways to "harness all resources" to provide aid for the jobless and combat the situation brought about by unemployment. He urged every social worker to take a definite stand on all questions affecting the situation, such as proposed Federal aid and other plans for relief now being considered. He spoke emphatically in support of plans proposed by Chairman Gifford, of the President's committee for relief of unemployment, to keep recreational and character-building agencies up to their usual standards.

Conversion of present hospital facilities into a united health center assuring every person of adequate hospitalization regardless of financial conditions was urged by Dr. M. E. Bluestone, superintendent of the Montefiore Hospital, of New York.

Dr. J. H. Mason Knox, director of the Child Hygiene Bureau of Baltimore, urged better parental care for mothers in the District. He spoke of the natural heritage to which a child is entitled, and decried the laxity of laws which permit feeble-minded and criminally insane persons to bring children into the world.

Deploring the large number of deaths among mothers at childbirth, Dr. Knox said that of 16,000 who die at this period yearly, 10,000 could be saved by proper attention.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WITH the premiere less than a week away for Maude Adams and Otis Skinner in their presentation of Will Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," Erlanger Productions, Inc., under whose management the tour of these distinguished veterans of the theater is being undertaken, made announcement last night that the itinerary of the company has been definitely booked until Christmas.

After the premiere in the Ohio Theater, at Cleveland, next Tuesday evening, the tour will take Miss Adams and Mr. Skinner and their associates through various up-State cities in New York, through New England and down the Atlantic seaboard as far as Baltimore.

The week after Thanksgiving, that of November 30, will find "The Merchant" in the Shubert Theater, Newark, N. J., the closest approach to New York until the Broadway engagement, which will probably occur in late March or April.

A week in Philadelphia follows, a night in Reading, Pa., and a five-day engagement at the National Theater in this city, after the manner of "The Admirable Crichton."

After a four-day lay-off just before Christmas, two days will be devoted to Ford's Theater in Baltimore, Christmas Day and the day after. Thereupon, the route will turn either southward or westward, according to circumstances that can not be determined until after next week's Cleveland opening.

The romance of the theater is not yet dead. What memories will be conjured when Miss Adams and Mr. Skinner play the National!

It was on that stage that Miss Adams played "The Little Minister," "What Every Woman Knows," "Peter Pan," "Chantecler" and many others of her most notable successes, and Mr. Skinner "Kismet," "The Honor of the Family," "Mister Antonio" and many more of his remembered triumphs.

What a week for those whose recollections go back beyond Mae West and the Marx Brothers!

And don't get it into your mind that the closed season for motion picture "permeers" arrived immediately following last night's diversified F street goings-on.

Another steaming pony express rider has just galloped in with a postaltelegraph from E. M. Orowitz, of the home office executive staff of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, spreading the news that the world premiere of Radio Pictures' "Way Back Home," starring the famous Seth Parker (Phillips Lord) will be celebrated at the RKO-Keith Theater in this city on Thursday evening, November 5, at 8 o'clock.

Test showings, so Mr. Orowitz reports, indicate that "Way Back Home" will inaugurate a new era in talking picture entertainment and that the American public will welcome this deep, fresh breath of the true American spirit, as typified in this surprise production.

Well, Mr. Orowitz wasn't wrong about "Cimarron."

There evidently hasn't been much going on in this country lately. It was driven into my consciousness yesterday that every subject but one in the current issue of Fox Movietone News is foreign. Not uninteresting on that account, but still not very near home.

First is shown Adolph Hitler, leader of the German counterpart of the Italian Fascisti, giving the Mussolini salute to his gray-shirted hordes; then comes Premier Ramsay MacDonald's pep talk to his downhearted constituents; next, the pageant of the Royal Guards at Budapest, some English girl firefighters having fun with the hose and lifenets and finally a carnival of Rhineland girls acclaiming the product of the valley's principal vintners.

The only American item was a bunch of mannequins showing off new styles in fur coats, and, come to think of it, even that might have been made in London!

Not that it matters.

It is my hope that I am not betraying a confidence when I make public that the Columbia Players, one of the oldest and staunchest groups of amateurs in the Capital—they have been at it some eight years or so now, I believe—find themselves in an embarrassing sich-ee-ay-shun, sometimes inelegantly referred to as a tough spot.

It has been the habit of this group to revive old-time melodramas and present them as they were done in their heyday. On "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," which packed them in, a profit of something like $180 was realized—important money for any group of amateurs, acting mostly for the love of it.

Much of this $180-plus, urgently needed to pay bills, was mailed in small checks, $1 and $2, just as they had come in in payment for tickets, by one member to the treasurer of the organization. That envelope never arrived, nor has it been determined that any of the checks ever has been cashed.

It would be a gracious thing if those who made out those checks last February, March or April—or whenever it was—would mail duplicates to Robert M. Miller, jr., 1920 Jackson street northeast.

Of course, the Columbia Players are not wholly blameless in the matter. Records are a trifle balled up, addresses have been lost, some supporters have been written while others have not—you know how it is. Or aren't you an amateur?

But they do so want to do "Lady Windemere's Fan," three original one-act plays by members of the group; "Lady Audley's Secret" and, maybe in March or April, Philip Barry's "Holiday." But no got jack!

And, after all, as it stands now, you saw "Nellie, the etc.," for nothing. Is that fair?

Apropos of nothing in particular, when those models were parading around in the Fox Movietone News in all those gorgeous coats of ermine and Russian sable, I was wondering if that is what they mean by the hides of march?

IN THE CINEMA HOUSES

METROPOLITAN

"THE MAD GENIUS." Warner Brothers picturization of Martin Brown's play, "The Idol," adapted to the screen by J. Grubb Alexander and Harvey Thew, starring John Barrymore, supported by Marian Marsh, Donald Cook, Charles Butterworth, Louis Alberni and Carmel Myers. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed Friday night.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Ushered in last night by the booming of flashlights, the glare of Kliegs, the grinding of movie cameras and a marquee broadcast of the arrival of the celebrities, guests of the management at the premiere, in true Hollywood fashion, this deft blending of grim drama, flippant comedy and an impassioned love revealed John Barrymore in a role which represents in its every aspect—even to a thoroughly Pagan philosophy with regard to the life of an artist—a refinement, a glorification and a strengthening of Du Maurier's famous Svengali.

The impression conveyed to this commentator was as if after completing "Svengali," Barrymore had said, "Now I shall show them what I really can do with such a part!"

And shown us he has. The character of Ivan Tsarakov, the illegitimate son of a premiere danseuse in the Imperial Russian Ballet and a Grand Duke, born with a club foot but the soul and genius for dancing of his mother, is played with suppression, variety and a tremendously moving, but frequently repugnant, honesty and vigor.

The major characters are introduced and the unhappy character of Tsarakov indexed in a brief prologue that precedes the action of the play proper by fifteen years, and discloses Ivan and his helper, Karimsky, conducting a rambling marionette show in the peasant villages of central Europe.

On a torrential night in one of these rural settlements, the two rescue a lad from the brutality of an angered father, and in him Tsarhov perceives the body, the gift of dance and the latent genius that might have been his. Fifteen years later, Fedor has largely fulfilled the expectations of the mad genius he looks upon as father. Completely is he under the older man's unscrupulous domination. When he leaves, rather than surrender his love for Nana, the premiere danseuse of the Tsarakov ballet, the maestro places no limit upon the maliciousness of his revenge—until finally his stage manager, whom he has nurtured with drugs, in a maniacal frenzy turns upon him with an ax and leaves him a ghastly memento of his own cruel tyranny on the fantastic setting for one of his master ballets.

Such is the tragic tale that Mr Barrymore brings us in this handsomely staged, extremely well acted and efficiently directed picture.

Marian Marsh is again leading woman and acquits herself infinitely better than in the role of Trilby, for which she was in no way equipped. Donald Cook offers a stalwart and believable portrayal as Fedor—impersonated in his youth by Frankie Darro—and Charles Butterworth, oddly, succeeds in making his comic antics and observations seem not out of place in a drama to which at first blush they would seem not to belong. Carmel Myers, Louis Alberni and Andre Luget are foremost among the delineators of minor characters.

Last evening's inaugural bill embraced a salutatory address by Mr. Albert Howson, chief of the Warner Brothers' scenario department, and a few brief remarks by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, recently appointed Chief of the Metropolitan Police.

The auxiliary screen attractions include a "Pictorial News Review;" Robert L. Ripley's latest "Believe It Or Not" reel; a "Merrie Melodies" song cartoon comedy; E. M. Newman's travel talk, "The Road to Mandalay," a trip from Sumatra to Burma, and the special reel showing the guests of the evening entering the theater to enjoy an exceptional bill.

FOX

"AMBASSADOR BILL." Fox picturization of a story by Guy Bolton, starring Will Rogers, supported by Marguerite Churchill, Ted Alexander, Greta Nissen, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Ray Milland, Ferdinand Munier and Tom Ricketts. Directed by Sam Taylor. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Heavily tinctured with a jovial sort of lese majeste, heartily amusing, never uninteresting and occasionally genuinely thrilling, this perfectly fitted vehicle for the droll talents of "America's Ambassador without a portfolio" can give offense or not—depending on the degree to which you deem the operation of the United States Government's foreign service sacrosanct. To one of the State Department's career men, if there are any such at this day and date, and a few of the members of the United States Senate, it is conceivable that parts of "Ambassador Bill" might appeal as a little too slanderous for comfort. To the rest of us, it is just a lot of good, clean fun.

That is to say, clean enough. There are one or two occasions upon which Mr. Rogers' quips become perhaps a trifle smoky, and there is a scene with Greta Nissen which, while innocent in motivation and intent, nevertheless is frankly expository of the young Swedish beauty's exceedingly ample charms.

The rest of the time, "Ambassador Bill" is introducing the diplomatic methods of the Oklahoma cow country to a perturbed little kingdom in the Balkans. A Balkan king has seemingly deserted his wife, leaving his small son on the throne with a revolution raging. That, I believe, has been done. Then there is a scheming prime minister, a plotting palace staff, a commercial treaty to be executed, a young queen who wants her husband but is too proud to admit it, counter-revolution, &c., &c. In fashioning his narrative, Mr. Bolton has remembered Mark Twain, Richard Harding Davis, some of the "Follies" and maybe a comic opera plot or two—none of which has been plagiarized, but all of which have left a subconscious imprint.

Ambassador Bill is a great hit with the boy king; so much that Babe Ruth becomes the pattern of his life, baseball his favorite game and throwing a lariat one of his most expert accomplishments. There is an intensely human and lovable note in all this. When Senator Pillsbury puts in an appearnace on an inspection tour of our foreign embassies, enough satirical comment is leveled at the upper house of Congress to keep the solons' ears tingling all winter!

Marguerite Churchill is charming as the young queen, Tad Alexander is a natural and likeable kid, as her ruling son, and Ray Milland a handsome and much maligned monarch who eventually gets his country back—along with his family and all his chestful of medals! Gustav von Seyffertitz and Greta Nissen are the arch plotters and Ferdinand Munier a pompous and thorough-going bore as Senator Pillsbury.

If I have neglected to say it earlier, Will Rogers himself has never been better.

On the stage, Fanchon & Marco's "Carmenesque" idea is, of course, thick with Spanish atmosphere and alive with Spanish melodies. It is a gorgeously staged unit, presenting Melino and Davis, a mixed team of low comedy knockabouts; Rose Valyda, double-voiced prima donna; Ray Sax, a dancing musician; the Three Matadors, acrobatic dancers, and a group of particularly versatile and well trained Sunkist Beauties, who have a rolling globe and a stilts routine, each of which is a real test of skill.

The orchestra offers "Dream House on Aircastle Road," with solo interpolations, as the overture conducted by Al Mitchell, and the Fox Movietone News completes an excellent entertainment.

COLUMBIA

"SUSAN LENOX, HER FALL AND RISE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of David Graham Phillips' novel, starring Greta Garbo, with Clark Gable, supported by Jean Hersholt, Ian Keith, John Miljan and Alan Hale. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

They've given Garbo, Gable. And that's grand. Now please, please, won't they give the lady gayety?

The first 20 minutes or so of this story of Susan Lenox and her falling, rising, falling—it all depends on the viewpoint just when you'll think she's high and when low—is thrilling entertainment. Principally because Greta, with Gable as an excellent foil, has a little fun sneaking it by studio heads, perhaps, for gayety for this glamorous lady seems tabco.

The remainder of the picture is intensely irritating and unpleasant, not overly aided by a sudden rush of synchronized melody at the ending to warn of the fadeout to come.

Helge, with no name except the "Susan Lenox" alias supplied by a circus freak; no mother, and nothing except a beast of an uncle who plans to marry her off to the first bidder, runs away from her farm home in terror. She is found, befriended and finally loved by Rodney Spencer, a young engineer. Separated from him by the machinations of her uncle, she comes a cropper and takes her first fall through no fault of her own. Consigned to the gutter by a fury-deafened Rodney, Helge rises in the world, and, to humiliate him, gives Rodney a lift from the drunken, joblessly condition into which he has sunk.

From this point, "Susan" does a "Morocco," following her man here, there and everywhere, ending up in Puerto Sante—and you find that on the map!

Greta Garbo again has to rise above a weak, tragically limned play and does so gracefully and brilliantly, yet even she can not keep weariness of an uncongenial role from flicking out now and then. It is in her happy moments, her delicious fishing expedition or her little jokes and harum-skarum antics with Clark Gable, that her mobile face and husky voice are most beautiful. There is something then, electric and vividly alive about her.

Gable is splendid and the combination seems inspired, though not so inflammatory—at least this time—as hinted. As Rodney, Gable is natural with a steady surety of touch and, when the part allows, oh, so attractive. He blusters his lines just a little too loudly once or twice but, on the whole, does extremely well with an illogical and, at times, most unsympathetic, character.

Susan is likewise inconsistent, following her man about the world with her pride bedraggled only to pick it up and dust it off when she finds him, so that it all begins again.

As for the rest of the cast, no one matters much. Jean Hersholt is, as usual, good. Ian Keith, Alan Hale and John Miljan appear briefly and adequately. There's a dog that will surprise you.

Each of the four subsidiaries, Zasu Pitts and Thelma Todd in the "Pajama Party;" Walter Futter's "Curiosities;" "Football Thrills," and the newsreel, with the Akron belittlin' the Woolworth Building, is interesting and entertaining.

RKO-KEITH'S

"CONSOLATION MARRIAGE." An RKO-Radio picturization of a story by Bill Cunningham, adapted to the screen by Humphrey Pearson, starring Irene Dunne, supported by Pat O'Brien, John Halliday, Matt Moore, Lester Vail and Myrna Loy. Directed by Paul Sloane. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

For some time back, when a featured player has been elevated to stardom, the initial vehicle has been woefully inadequate for merchandizing those qualities responsible for the advancement. Having gained her histrionic laurels as Sabra in the cinematic translation of Edna Ferber's "Cimarron," Irene Dunne has been given in "Consolation Marriage" a dramatic part worthy of her talents and one where she may go even to further glory.

However, the bald narrative offers little in the way of novelty, the plot revolving, much as it did in "Rebound" and "Second Choice," around the marriage of jilted lovers. There are the inevitable attempts at breaking the consolation match, but love and a convenient young daughter conquer. It is strange how the movie spur-of-the-moment connubial alliances are of the type that are supposed to be made in heaven!

As might be presumed, it is not so much the story that makes this picture of moment as it is the charming and easy manner in which the members of the cast portray their several characters. Quite naturally, Miss Dunne has the major portion of the work, and well she does it—quietly and unostentatiously. Her portrayal is marred only by the interpolation of an entirely unwarranted song. Overlooking this one extremely minor flaw, Miss Dunne's delineation of Mary Porter will go down as better done than that which served to elevate her from the ranks of RKO's featured players.

Pat O'Brien, playing opposite Miss Dunne, is cast in another reportorial role, this one requiring more seriousness than that of "The Front Page," and no less expertly done. Lester Vail, as Miss Dunne's "ex," is an acceptable piano virtuoso, who, we feel, did the star a favor by getting married—to someone else. Likewise, Myrna Loy, as Mr. O'Brien's boyhood flame now extinguished by a prior marriage, gives him a break. Little is seen of the newspaper on which Mr. O'Brien is supposed to work, but if John Halliday and Matt Moore are adequate representatives, then it was (or is) quite some sheet, for these two gentlemen are swell.

Altogether, "Consolation Marriage" is a charming drama, well played, directed and mounted, and the pleasure of the feature is enhanced by the subsidiary attractions, headed by "Scratch as Catch Can," featuring the inimitable comedians, Clark and McCullough, as high-pressure insurance salesmen—and what salesmen they are! Krazy Kat is seen conducting "The Weenie Roast," a diverting animated cartoon, and the Pathe News unreels the current events.

PALACE

"THE CUBAN LOVE SONG." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, starring Lawrence Tibbett; supported by Jimmy Durante, Ernest Torrence, Lupe Velez, Karen Morley and Louise Fazenda. Directed by W. S. Van Dyke. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

The Marines are still having a great time—in the films—and this time a new trio is furnishing the fireworks which always accompany Marine photoplays. Lawrence Tibbett, magnificent voice and all, heads the triumvirate, the other two members being Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante and Ernest Torrence, both fun makers of the first water. Tibbett romps and sings his way through "The Cuban Love Song" in a manner that will win him many new admirers.

There is a real story here, despite all the roguish mischief written in between the lines of the love tale. The feminine leads, played by Lupe Velez and Karen Morley, are executed with a finesse that is delightful, while Louise Fazenda, always funny, is a scream in a short bit as Jimmy Durante's wife.

Tibbett, as Terry, the rich young man who enlisted because he craved excitement, finds life too full to settle down with the girl to whom he has been engaged for three years, Karen Morley. In Cuba he finds Lupe Velez, through one of his pranks, and his real love develops. War rumors are afloat and Terry spends his last days on the island in a secluded nook of happiness with his "peanut girl." In the war he is disabled and fears to return to his love because of this disability. Meanwhile, Karen, still faithful to him, has nursed him back to health. After ten years, however, Terry finds his two old companions and the yearning for Lupe becomes too great to resist.

He goes to Cuba once more, only to find his sweetheart has died. His son, young Terry, is the only remnant of his romance but the two, returning to America, are welcomed by the ever-dependable Karen and the usual happy ending results.

Tibbett's songs will please. Lupe Velez sings and acts better than in any recent release, while Miss Morley is perfect in her role. Durante and Torrance have their moments, too, to keep the film from being too stereopyted. Swell entertainment, any time.

Quality, rather than quantity, marks a stage show that won't be equaled in weeks. Dave Schooler is the master of ceremonies, and how that boy works! His own portion of the bill unfolds likes a combination of Paderewski, Thurston, Bill Robinson, George McManus, Rudy Vallee and Frank Banta. If you don't believe it, drop in and watch him play that piano; dance, draw comic cartoons, perform feats of magic and trip the light fantastic. Dave is one of the big reasons why masters of ceremony linger on.

The other two features are the O'Connor Family, mother, two sons and daughter, all of whom dance like nobody's business, and Julia Curtis, who without moving a muscle, sends a voice of widest range through the mouths of Schooler and the two O'Connor boys in a number that stopped the show. Yes, and the chorus is made up of a dozen hand-picked steppers, well costumed and dancing before a beautiful setting.

An extremely clever Silly Symphony, "The Spider and the Fly," adds considerably to an already high-class bill, the only drawback to which was a rather ancient issue of the Hearst Metrotone News.

Policeman's Killer Adjudged Insane

Jury's Decision Is Given in Case of Bert Davis After Short Hearing.

Wheeled into the Criminal Court in an invalid's chair, Bert Davis, indicted as the slayer of Policeman Charles D. Poole, of the Twelfth Precinct, was adjudged of unsound mind by a lunacy jury yesterday in a ceremony that for briefness was one of the shortest hearings on record.

Attorney August H. Moran, for Davis, placed Dr. D. Percy Hickling, District alienist on the stand, asked him but three questions, and submited the case. The jury arose and voted the man of unsound mind.

Meanwhile Davis, apparently unaware of the seriousness of the case, sat hunched over in his chair, chewing a piece of his shirt. The decision of the jury does not carry with it freedom from the possibility of at some time facing the indictment Davis shot and killed Poole August 4, in the vicinity of the Soldiers' Home grounds.

EXPOSITION TO GIVE HALLOWEEN NIGHT

More Than 20,000 Persons Are Expected to Attend Show Today.

The seventh annual industrial exposition of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will blossom forth with special new decorative features in celebration of Halloween tonight as the event reaches its conclusion with a total attendance estimated to have exceeded 100,000 for the week.

More than 20,000 visitors attended the exposition in the Washington Auditorium last night, according to estimates made by officials, and an even larger attendance is expected tonight. Additional attendants will be on hand to take care of the throng.

Last night was "Inventors' Night," and various Washington inventors were present as guests of the chamber. Numerous of the creations of these inventors have been on exhibit during the week, loaned to the exposition for the occasion by the Smithsonian Institution and the War Department.

Features of the affair tonight will include awards by coal merchants of several tons of coal, culminating a contest which has been running throughout the week and which will conclude tonight.

Jaunt for Clown Costume Halted

Unable to Wait for Clown Suit, Child Starts for It; Doesn't Get Far.

Fearful lest his grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Smith, of 620 C street northeast, might not make delivery on time of a clown costume she had promised for tonight, Ralph McMahon, 4, set out for the Smith residence yesterday by tricycle.

It's a long way from the McMahon home at 6502 Eastern avenue, Takoma Park, and when William F. Sheehan, of the Big Vein Coal Co., saw the little lad pedaling on Blair road he hailed him and questioned him.

Smith telephoned the boy's mother, who was worried about his absence, and then telephoned the grandmother, who reported that the clown suit is all ready and would be delivered early today, in plenty of time for Ralph to celebrate Halloween in the right way.

Car Conductor Held Up But Yields No Money

Police last night were searching for two colored men who held up a street car conductor at the point of a gun, but fled when they found only two empty billfolds in his pockets.

The conductor, J. T. Taylor, of 2026 Benning road northeast, told police that the pair approached him at Dix street northeast and the District line. While one of them held a pistol, the other went through his pockets. Finding both billfolds empty, they threw them on the ground and ran.

Elderly Couple Injured As Bus Overturns Sedan

An elderly couple were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Rapid Transit Co. bus on its maiden trip after being reconditioned for service. There were no passengers on the bus, which was on its "shakedown" voyage.

The accident was at Kalmia road and Sixteenth street. Injured persons were Frederick W. Graham, 70 years old, 1615 Riggs place northwest, and his wife, Mrs. Edith G. Graham, 65 years old. They suffered cuts and bruises and were treated by a private physician. Their sedan was overturned in the accident.

NAN BRITTON FAILS TO TESTIFY IN TRIAL

Minors Barred From Court Where Slander Suit Is Being Heard.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Nan Britton failed to testify today in her $50,000 libel suit against a Marion, Ohio, hotel keeper for defaming her character.

The suit, brought by Miss Britton against C. A. Klunk for his selling and distributing "The Answer to The President's Daughter"—a rebuttal to her charge that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her daughter—was expected to reach a climax this afternoon, when Nan had been scheduled to tell her story from the witness stand.

Judge John M. Killits had refused to allow Miss Britton to take the stand earlier in the day when she was called by her attorney, William Fish Marsteller, and instead called a conference of attorneys to decide what was to be the general line of questioning.

When the proceedings were resumed in the afternoon Marsteller began reading again from Nan Britton's book, "The President's Daughter," and thus disappointed the huge throng which had packed the small courtroom and adjoining corridors, anticipating Nan's first-hand story of her alleged relations with Harding.

In the morning session, high school students and all minors were barred from the courtroom for the duration of the trial. Judge Killits stated that the "spiciness" of the testimony was not fitting for the minors to hear. The judge also threatened to cite for contempt any one violating his instructions.

8,000 WATCH TECH CONQUER CENTRAL, 12-0, NEAR TITLE; CATHOLIC U. WINS FROM DUQUESNE IN NIGHT GAME, 20-12

DE MELLO'S KICKING FIGURES GREATLY IN CARDINALS' VICTORY

Special to The Washington Post.

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 30.—Displaying a versatile back field which shared equally the burden of advancing the ball, Catholic University tonight defeated Duquesne University, 20 to 12, before 5,000 fans at Forbes Field. Victory was sweeter because of defeats suffered by the Washington eleven at the hands of the Dukes in the last two engagements.

Carl De Mello, right half back, was the outstanding player. His punting led to one touchdown, he kicked two extra points after touchdown and made the final score on a pretty end run. He was aided by his three back field mates—Oliver, Whelan and Sheary—all of whom proved good ball carriers. The Dukes made thirteen first downs against ten for the victors, but this was no indication of superiority, as the Catholics clearly outplayed the Dukes.

Whelan Takes Pass For Touchdown.

A poor punt by Zaninelli, which sailed out of bounds on his 45-yard line, led to the Catholics' first touchdown. With Oliver and Sheary carrying the ball the visitors made a first down on the 30-yard line. They lost several yards on two line plays and then Oliver made a perfect pass to Whelan from the 32-yard mark, Whelan catching the ball on the 15-yard line and running for a touchdown without a local player touching him. De Mello kicked the extra point with a perfect placement.

Following this score, the Dukes braced and outgained the Catholics during the remainder of the first half, making their touchdown on a 55-yard drive in which they amassed four first downs. First, Zaninelli made a first down on the visitor's 42-yard line, carrying the ball from his 45-yard line. Deluca followed with a forward pass to Niccolai for the second first down on the Catholic's 29-yard line. Line plays with Cristina bearing the brunt of the attack, made the third first down on the 18-yard line, and then Deluca passed to Devinney, who was stopped on the 8-yard line.

Three Tries Net Dukes Goal.

Cristina made it the fourth first down on the 6-yard line, and then Cristina made the needed yardage for touchdown on three tries through the Catholic line. Sullivan, subbing for Devinney, missed the extra point.

It was DeMello's punting that led to the visitors' second touchdown in the third period. The Washington right half back kicked to the local 1-yard line and Zaninelli kicked to DeMello, who returned the ball to the Duke 32-yard mark from midfield. DeMello made a first down on the 16-yard line following which Sheary carried the ball on three tries to the 8-yard mark for a first down. Sheary carried it to the 1-foot line on the first try and Oliver made the touchdown by crashing right tackle when he was covered on a lateral pass attempt. DeMello missed the extra point.

Dukes Score on 70-Yard March.

Receiving the ball on the succeeding kick-off, Duquesne made a 70-yard advance for a touchdown without losing possession of the ball. On an 18-yard run Chacko made a first down on the Catholic 48-yard line. Deluca made a first down on the 38-yard line and then Devinney passed to Chacko for a 22-yard gain which carried the ball to the 16-yard line.

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 30.—Prepared to encounter a University of Iowa eleven which will outweigh them 10 pounds to the man, a squad of travel-worn George Washington University football players arrarrived here at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tomorrow they will attempt to become the second Eastern team this year to defeat the Hawkeyes, Pittsburg having previously gained a 20-to-0 victory. If the poundage of the Old Gold machine proves too much for them, George Washington is well equipped for a counter aerial attack, with Matia hurling passes and Mulvey and Chambers, veteran ends, receiving.

The statistical scale gives the Colonials the edge in conjecture over the game's outcome. The Eastern eleven has won three out of four games this season, scoring in every game for a total of 117 points. So far the Iowans have not scored a point this season.

Iowa Held Indiana Scoreless.

Besides Pittsburgh, Texas A and M. and Minnesota have humbled Iowa, while Indiana was held to a scoreless tie. George Washington's only tumbling block, Tulsa University, of Oklahoma, is rated as approximately the same caliber of team as the Texas Aggies, who tramped on Iowa, 29 to 0.

Coach Burton A. Ingwersen's Old Gold players ended their week's drill today with light signal practice. The short session climaxed a week of drill devoted almost entirely to offense in an effort to inject the scoring punch which has been lacking all season. Four changes in the line-up, which will start Laws, half back; Stutsman, right guard, and Merten and Swaney, ends, have been made.

Colonials Depend On Usink.

Rudy Usnik, 180-pound sophomore addition to the back field, is the chief reliance of the Colonial players. Usnik is a power on defense. Incidentally, he is the biggest of the visiting backs.

George Washington may show an edge in punting with the kicking duties trusted to Lee Carlin. Iowa has no reliable kicker, while Carlin is said to average nearly 50 yards with his boots.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—Tossed from pillar to post in their last three games, Georgetown and Boston College will meet tomorrow afternoon at Fenway Park in their annual conflict. While the contest may not match that of a year ago in thrills, there is every reason to believe it will be one of the hardest fought that Boston will see this year. Both teams are anxious to climb back on the victory road, and there is strong suspicion that a brand of football, surpassing anything either team has exhibited thus far, may be forthcoming.

An element of secrecy has surrounded the Boston College preparations and Coach Joe McKenney has altered both his attack and team personnel due to injuries during the past week.

The condition of the Georgetown players, who arrived in Boston this afternoon, after two gruelling trips, is not known, but the Hilltoppers have an almost entirely experienced line-up, in which only two sophomores have been able to earn positions. The rest of the starting line-up and the majority of the substitutes played against B. C. last year.

Eagles Weakened By Injuries.

The Eagles will present a rather tattered frontier, Bill Bennett, regular right tackle, being definitely out of the game. Lou Musco, the left end, has an injured ankle, and has given way to Joe Killilea. Couhig has been forced to shift from tackle to guard to strengthen the middle of the line.

Charley Callery, regular left half back, will not be able to play on account of a bruised thigh, which prohibits any contact work, and Johnny Freitas, quarter back, will be on the bench at the start, although he will get into the line-up later in the game.

It is expected that Georgetown will, as usual, rely largely on Leroy Bordeau, plunging full back, to make most of its gains. This former Adirondack wood-chopper is a terror to opposing lines and even the powerful Michigan State forwards could not stop him last week.

Unless injuries occur, Georgetown's offense should function smoothly, as Coach Mills has a well-drilled unit in his first team. However, the Hilltop subs do not measure up satisfactorily and any loss of regulars might spell Georgetown's downfall.

Sharkey Declines Offer For Loughran Match

New York, Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Jack Sharkey has declined an offer to meet Tommy Loughran. Johnny Buckley, manager of Sharkey, told Jimmy Johnston, boxing official of Madison Square Garden, today. Sharkey intends to refrain from engaging bouts until he meets Jack Dempsey or Max Schmeling.

Buckley proposed that Johnston arrange a bout between the other important heavyweight of the Boston Stable, Ernie Schaff, and Mickey Walker.

Meantime Johnston is going ahead with plans for a Primo Carnera-Jose Santa "super heavyweight" bout November 13, and a similar bout between Carnera and Campolo November 27.

Only Son Inherits Comiskey Estate

Elected President by White Sox After Millionaire Magnate's Death.

Chicago, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—An only son will carry on for baseball's "Old Roman," Charles A. Comiskey.

The task fell on the shoulders of his only son, J. Louis Comiskey, today, and he immediately announced that he would carry on by rebuilding the White Sox Baseball Club and keeping it in the Comiskey family.

The "Old Roman," who died last Monday, failed to leave a will, but his attorney announced that the entire estate, valued at several million dollars, would automatically be turned over to his son, the only surviving member of the immediate family.

"My intention is not only to keep the White Sox Club and to follow my father's policies, but to strengthen it as quickly as possible," the sole heir to the Comiskey fortune said today. "I have called in Louis Fonseca, manager of the club, for an immediate conference and will do all I possibly can do to give Chicago a pennant-winning team."

After today's conference with the family's attorneys, during which announcement was made that the late owner of the White Sox had died intestate, Louis Comiskey was elected president, succeeding his father.

Blacksburg Eleven Is Seen Worthy Foe for Old Liners.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S ambitious and undefeated football team pursues its quest of Southern Conference honors today in Blacksburg, Va., where the Old Liners will encounter the sturdy Gobblers of Virginia Polytechnic Institute in what the experts believe will prove a thorough test for the invading club.

Several weeks ago the wiseacres would have thought it absurd for anybody to say that V. P. I. could extend Maryland, but since the Gobblers held Kentucky to a 20-6 score last week, there is now plenty of respect for the Blacksburg crew. What was most impressive in that game last Saturday was the fact that Kentucky could do no better than tie its smaller foe during the first half.

Maryland Fortunate To Tie Kentucky.

It will be remembered that Maryland was fortunate to hold Kentucky to a 6-all deadlock in their game two weeks ago at College Park. Most of the experts who viewed that contest voiced the opinion that Kentncky should have won. The statistics gave the Wildcats a superiority of 3 to 1 in ground gaining.

Ted Keenan, veteran tackle, who was injured in the Kentucky clash, returns to Maryland's line-up today. Keenan's presence will bolster the Old Liners considerably, particularly on the offense, and if Maryland can produce the sort of attack that it uncorked last week without Keenan's aid against V. M. I., then V. P. I. is due for a tough afternoon inasmuch as Keenan will be present.

Al Woods, clever Maryland quarter back, probably will remain on the bench once again. He, too, was injured in the Kentucky game, but has not recovered sufficiently to encounter the rigors of a strenuous battle such as that which looms.

Sellino Replaces Woods.

Otherwise, Maryland's line-up will be the one that tied Kentucky and defeated Navy, Virginia, V. M. I. and Washington College. Al Pease and Jack Norris will hold forth at the ends; Ernie Carliss will do tackle duty with Keenan; Courtney Hayden and Jess Krajcovic will be at the guards, and Jack Mitchell will perform at center. In the back field, Joe Settino will substitute for Woods, with George Chalmers and Bozey Berger playing at the half backs and Ray Poppelman at full back.

KEY CONTEST IN BIG TEN AWAITED

Minnesota to Battle Wisconsin Today Before 50,000.

From that conflict, to be staged before an overflow crowd of 50,000 spectators, is expected to come the one team to give Northwestern's undefeated Wildcats a battle for the 1931 title.

While the Badgers and Gophers are locked in their decisive combat, Northwestern will entertain Illinois at Evanston, with the prospects of coasting through to an easy victory, judging from the lacing Michigan gave Illinois a week ago. In the other games, "Old Man" Stagg's courageous but weak Maroons are to be thrown into the pit against Purdue, one of the strong teams of the Big Ten, while Ohio State will take on Indiana at Bloomington.

Two Other Teams Meet Outside Foes.

The two other Big Ten teams, Michigan and Iowa, enter other fields. The Wolverines move East to play Princeton and that may be Princeton's tough luck. Iowa and George Washington tangle at Iowa City. The Hawkeyes, after going four games without scoring a point, appear to be in a spot to chalk up a victory.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota game is the key battle to the championship situation, and is of prime importance to the championship aspirations of Northwestern. If Minnesota triumphs, the Big Ten will be provided with a real "crucial" struggle when the Gophers come to Evanston to battle the undefeated Northwestern team a week hence.

Wisconsin, which rose to the heights by smashing Purdue in an upset victory, only to slip back again by losing to Pennsylvania, may provide trouble for the powerful Gophers, but the general belief is that Minnesota will come out on top.

Minnesota figures to present a better scoring team than Wisconsin, chiefly because of MacDougal, who can pass and run. The Gophers also have a slight advantage in the punting of Capt. Clarence Munn, while Wisconsin's running game may be held down by the big Minnesota line.

Indiana is one of the four undefeated teams in Western Conference competition, but the Hoosiers probably will join with the majority after the Buckeyes get through with them. Despite its defeat by Northwestern, Ohio State has a powerful team, and figures to bowl over the plucky Hoosiers.

If the Maroons get a touchdown while the Boilermakers score a half dozen, it will be a successwul day on the midway.

Michigan Seeks Revenge On Princeton Today for Defeat of Fifty Years Ago

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—Suffering from epidemic of stiff necks after a two-hour stopover in New York, where they looked at the high buildings for the first time, the Michigan football team will meet Princeton tomorrow in the first game between these schools since 1881.

They came to Princeton under the general charge of Fielding H. Yost, their athletic director, who did not play in the 1881 game for one of two reasons. Either he was too young for the varsity 50 years ago, as he himself maintains, or too old as other parties suggest. Princeton won that game by three touchdowns, two home runs, a straight flush and two lengths, under the old Rugby system of scoring, but in view of the comparative strength and proficiency of the two teams now, Michigan is expected to take belated revenge tomorrow.

As the team engaged in light practice on an open lot beside Palmer Stadium, Mr. Yost was drawn into a discussion of the probable outcome of a football game between one club trained according to his strict dry rules and another one trained on cigarettes and good wholesome whiskey with a champagne cooler for a water bucket. Mr. Yost insisted that the dry team would win, but was forced to admit that he had never seen a thoroughly wet team and that his training rules were the expression of a narrow prejudice. "It makes no difference," Mr. Yost said. "I just know you can't train a football team on whiskey and I won't have whiskey drinkers on any team of mine."

The team came East under the direct charge of Harry Kipke; the head coach, who will take the responsibility during the game. Mr. Yost, as director, becomes active in the coaching only at times when Michigan is preparing to play the University of Illinois, with an obvious likelihood of winning. The boys beat Illinois last week and Mr. Yost took great pleasure in consoling his old friend, Robert Zuppke, the Illinois coach, in Mr. Zuppke's own dialect, and promptly turned the team back to Mr. Kipke.

The historical and traditional background of Princeton interested the Michigan boys very much. They were shown where Woodrow Wilson had his office when he was president of the university, where Johnny Poe lived and, from a distance, the approximate location of the field in New Brunswick, N. J., where Princeton and Rutgers met in the first game of

Brilliant Grid Card Today Offered

Notre Dame to Meet Carnegie in First Test in East.

Columbia and Cornell Command Interest in Ithaca Game.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—The first Eastern charge of Notre Dame's steamroller, geared to flatten Carnegie, features the last October football splurge tomorrow.

Except for a scoreless tie in the mud with Northwestern, the organization bequeathed to his ambitious successors by Knute Rockne has moved rapidly along the road to another football championship. It has gathered momentum, with anywhere from 2 to 5 full teams rolling into action, beating Indiana, Drake and Pittsburgh by big margins.

Notre Dame can afford to take no chances against Carnegie, which upset one of Rockne's good teams five years ago, but the fighting Irish should win with something to spare against a subnormal Tartan outfit. All the fighting Irish then will have to worry about will be Pennsylvania, Navy, Southern California and Army, on successive Saturdays in November.

Oregon Invades New York U.

The Notre Dame-Carnegie affair tops an intersectional bill of warfare on which the record for long-distance ambition belongs to the University of Oregon, 3,100 miles from home for the doubtful advantage of bumping into New York University's undefeated juggernaut. The violets of the big town no doubt will attempt to outdo the track meet tally of 53 to 0 run up against the Oregonians by Southern California.

The East's entries have further opportunity to embellish their intersectional score sheet in the Harvard-Virginia and Army-Colorado College games. On the other hand, Michigan figures to add to Princeton's suffering and Bob McMillin's undefeated Kansas Aggies have high hopes of overthrowing West Virginia at Morgantown.

In the storm and strife for sectional honors, the Columbia-Cornell battle of unbeaten Eastern outfits at Ithaca and the Southwest Conference feature, Southern Methodist-Texas, at Dallas, belong around the top. Both involve old and spectacular rivalries.

Cornell Boasts Flock Of Fleet Backs.

Cornell, the favorite, has a flock of fleet backs, working behind a typical Dobie line, but they will find Columbia the toughest opposition to hurdle so far. Southern Methodist should trample Texas unless the Longhorns suddenly snap out of their big slump.

Northwestern, its Big Ten championship hopes riding high, figures to trounce Illinois and continue to set the pace. Two of the remaining three contenders in this conference may be eliminated, for Wisconsin and Minnesota come to grips in a toss-up affair, while Indiana is an underdog, even if a determined one, against Ohio State.

Unless Georgia finds an unexpected stumbling block again in Florida, the Southern Conference pace-setters seem virtually certain to remain intact. Tulane has a "breather" against Mississippi Aggies and Tennessee's unbeaten eleven appears much too strong for Duke. Kentucky, after being tossed back many times by the Crimson Tide, has a good chance to turn the tables on Alabama.

Pro Basket Ball League Menaced by Finances

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A strong possibility exists that the American Basketball League, the professional circuit, will not operate this year, John J. O'Brien, president, said today.

The Toledo team, harassed by a bank failure, will be unable to operate, leaving only five sure teams, O'Brien said, these being two in Brooklyn and one each in Chicago, Rochester and Fort Wayne.

TECH HIGH stepped on the threshold of its fourth consecutive high school football championship yesterday afternoon when Central High, its perennial antagonist, was beaten 12-0 in a game made up of short, leg-driving bucks, none of the expected aerial attack, no runs longer than 15 yards, and a voluminous amount of good line play.

About 8,000 filled Central Stadium proper, and oozed down onto the sidelines to witness the twenty-minth battle between the schools.

Tech's fat, low-slung half back and captain, George Sachs, scored both times for Tech, his tallies coming in the second and fourth periods. His first score found its source in a 15-yard penalty against Central, and his second in an interception by Al Meikeljohn of one of Central's four unsuccessful passes.

In the remaining two periods, Tech was the aggressor, the smoother and the smarter team. Central's two openings which might have developed into scoring were dissipated when Cumberland rumbled on Tech's 15-yard line in the first period, and when the same hard-driving player failed to see three Central receivers clear on a pass play in the last quarter.

Tech Receiver Fouled.

Tech scored first midway in the second chapter when Cumberland was punting back after a beautiful kick by Foley which went out on Central's 3-yard line. Cumberland's long spiral bounded off Foley's head as three overzealous Centralites ignored the signal for a free catch and took the Tech quarter back out before the catch had been made. After the officials had moved the ball 15 yards closer to the Central goal, Tech's spinner plays sent her leg-driving backs to the 15-yard line, where Sachs tore through the left side of the line, saw Gormley block King, stiff-armed Myers and dove 10 feet across the line. Rhodes, whose line play behind a broken nose and a grewsome mask was spectacular, missed the kick.

Al Meikeljohn, crack Tech all-high end, put his team in scoring position in the third period when he intercepted a Cumberland pass on Central's 35-yard line. Wasting no time, Tech moved the ball up to the 1-yard line, where Central's line, in the most spectacular moment of the day, thrice stopped the line-bucking Tech backs, a display of strength which saw its intermission when the whistle ended the half.

Pistolis Stops Rush.

The walk down the field in no way loosened up Central's line, for Pistolis threw Hatos for a loss on the fourth Tech down. Cumberland kicked out from the end zone and Tech was right back in the quest of a goal. Foley brought the ball back to Central's 22-yard line, where the Blue and White was penalized 5 yards for offside. Sach hit twice in his mighty fashion, on the dynamite end of a spinner play. The second blow saw him cross the line from the 4-yard stripe.

AMERICAN U. TO OPPOSE SHEPHERD

Lone College Contest Here Today; Parke Returns to Team.

IN the only college football game scheduled today in Washington, American University's eleven meets Shepherd College from Shepherdstown, W. Va., on the Methodists' new gridiron at Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues, starting at 2:30 p. m. This is the final home contest on American's 1931 slate and once again the Methodist eleven is the underdog.

Shepherd comes here with an unimpressive record, yet is favored because of one past performance in which it held Shenandoah to a 3-0 score. American met defeat last Saturday at Shenandoah's hands, 29 to 6.

Parke Returns To Line-Up.

Coach Walter Young has made one shift in his line-up, the insertion of Ed Parke, an 180-pounder at left end for the inexperienced Al Buffington. The Methodist coach believes that this change will improve the defense, certainly that it will be the cause of much trouble to any wide sweeps the visitors might undertake.

Parke was ill last week and played only ten minutes of the Shenandoah contest. His absence was costly to the Eagles on defense and in kicking. He is capable of averaging about 45 yards on his punts.

ROBIN'S EGG, 9 TO 1, WINS LAUREL FEATURE GOING AWAY

Drive Defeats Fortunate Youth

Pennate Is Third in Westover, Tiring at Finish.

Tricycle Wins From Juveniles in First as Nertney Rides.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 30.—Robin's Egg rolled home in the featured Westover at 6 furlongs, carrying the silks of the Greentree Stable and the light impost of 100 pounds. Fortunate Youth, from the Sylvester Labrot Stable, was second, and C. V. Whitney's Pennate, third. Masked Ball, odds-on favorite, early leader, could get no better than fourth. The time was 1:13 3-5.

S. Hebert did not menace with the Greentree filly until late in the stretch. Fortunate Youth had already raced Masked Ball into defeat and appeared to have the race at his mercy, when Robin's Egg charged, and rushed by the leader to score by three-fourth of a length.

Masked Ball, backed from 8 to 5 to 7 to 10, broke in front, with Pennate close in pursuit. Fortunate Youth completed the triumvirate that turned the far corner in close alignment. Before reaching the stretch Fortunate Youth and Pennate both had passed the Coe filly, with Robin's Egg closing fast.

Flying Max Easy Winner.

Flying Max made a runaway of the sixth race, taking the lead from Meridian Queen at the turn into the stretch, and drawing away under a good ride by V. Arthur. Arras was second, beaten off, and Meridian Queen third. The time was 1:49. The winner paid $10.20. Nertney broke Meridian Queen in front, but she tired in the heavy going, which condition was made to order for the winner.

The first mile and 6 furlongs race on the flat was run as the fourth event today and was won by Gully Jumper, an outsider, ridden by D. Meade and owned by A. Snyder. Buck Hero was second and Glenno third. The margin of Gully Jumper was two lengths; and being the first race of the distance, the time of 3:07 3-5 becomes the track record. The winner paid $22. Old Times first led the field, then Buck Hero went to the front and remained in the lead to the stretch, when Gully Jumper moved up stoutly and won by two lengths.

R. E. Tawney's Fife, in the field group, won the third race, for 3-year-olds, by three lengths, and paid $41.60. The Nevada Stock Farm's Shiva was second and Night Vintage third. Chatty broke in front, followed by Chiva and Line of Fire in the order named. Night Vintage was $21.20 to show. The time was 1:48, the distance a mile and 70 yards. The other field horses sharing in the pay-off were Miss Suppress and Inevitable. Leishman rode the winner.

Rolling Plains Stable's Outlaw won the Front Royal Steeplechase by two lengths from A. J. Gadek's Tequila. King's Own was third and Frolic II fourth.

Jockey Miller had the mount on Outlaw, which was coupled with Templemore. Tequila set the pace for a mile and a half, stumbled, and Outlaw, which was second, went to the front. The entry and Tequila were almost equal favorites, and the winner paid $6.70. Supremity fell with Jockey King, who was unhurt.

Nertney Wins 25th On Tricycle.

Sagamore Stable's Tricycle won the first race, for maiden 2-year-olds, and Nertney started the day by winning his twenty-fifth race of the meeting. Brookmeade Stable's Tom, early pacemaker, was soon forced to yield the lead to Tricycle at the far turn, but held second safely. Oxlip, from the W. R. Coe barn, a filly by Pompey, was best of the others. The winner was favorite and paid $6.40. It required a minute and nine seconds to run 5½ furlongs in the mud.

Mrs. W. H. Denham's Fair Dawn outstayed Madcap Marvin in the final drive to win the seventh race at a mile and three-quarters for 3-year-olds and upward. Jockey Prain handled the Denham entry exceedingly well, sending him through the best footing and urging him strongly in the stretch duel. The winner, which paid $12.10 in the $2 mutuels, held a lead of one length at the finish, with Madcap Marvin saving the place from Butter John by two lengths.

Fair Dawn, under restraint, was held off the early pace as Pourboire, Madcap Marvin and Royal Doulton galloped ahead. Shortly before the half-way mark was reached, Prain made his bid with Fair Dawn and the horse displaced the leaders, still under restraint. In the stretch Madcap Marvin held on well to furnish Fair Dawn a gruelling battle down to the wire.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRICYCLE, $8.40, $3.40, $2.70; TOM, $4.10, $3.10; OXLIP, $4.90.

TRICYCLE moved into command after the opening sixteenth mile, was kept in the firmer footing when Hertney picked his course, drew clear entering the home stretch and had speed in reserve at the end. TOM, away quickly, was unable to hold an early lead, followed the winner under stout pressure, but was held safe in the final drive. OXLIP, ridden hard the entire trip, finished with good courage. DAWN PATROL showed a good test throughout. PRIVA could not threaten the leaders. MEDICINE BOW was never a factor.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse, $2,000. Front Royal Steeplechase. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:18. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OUTLAW (entry), $6.70, $3.00, $2.80; TEQUILA, $3.80, $3.90; KING'S OWN, $10.10.

OUTLAW improved his position steadily after the sixth fence, wore TEQUILA down when the latter landed badly at the twelfth jump and was under severe urging for the remainder of the trip. TEQUILA, under stout restraint for the first mile, took command when ready, stumbled badly on landing at the twelfth fence, recovered gamely and finished with good courage. KING'S OWN, restrained early, made a stout bid in the final three furlongs to continue gamely in the final drive. FROLIC II was gaining stoutly in the last half mile. POTENTATE weakened after a mile and one-half. He was bothered repeatedly by MAYOR WALKER. The latter tired after going well for a mile and swerved repeatedly during the final stages. LAST FLIGHT fell at the tenth and SUPREMITY lost rider at the fifth fence.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:51. Winner, J. E. Tawney's dk. br. f. FIFE, saving a lot of ground in the early running, reached the leaders midway of the back stretch, continued to secure racing room on the inside of the leaders to take command and held her field safe through the final stages. SHIVA, forcing a good pace from the start, held on well in the final issue. NIGHT VINTAGE came with good courage after dropping back in the first turn. PREPARE was unable to reach the leaders in any stage. BRANDON ROSE had no excuses. BATTERING RAM closed a good gap from a slow beginning. LINE OF FIRE quit. LOUIS MERRYMAN stopped.

GULLY JUMPER, settled in full stride after going seven furlongs, reached BUCK HERO in the final half mile and, wearing the latter down under stout urging, was slowly moving clear under stout pressure. BUCK HERO, steadied in front while saving ground, was shaken up stoutly when challenged mildly by SIX O'CLOCK. GLENNO gradually improved his pace and came with good speed for the final drive. DO TELL outfinished AREV. DARK RAY raced extremely wide for the entire trip while weakly handled. OLD TIMES retired early.

ROBIN'S EGG, favored by the rapid early pace, moved to the leaders with a rush when nearing the home stretch, closed stoutly thereafter and wore FORTUNATE YOUTH down in the closing sixteenth mile. FORTUNATE YOUTH, rater behind the pacemakers, slipped through on the inside to assume a brief lead, but weakened fast in the final sixteenth. PENNATE raced MASKED BALL into defeat and outstayed the latter in the final test. FULL DRESS was outrun.

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 30.—Laurel's 24-day racing season ends tomorrow with the running of its richest stake, the $25,000 added Washington Handicap at a mile and a quarter.

Also marking the closing day is the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap for 2-year-olds at a mile, with $10,000 added value, and sixteen juveniles have been listed for this event, whereas eleven are promised in the main attraction. The track will be heavy or slow at best.

Senator A. J. Cummings, president, elated over the success of the meeting, predicted a larger turnout than last Saturday, the record.

A. C. Bostwick's MATE is selected to win the Washington Handicap. He runs well at times, but he is always uncertain. Track conditions seem to favor the Preakness winner. His weight has been shaved down to 120 pounds. Everything seems to have been done for MATE that would aid him. George Ellis will ride, and he is a good jockey. CLOCK TOWER, which beat him in the Laurel Stakes a week ago, is regarded as the chief rival for the rich stake and may again beat him. If MATE is beaten, it will be decisively; if he wins, it will be by a slender margin. PLUCKY PLAY should hold CURATE safe for third money. VALENCIENNES can not be given much chance on her last race, but she takes off weight.

As a race, the Jennings may arouse more interest than the Washington, for the best of the country will be engaged, with the exception of Top Flight. BURNING BLAZE, the fast son of Big Blaze—Mexican Tea, is undoubtedly the best 2-year-old colt shown this year. He has disposed of his opposition East and West. He beat most of those which he meets in this race in the Johnson Stakes early in the meeting. BURGOO KING closed much ground in that race, and would have been very close if he had gotten away. He is regarded as the contender. TICK ON, winner of the $50,000 Hopeful at Saratoga, should be third. MAD FRUMP appears next best. BURNING BLAZE must concede weight to the entire field, carrying 122 pounds, against 118 for TICK ON and 114 for BURGO KING.

FIRST RACE—ALL COLUMBIA has been running well all fall, and is selected for the opener at a mile and a sixteenth. TANTALIZING should improve under changed track conditions, and is rated the contender. SUN THORN will figure in the race. On the eligible list, but too far down to have much chance to get in the race, is the best in the race, DUNLIN'S LAD. He can beat these on any kind of track. ANGRY PLUME also would have a chance, but is on the eligible applicants.

SECOND RACE—SCOT FREE has proved a consistent plater this season and has beaten the kind of horses in the field of the second race. The principal opposition is the entry of RUNDALE and BOB SHANNON, both recent winners here. SHANNON ran the best race of his career this week, with Nertney up. BARITONE also is in winning form and should make the contest interesting.

THIRD RACE—GALLANT SIR is said to be a fast 2-year-old which starts in the large field of maidens in the third race, for a mile gallop. BYZANTINE and DARK CELT have had more racing experience. They should be contenders. JIMMY SUTRO ran a fine race after a bad start last out and should not be overlooked.

SIXTH RACE—KAI FENG is selected to beat REPENTANCE in the Bel Alton Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, and the track handicapper also thinks so, for he has given the Bradley horse top weight, REPENTANCE may not like the track conditions, but he has speed. BARBER is the third horse.

SEVENTH RACE—GUN MAN, second in his last race, will like the slow track and should win the seventh race. His last race was on a fast track and he will show improvement. CHANCELLOR is the obvious contender. FAIRDALE won his last and will be close.

J. F. O'Hara, Bowie Founder, Succumbs to Long Illness

Veteran Racing Figure Expires at 60 in Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 30.—James F. O'Hara, 60, one of the principal owners of the Bowie Race Track and until three years ago its general manager, died tonight at his home in Towson, after an illness of several years.

Mr. O'Hara's death was the result of a nervous breakdown suffered in February, 1929, which forced him to relinquish active control of his numerous racing interests. By virtue of his full or part control of tracks in various parts of the United States and Canada he was one of the most prominent figures in racing circles.

Mr. O'Hara and Gadsden Bryan, who died four years ago, together rose from obscure owners of a half-mile track — Marlboro — to international prominence in the racing world.

They eventually controlled Bowie and Jefferson Park, at New Orleans, later selling the latter track. After Mr. Bryan's death Mr. O'Hara acquired the Pleasanton Track, in California, and the Thorncliffe, in Canada.

Mr. O'Hara also ventured into race track operation in Mexico, an enterprise which resulted in a considerable financial loss.

He and his partner achieved fame in sporting circles for their romantic rise to wealth and power from a start of only a few thousand dollars.

Before his entrance into turf circles, Mr. O'Hara was the owner of O'Hara Hotel, on Liberty street near Fayette street, here. It was while he was running the hotel that he and Mr. Bryan bought the Marlboro Track.

Mr. O'Hara was born in South Baltimore and lived there most of his life. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah O'Hara; a son, James F. O'Hara, jr.; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Wenzel and Mrs. Cecelia Maddox, and a brother, Thomas O'Hara.

GONZAGA ELEVEN TROUNCES GEORGETOWN PREPS, 34 TO 0

Avenge 1930 Defeat With Easy Win

Purple Gridmen Score in Each Period as Viau Stars.

Drive to Touchdown Near Start; 1,000 See Contest.

SWAMPING their last year's conquerors under a flood of touchdowns, Gonzaga High's crack 1931 grid squad strode on to new laurels yesterday at Gonzaga Field, defeating Georgetown Prep, 34-0, and keeping clean a record this year which has extended to four games, during which their goal line has not yet been sullied by an enemy runner. Nearly 1,000 witnessed the game, testimony to Gonzaga's drawing propensities this year.

Gonzaga set out early to avenge a 20-19 setback suffered last year against the scrappy team from Garrett Park. Within four minutes after the kick-off Gonzaga was 7 points ahead. The eventual losers received the ball and were held for downs on their own 40-yard line. Viau and Keegin bucked the ball to the 13-yard line, Keegin tore off 10 more and Viau crashed it across. Viau rushed the extra point.

Gonzaga Backs Step Out.

From there it was a succession of high-stepping runs on the part of Gonzaga's Mercury-footed backs. A recovery of a Georgetown fumble in midfield, gathered in by Quigley, was enough to start off another Gonzaga scoring sally. Viau and Joe Mills advanced it 30 yards in two plays. Carr went around end for 17 more yards and Viau lunged across for the score. Mills passed to Nolan for the extra point.

With Carr stepping off 15-yard runs, ably supported by Keegin and Viau, Gonzaga camped on the Prep team's 7-yard line midway in the third period, and Joe Mills took it across. He added another point with a drop kick. Two more touchdowns cropped up in the final quarter, engineered by a good passing attack between the Mills twins. Their aerial took the ball from midfield to the 12-yard line, where Keegin stepped off the remaining distance.

Purple Scores Again.

Gonzaga scored late in the game when Carly Mills intercepted a potent Prep pass and ran to Gonzaga's 30-yard line. In three plays the winners made 70 yards' gain. Benjamin scored on a pass from C. Mills. Carr rushed the extra point.

While putting up a game battle, the losers never approached closer than the 15-yard line, and were almost perpetually on the defensive against the bigger Gonzaga team. The Keating brothers and McNamara shouldered most of the responsibility of the losers. Gonzaga's line played an important role in the tussle, the work of Quigley, Eppard and Lewis, Purple hippos, being especially noteworthy.

Dusek and Kirilenko In Wrestling Feature

The impasse which was reached in the Rudy Dusek-Matros, Kirilenko wrestling match Thursday night at the Auditorium, when the 30 minutes of roughhouse regime was called a draw, will be cleared up next Thursday, when the two hefties come together in a finish match which will head a card of five matches at the Auditorium.

Dusek and Kirilenko were out of the ring more than in last Thursday. Several fans objected to Dusek's rough tactics and the ring was littered with newspapers.

Hopewell Team Routs Washington-Lee High

A fast and aggressive Hopewell eleven dealt the Washington-Lee High School's football warriors a 25-0 defeat at Ballston yesterday. The visitors, coached by Wesley Parsons, former Western Maryland star, were outweighed by the Little Generals, but a hard charging line and shifty quartet of backs offset this disadvantage.

AESOP NEVER WROTE "AESOP'S FABLES"...
10-31-31
© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

ACTUALLY, Aesop, the supposed author of the well-known fables under that name, is a legendary character. The above drawing is from a painting by the Spanish artist Velasquez, as he imagined Aesop to look.

Aesop is supposed to have been a Greek slave whose wisdom by far exceeded that of his masters. He was a friend of Solon and of Croesus, and went about relating his many fables. However, Aesop's Fables were not written until several centuries after the death of Aesop the slave.

The popular conception of Aesop was taken from a book of fables purporting to be his. They were collected in the fourteenth century by Maimus Planudes, a monk, who represented Aesop as a monster, ugly and deformed. It is probable that this description of the author was concocted to increase the wit of the stories by contrast. It is most likely that the fables had no single author, but simply grew up like folk tales.

With primitive man, rhythm is an instinct. The drum was the first musical instrument, and with it came the familiar tom-tom beating, so essential in all native dances. In savage tribes today, where no other musical instruments are to be found, the beat of the tom-tom may be heard.

In Central Africa huge drums are used to transmit messages, for some of them can be heard a distance of 20 miles.

Oxon Hill Teams Win Over Mt. Rainier High

Special to The Washington Post.

Oxon Hill, Md., Oct. 30.—Victories in boy soccer and girl field ball competition were scored today by Oxon Hill High School teams over Mount Rainier High combinations, the boys winning, 2 to 0, and the girls, 10 to 2. They were not championship games. In winning the soccer game, Oxon Hill evened scores for a defeat handed it in the recent title competition by Mount Rainier. The Oxon Hill girls previously defeated the Mount Rainier lassies in a championship match.

MARYLAND U. FRESHMEN WIN, 7-0

Score Against V.M.I. Yearlings Quickly After Fumble.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 30.—The Maryland freshman football team cashed in on a V. M. I. fumble on the first play of the game here today to rush across a touchdown in the first three minutes of play and down the Cadet yearlings 7 to 0.

Widmyer, Maryland half back, scored the lone touchdown on a dash off tackle after the Cadets had stopped three plays from their 8-yard line. The same Old Line star had been the big gun in an advance from V. M. I.'s 35-yard line, making one gain of 10 yards on a lateral pass from Nelson. He converted the extra point by placement.

HITTING THE HEAD PIN

THE first important match of the year for boys will be rolled tonight at 8 o'clock at the Arcadia alleys when John Blick's Midgets clash with Hiser's Hyattsville Midgets in the first block of a six-game match. The second block will be rolled at Hyattsville one week from tonight. Total pins will decide the winner.

Patents No. 2 bro' the deadlock existing between itself and Coast Survey for the leadership of the Department of Commerce League, with a three-game victory over the latter at the Rendezvous alleys last night. Haschub and Woods rolled sets of 346 and 345, respectively, to aid the victors. Other results in league were as follows: Patents No. 3 took all three from Bureau of Standards, Patents No. 1 took three close ones from Mines, and Department of Commerce bested Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the odd game.

Some records went by the boards at Arcadia last night as Moyer Construction hit the bottles for a 1,744 set and game of 632 to win all three from Standard Art Marble. The losing quintet had previously held the marks. Earl McAleer, a newcomer to the loop, aided the Moyers no little with a record set of 402 and a record game of 165. Fuller Stone Plant whirled into the league lead with a clean sweep victory over Minte Paint, the deposed leaders. In the other matches, A. W. Lee won all the marbles from Todd Construction, and D. C. Butcher gained the verdict over Massapomax Sand by one game.

Traffic scored a complete victory over Examiners, and Engineers downed Attorneys and Valuation beat Procedure by one-game margins in the Interstate Commerce League matches rolled at Arcadia last night. Des Noyes' game of 128, and Dunn's 359 set featured the individual bowling. Mail and File's 549 game and Traffic's 1,528 set garnered team honors.

Good, bad and indifferent bowling was the order of the evening in the District League match rolled at Lucky Strike last night. Campbell, of the Luckies, which downed King Pin 2-1, turned in a weak 88 game to gain the "dub" honors. Clark, of the same team, turned in high game for the evening with a score of 145, and also registered a set of 413. Smith was best for the losers with a game of 146 and set of 374.

No world records were smashed in the National Capital League match at Lucky Strike between Barnes, Used Cars and Temple. In fact, several of the boys resembled rank beginners. Temple won the match, 2-1, losing the last game when it fell out of the 600 class while the Barnes quint was lifting itself up with a 577 game. Ward, of Barnes, had a game of 128 and set of 343, to lead his team, while Lovett, with a game of 151 and set of 397, led the Northeast crew.

The Saturday Night Sweepstakes will be inaugurated at the Arcadia alleys tonight. Three games will be rolled, with total pins deciding the winner. A nominal entrance fee is charged. The sweepstakes replace the blind pig sweepstakes conducted last year.

Mohawks Favored To Beat Apaches

Rivals List Players for Clash Tomorrow; Mitchell to Referee.

The betting gentry has installed the Mohawks 7 to 5 favorites over the Apaches in tomorrow's sandlot classic at Griffith Stadium. The drive that the Hawks showed in snatching a victory away from the Celtics is believed to be the basis of the odds. However, most Sunday football followers are aware of the fact that the Celtics were aided against the Apaches and fought their own battle against the Mohawks. Against Irvington, both the Apaches and the Mohawks were held to scoreless ties.

Orrel Mitchell, Gonzaga High coach, will referee the game, it was announced last night. Mitchell will have Lou Brunnelle, former Marine star, as umpire, and Jack Simpson as linesman.

MOHAWKS—Flaherty, Ribnitzki, Wondrack, DeRoo, Schwartzmann, Minnick, O'Brien, Colliere, Snyder, Allen, DeLabre, Babcock, Briggs, Bush, Colasanto, Dalgilish, Eddinger, Helvestine, Munro, Neff, Browning, Eggleston, Waldron.

APACHES—Howell, Holland, Verdon, Farrell, Montague, Himmelberg, DuFour, Byrne, M. Meyers, Murphy, Tracy, McAlwee, Boyd, Connell, Tobin, Mosko, Riley, Caldwell, Goonan, K. Meyers, Topper, Dugan, Antos.

Blues Underdogs In P. M. C. Clash

Gallaudet, Improved, Determined to Hold Stronger Foe to Low Score.

SEASON'S RECORDS.

Determined to hold their stronger foes to a low score, Gallaudet College's Blues journey to Chester, Pa., today to play Pennsylvania Military College. The local eleven, defeated in its three starts to date and as yet unable to show a single point on its side of the ledger, has had two weeks in which to prepare for the game, and, according to observers, has improved considerably.

The substitution of Rudolph Gamblin from tackle to quarter back will, in the opinion of Coach Hughes, bolster the Blues' offense. A decided lack of strength behind the line has figured largely in the overwhelming losses thus far suffered. Gamblin's former post will be occupied by Roop, a converted back.

EPISCOPAL'S ELEVEN IN CONTEST

Meets Gilman Team Today at Alexandria, 2 P. M.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 30.—Episcopal High football warriors will meet their old rivals, Gilman School, of Baltimore, in a homecoming day attraction here tomorrow. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

The Baltimoreans have made a fine record this fall, winning all their games to date.

Other games have been arranged for lighter-weight teams tomorrow with the 100, 125 and 135-pound elevens clashing in the various athletic fields at the school in the morning.

The Praters will travel to Richmond, Va., Sunday for a game with the Richmond Arrows, champions of the Virginia Capital City. The club will leave here by auto at 9:30 o'clock.

The Virginia Juniors will mix with the Mohawk Preps Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the shipyard field.

Dunbar Beats Howard High School, 32 to 7

Scoring almost at will, Armstrong High yesterday defeated Howard High, of Baltimore, by a score of 32 to 7, in Walker Memorial Stadium. The Manumental City eleven was woefully weak on the defense.

A LITTLE COPPER FOR YOUR BLOOD.

ONE of the unexpected discoveries of recent years is the need of the human body for a small amount of copper. We think of this metal, and properly so, as a poison, but few of us know that more than one of the substances regarded as poisonous are wholesome and serve a useful purpose when the amount concerned is small. It is excess which brings out the poison action.

Copper has been found widely distributed in the normal organs of healthy persons. Furthermore, it is present in many thoroughly wholesome foods. These facts brought out the suggestions, first, that it might serve a useful purpose in the human economy and, next, that it might be of service as a medicine.

Experimentation showed that somehow it had to do with the making of hemo-globin. It did not seem to enter directly into building up this necessary ingredient of the blood, but acted in some indirect way toward aiding its formation. This led to clinical trial of it as medicine.

Dr. M. S. Lewis, of Nashville, put a considerable number of anemic children on a combination of iron and copper. These children recovered rapidly from the anemia. He selected the children in a way to prevent self-deception. First, ordinary secondary anemias tend to recover spontaneously. When a child is pale and anemic after an attack of measles he may be expected to get back his normal blood richness in a short while if he gets sunlight.

The children selected for this test had shown that their anemia hung on, with no tendency to spontaneous cure. People with secondary anemia generally get well on a good diet—one containing eggs, liver, meat and vegetables. This possibility was controlled in the experiment. Some anemias do well on iron tonics. This fact was taken into consideration also.

The children under this experiment got rosy and healthy much more quickly than is the case with children given both iron and proper foods. Similar reports have come from physicians and experimenters in many places. Iron and copper taken together appear to be distinctly better as a tonic than either taken alone.

The copper must not be given in doses that are too large. The danger of giving too much iron is very slight, although it has been proved that iron in great excess is also a poison. Medicines in which iron and copper are combined are available. However, within a year the Council of Pharmacy has withheld its approval of at least one such.

YEAST AND CORNS.

Mrs. G. H. P. writes: I have about cured the corns on the bottom of my feet with eating yeast cakes. I have been eating yeast for four months and my feet are 75 per cent well. Another four months and my feet will be entirely free of corns, I feel sure. Yeast is wonderful for the skin and has helped me greatly.

REPLY.

What you write is likely to make people discredit you, and I think I had better hasten to your rescue.

Yeast is rich in vitamin B complex. A deficiency of this vitamin causes the skin symptoms of pellagra. I have seen people rejuvenated temporarily by ductless gland preparations on whom all callouses and corns disappeared. For the time the skin was smooth like that of an infant. This is a life line.

Mohair Textile Workers Keep Old Art Alive

Sanford, Me. (U.P.).—The oldest form of printing known—hand woodblocking—still survives in the modern mass production of the many-century-old mohair textile industry.

A group of artisans, whose fathers and grandfathers before them also were woodcut designers and carvers, are perpetuating the art at Sanford Mills.

They keep on hand more than 1,100 individual woodblock designs for application on mohair velvets as they come off the looms. The woodblocks, highly decorative in design, are stamped on the fabric by hand.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB IN LARGER TURNOVER

Rails Lead Advance, Joined by Utility, Industrial and Other Issues.

The rise started among the rails and coincided with New York Central's announcement that it was negotiating with organized employes for a voluntary and temporary wage reduction of 10 per cent. Final prices were generally under the top, but the closing tone was strong and the advance averaged 2.5 points. Total transactions were 1,553,740 shares.

The decrease in currency circulation received wide attention and was referred to by bankers as a most encouraging turn of events, although some restrained their optimism pending confirmation of this favorable trend in the immediate future. Mercantile reviews said there had been further gains along certain lines, although conservatism was still dominant.

Trade Seen Improving.

Dun's believed retail trade was "maintaining the slow but gradual upturn" in progress for several weeks, while Bradstreet's said the most cheerful aspect of the situation was evidence of the progress of adjustment in business.

In industrial, utility stocks and specialty stocks net gains ranged from 1 to 3 points. U. S. Steel, Woolworth, American Can, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Case, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bethlehem and Consolidated Gas gained 1 to 2. American Telephone, Western Union, Beechnut and Coca Cola did a little better.

In the rails, Atchison and Union Pacific closed about 5 points higher, New York Central, Rock Island, Louisville & Nashville and New Haven were up 3 or more, and Southern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Missouri Pacific, 2.

Wheat Resumes Advance.

Wheat resumed its advance in lively fashion, closing 1¾ to 2¼ cents higher on the strength of larger export sales, a bullish Southwestern weather report and cancellation of Russian contracts.

Corn was up ¾ to 1⅛ net, reflecting bullish private crop estimates. The cotton market was quiet and narrow, with final quotations 3 to 5 points better.

The French franc declined in terms of the dollar, although more than $12,000,000 in gold was withdrawn for export to France. Heaviness of the franc suggests not only that French funds are being redeposited here but also that French investors are buying in this market. Sterling continued to sag, closing at $3.85½, off 1¼ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—In a fresh big outburst of buying, wheat and rye today surpassed the season's previous top quotations and strongly reflected brisk export demand for breadstuffs. It was confirmed that United States Government sponsored agencies had been selling wheat to be shipped overseas, and had simultaneously been taking December future delivery contracts in exchange. Russia was reported trying to cancel forward sales of wheat, and the market was further jolted by drought reports from Argentine and Canada, as well as from domestic winter wheat territory Southwest.

Wheat closed strong at almost the day's maximum, 1⅝ to 2⅜ cents higher, corn ⅝ to 1⅛ advanced, oats ⅜ to ½ up, and provisions varying from 15 cents decline to 50 cents gain.

Upturns in wheat prices began early, accompanied by reports that offerings in Liverpool were scarce, being restricted to tenders of shipments from North America. There were also disturbing advices that grain deliveries up to October 26 in the Ural region of Russia had been only 12.2 per cent of the expected total and that Russia's 1931 adverse trade balance January to August was 211,000,000 rubles, compared with 87,000,000 rubles during the same period of 1930. Later, and especially in the final hour, the market developed increasing upward momentum, accelerated by indications that European importers would have to come to North America for breadstuff supplies throughout the next three months.

It was particularly stressed that Southern Hemisphere wheat stocks were meager and that Russian wheat was of poor quality. Another factor taken as significant was that the Chicago market had been advancing more swiftly than Chicago. A further striking circumstance, too, was that Australian wheat shipments in the last week totaled less than 1,000,000 bushels, indicating that Australia was almost at the end of her supplies for this season, although the Australian crop last year was the largest ever raised.

Corn and oats rose with wheat and as a result of unsettled weather. An authoritative unofficial crop summary estimated that 1931 corn production was 2,650,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,703,000,000 officially forecast in the Government October report.

Rye owed its strength largely to announcement that Poland had bought a big quantity of rye from Russia.

Shorts in October lard covered freely, causing a sharp upturn, but otherwise provisions responded to weakness of hog values.

HIGH-GRADE BONDS ADVANCE IN TRADING

Rails and Industrial Issues Make Substantial Gains; Utilities Lose.

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Railroads and high-grade industrial obligations achieved a more than modest advance in a market today where the sales totaled $12,481,000, somewhat larger than yesterday's.

Irregular gains were scored in the majority of instances and the entire list of United States Treasury and Liberty issues closed with plus figures.

Indications that the public hoarding of currency was coming to an end affected optimistically the outlook of high-grade bonds. Foreign issues were on the erratic side, Germans and some South Americans being in demand, although the Brazilian issues lost some of their recent gains.

The demand for rail bonds was said to have been reflected in the present easier tone of the money market, and the belief that many of them were selling at bargain prices. Atchison general 4s of 1995, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chicago & Northwestern, New York Central debenture 4s of 1934, Missouri Pacific series F 5s, together with a number of others, registered substantial gains.

Public utility loans started out rather encouragingly, but, with attention turning to the rails and industrials, they closed fractionally down from yesterday.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A sluggish curb market session was enlivened by a mild rally in the late trading today and many active issues closed moderately higher in a turnover of 250,000 shares, slightly larger than Thursday's volume.

Oils were well supported. Gulf was especially strong, climbing nearly 5 points, while Standard of Indiana advanced by a major fraction. Imperial and International Petroleum closed firm, while Cities Service was up ¼ net. Northern Pipe rallied 3. Electric Power & Light option warrants were sold during the morning while the common stock was being offered on news of the new financing, but the warrants finished firm. The same company's second preferred stock broke 10 points in small transactions. Electric Bond & Share was dull, but came forward toward the close and returned a modest net gain. Commonwealth Edison, Duke Power and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were stronger. United Gas preferred jumped 8 points.

National Steel Car, an inactive, broke 16½ points and Continental Chicago Corporation sagged 3¾. Schiff, Deere, Aluminum of America, Elgin Watch, Trunz and Western Massachusetts improved 1 to more than 3 points. Great Atlantic & Pacific, on which an extra dividend of 25 cents a share was voted, dropped 3 in very small transfers. Mead Johnson reacted a point.

Insull Utility common and second preferred firmed, but other investment trusts were motionless. Ungerleider eased.

HIGH-GRADE BONDS ADVANCE IN TRADING

Rails and Industrial Issues Make Substantial Gains; Utilities Lose.

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—Railroads and high-grade industrial obligations achieved a more than modest advance in a market today where the sales totaled $12,481,000, somewhat larger than yesterday's.

Irregular gains were scored in the majority of instances and the entire list of United States Treasury and Liberty issues closed with plus figures.

Indications that the public hoarding of currency was coming to an end affected optimistically the outlook of high-grade bonds. Foreign issues were on the erratic side, Germans and some South Americans being in demand, although the Brazilian issues lost some of their recent gains.

The demand for rail bonds was said to have been reflected in the present easier tone of the money market, and the belief that many of them were selling at bargain prices. Atchison general 4s of 1995, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chicago & Northwestern, New York Central debenture 4s of 1934, Missouri Pacific series F 5s, together with a number of others, registered substantial gains.

Public utility loans started out rather encouragingly, but, with attention turning to the rails and industrials, they closed fractionally down from yesterday.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 30 (A.P.).—A sluggish curb market session was enlivened by a mild rally in the late trading today and many active issues closed moderately higher in a turnover of 250,000 shares, slightly larger than Thursday's volume.

Oils were well supported. Gulf was especially strong, climbing nearly 5 points, while Standard of Indiana advanced by a major fraction. Imperial and International Petroleum closed firm, while Cities Service was up ¼ net. Northern Pipe rallied 3.

Electric Power & Light option warrants were sold during the morning while the common stock was being offered on news of the new financing, but the warrants finished firm. The same company's second preferred stock broke 10 points in small transactions. Electric Bond & Share was dull, but came forward toward the close and returned a modest net gain. Commonwealth Edison, Duke Power and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were stronger. United Gas preferred jumped 8 points.

National Steel Car, an inactive, broke 16½ points and Continental Chicago Corporation sagged 3¾. Schiff, Deere, Aluminum of America, Elgin Watch, Trunz and Western Massachusetts improved 1 to more than 3 points. Great Atlantic & Pacific, on which an extra dividend of 25 cents a share was voted, dropped 3 in very small transfers. Mead Johnson reacted a point.

Insull Utility common and second preferred firmed, but other investment trusts were motionless. Ungerleider eased.

RHEEM PROPERTIES SLATED FOR BLOCK BY TRUSTEE ACTION

31 Buildings and Parcels of Land Listed in Petition to Supreme Court.

PEYSER SAYS PURPOSE TO PAY OFF CREDITORS

Step Reverses Decision to Await Better Market; Value Unestimated.

A broad plan of liquidation, calling for public auction of millions of dollars of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co. properties, was submitted to the District Supreme Court for approval in petitions filed yesterday by trustees of the bankrupt firm.

Maj. Julius I. Peyser, one of the trustees, called last night at his home, said the action was taken in order to reduce the assets of the company to a liquid state and pay off creditors at earliest possible date.

Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy, called a meeting of creditors for November 11, when plans for the best disposition of the holding will be discussed.

Business Properties Included.

Of two petitions filed yesterday, one covered properties, approximately $250,000 in value, for which offers have been received, while the other listed holdings scheduled for auction. The latter, of an unestimated valuation, are encumbered by $2,266,826 in trusts.

Among properties to go under the auctioneer's hammer is the handsome office building in which the defunct company is housed. A reported offer by Schraft's, of New York, to buy the building, was said to have fallen through. There is an overdue balance of $98,000 on a trust on the building.

Another large business property which may be auctioned is the Hurley-Wright Building, formerly owned by the Secretary of War, but traded for the Shoreham Building shortly before the bankruptcy action. There is a first trust on it of $260,000 and a second trust of $102,000.

31 Parcels Are Scheduled.

The Securities Building, next door to the company offices, is another of the properties. On it there is a first trust of $325,000 and a second trust of $100,000.

Much unimproved land and a number of residential properties and apartment houses are listed among the 31 parcels scheduled for auction. Among the suburban properties are the Frank Lyon Farm, near Langley, Va., encumbered by a first trust of $35,000 and a second trust of $30,000. Eddy's subdivision, in Arlington County, carrying a $15,000 first trust, also is listed.

Decision to sell at this time is a complete reversal of an earlier pronouncement by Trustees Michael M. Doyle, Henry P. Blair and Maj. Peyser that in all probability they would await a more favorable real estate market.

2 Privates Given Police Promotion

Heffernan and Beach Are Made Sergeants by Commission's Order.

Two promotions in the Metropolitan Police Department were authorized yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of E. W. Brown, Acting Superintendent of Police. Thomas E. Heffernan, of the Traffic Bureau, and Beverly C. Beach, on special duty, were made sergeants.

Heffernan, who entered the department on September 9, 1919, has been commended several times for excellent service in escorting visiting delegations through the city. In 1926 he was promoted to precinct detective, but the promotion was afterward rescinded.

Both Heffernan and Beach were granted special compensation of $5 a month for outstanding efficiency last year. The promotions were made to fill vacancies created by the retirements of Sergts. J. E. Thompson and M. E. Furr. Pvt. Richard N. Finch was assigned to motorcycle duty to replace Heffernan.

$20,000 Damage Suit Charges Man Lost Toe

Robert F. Davener, of the Highway Department of the District government, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a suit for $20,000 damages from the Bernard Ready-Mixed Concrete Corporation, 3262 K street northwest, for injuries he sustained September 4, 1931, when a truck of the company ran over and crushed his right foot.

The suit alleges that the driver of the truck failed to observe Davener standing in the grounds of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co., Thirtieth and K streets northwest, where he was inspecting the loading of trucks. One of the mixer company's machines ran against a small parapet and crushed his toes, so that one has been amputated and others were seriously hurt. Attorney George C. Shinn represented the plaintiff.

2 Workmen Are Hurt As Truck Collapses

Two men were seriously injured yesterday while at work on a Government excavation project at Ninth and B streets northwest, when the body of an automatic dump truck slid from the body of the machine, pinning them underneath.

The men, James Page, 22 years old, of 638 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and William Sellegman, 27 years old, of Clarendon, were released by fellow workmen. They were taken to Emergency Hospital.

Auto Victim Has Broken Arm.

Charles Freenway Marshall, 14, of 2000 H street northwest, suffered a compound fracture of the left arm last night when he was struck by an auto driven by Opha Johnson, of 3731 Warren street northwest. The accident occurred at Thirty-fourth street and Wisconsin avenue northwest, according to police.

CASH DRAWER KEYS FOUND ON PRISONER IS HARKER CASE LINK

Believed to Have Been Stolen From Lunchroom That Was Robbed.

EMPLOYES DISAGREED UPON IDENTIFICATION

Police Noncommittal About Evidence in Third Degree Inquiry Case.

Cash register keys taken from a prisoner at the Ninth Precinct, which are believed to be keys stolen from the lunchroom at 727 North Capitol street, which James H. Harker was accused of robbing, gave a new slant last night to the case which precipitated the "third degree inquiry," causing the indictment of eighteen policemen.

Though a definite connection between the keys taken from the prisoner and the robbery of the lunchroom has not been made, it was definitely learned by The Post last night that a detective had interviewed employes of the lunchroom, one of whom identified the keys as those missing from the lunchroom, while a second said they were not the stolen keys.

Harker, after an alleged "third degree," was charged with the robbery of the lunchroom. Detectives to whom he is reported to have admitted the robbery said he pointed out parts of the broken cash register which were found in a vacant lot.

Keys Much Traveled.

The colored man from whom the keys were taken on Sunday was given one year on a vagrancy charge in court early last week. He told detectives he found the keys on Rhode Island avenue several weeks ago.

Since it was learned that the keys might have been taken from the lunchroom which Harker was accused of robbing, the keys have traveled considerably. The small bunch of keys passed rapidly from the Ninth Precinct to the First Precinct and finally to headquarters, and are now believed to be in the possession of a headquarters detective sergeant.

From the Ninth Precinct the keys are reported to have been sent to the First Precinct and given to Detective Paul Ambrose. Up to this time, it is reported, the police communicated with the cash register company and they are said to have referred the police to the Post Office Visible Lunch, at 727 North Capitol street, which Harker was accused of robbing.

Identification Disputed.

One of the employes of the lunchroom is reported to have identified the keys as those which were stolen. Subsequently, the keys made a journey to headquarters. Whereupon, it was learned a headquarters detective went to the lunchroom, and the manager of the place is reported to have repudiated the earlier identificaiton.

No one at the Ninth Precinct professed to know anything about the keys, while Capt. William E. Holmes, of the First Precinct, said, "I know nothing about it. This is the first time I heard anything about keys in this case."

It was said at headquarters last night that three keys were taken from the colored man, all of which were cash register keys. Officials at the cash register company are said to have told police later the keys were capable of opening any cash register, and denials are reported to have been made that the keys were those fitted for the cash register at 727 North Capitol street.

When the colored man was searched upon his arrest Sunday, the detectives also took from him a screw driver, a money belt, a flash light and a knife.

After the alleged beating of Harker on August 22, the Department of Justice instituted an investigation into alleged brutality in the police department. Indictments handed down by the summer grand jury were invalidated when it was learned that a pensioner served on the jury.

CAPITAL WILL STAGE HALLOWEEN PARADE AND DANCE TONIGHT

First Organized Program of Frivolity Set to Begin at 8 o'Clock.

100 FLOATS, SIX BANDS ARE ENTERED IN EVENT

President Invited to Review Demonstration; Prizes to Be Awarded.

Washington's first attempt at organized frivolity will be made tonight at 8 o'clock, when some 5,000 costumed revelers are scheduled to meet at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue to participate in the Halloween parade and dance carnival sponsored by the Washington Board of Trade.

Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commander of the District National Guard, will lead the parade as grand marshal, accompanied by his aids, including members of the District Halloween celebration committee, headed by Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts, the District Commissioners, presidents of the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Merchants and Manufacturers Association and the District Federation of Citizens Associations.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the federation, and Mr. Roberts yesterday extended an invitation to President Hoover to view the parade and the dance carnival which will follow on Constitution avenue, at Fifteenth street.

Will Pass Along Avenue.

From its starting point the parade line of march will be along Pennsylvania avenue to Fourteenth street northwest, thence to New York avenue and west along Pennsylvania avenue to Seventeenth street and down to Constitution avenue, where the reviewing stand will be located.

Judges of the costumes and floats entered in the parade will be Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, and Clifford K. Berryman, cartoonist.

Numerous large silver cups and other prizes and trophies will be awarded.

The Washington Post silver trophy will go to the winning local organization group of marchers, second prize in this class being the Adam Weschler silver trophy.

Other awards will include: Bands, Times-Herald silver trophy, first; and a clock from Lansburgh & Bro., second. More than 100 floats, six bands and innumerable individual entries will be in line, it is announced.

At the scene of the carnival at Fifteenth street and Constitution avenue the District chapter of the American Red Cross will have a first aid unit, and precautions are being taken to care for any minor casualties which might occur in the crowds expected at that point. A large group of club women, including the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Women's City Club and other organizations will assist in this work, as well as providing a crew to care for lost children.

At the same time, there will be numerous private dances and parties given by various organizations throughout the District. The League for the Larger Life will hold a costume dance at the Washington Club, and the Franklin Apprentice Club of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, will hold its Halloween dance at the Roosevelt Hotel.

OFFICIALS CLEARED IN STAPLES INQUIRY

Lawyer Committee Reports Framing Charge Made by Jury Baseless.

Members of the Police Department whose investigation resulted in dismissal of former Patrolmen Orville Staples, who the July grand jury said was "framed," were exonerated yesterday by the committee of five lawyers appointed by District Commissioners to advise on recommendations of the jury that Staples be reinstated and Patrolman Joseph H. Hunt dismissed.

No justification was found for the recommendation that Hunt be dismissed and that others who worked in the investigation of the Staples case be punished.

That the District Commissioners are without authority to set aside the original trial board findings, or to order a retrial of the case, was the opinion of the lawyers.

If, however, the Commissioners should decide that a public inquiry should be made of the entire matter, application should be made to Congress for legislation to empower the board to subpena witnesses and put them under oath. This statement was not made as a recommendation.

In the report, signed by Henry P. Blair, Walter C. Clephane, Stanton C. Peelle, Daniel W. O'Donoghue and J. Miller Kenyon, the lawyers briefly rehearsed the history of the Staples case.

History of Case Rehearsed.

Staples was convicted in 1928 on several charges growing out of these investigations and the conviction was subsequently affirmed by the Commissioners. At the police trial Staples raised the question of "frame-up."

The committee pointed out that it had "not found evidence to sustain the charges" that Staples was "framed at his trial," nor did it find any evidence of false testimony, or procuring false testimony, "unless it be the admissions of Frederick A. Schenck in his affidavit," it reported.

Schenck, who is serving 20 years in Leavenworth Penitentiary on robbery charges, also a former policeman, made an affidavit that Staples had been dismissed on perjured testimony.

Calls on Commissioner.

Staples, accompanied by another former policeman, called on Commissioners Herbert B. Crosby and Luther H. Reichelderfer at the District Building yesterday and Staples expressed his intention of filing charges against Patrolman Hunt. He was told to put the charges in writing and submit them to the Police Department.

The District Commissioners have not formally considered the report, Commissioner Reichelderfer said, but it is expected that since the Commissioners appointed the committee of lawyers to advise them they will adopt the report. No formal action is expected to be taken until next week.

Mother Won't Like It, Fears Girl, 5, Auto Hit

Five-year-old Nancy Maloney, of 26 K street northwest, was greatly perturbed yesterday over an accident in which she was knocked down by an automobile and taken to Sibley Hospital. It wasn't so much her injuries, for they were minor.

"But I just know my mother won't like this," she confided in a nurse as they led her to the emergency room.

The child was on her way home from school when she stepped in front of a taxi at North Capitol and T streets. Her only injuries were slight cuts about her ankles.

SHELBY QUITS TODAY WITH CLEAN RECORD

Assistant Superintendent of Police Wins Expunction of Censure Report.

With the expunction yesterday from the official files of the District Supreme Court of the grand jury report that gained some notoriety as the Kelly-Shelby report, Inspector William S. Shelby, rated as an assistant superintendent of police, will retire from the department today with a clear record.

The report, which dealt in some of its ramifications with the Virginia McPherson case, severely censured Inspector Shelby and acting Capt. Edward J. Kelly, both of whom were subsequently acquitted by a Police Trial Board of bungling the examination of the McPherson case, which was attributed to them by the grand jury.

For almost two years the report has lain dormant in the courthouse files. Yesterday Henry I. Quinn, attorney for Inspector Shelby, appeared before Justice James M. Proctor and asked that the report be removed from the files and physically destroyed. Inasmuch as Justice Proctor had ruled a week ago that special reports of the grand jury were not warranted in law, he immediately complied with the request—and the report was stricken from the records.

Inspector Shelby appeared elated at the action of the court. It was known that the existence of the report has been a source of dissatisfaction to the inspector, and he has often thought of forcing action to have it removed.

Following the example last week of two policemen who were adversely mentioned in a special grand jury report, he went into criminal court and demanded the exclusion of the report. Justice Proctor said that such a report was unwarranted and unfair, in that whoever it mentioned had no recourse to answer it by trial.

TROLLEY UNION AIDS RAIL FIGHT ON CABS

Brief Urges Regulations to Curb Taxi Competition to Street Cars.

The Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Workers, Division 689, yesterday joined with the street railways in urging the Public Utilities Commisson to regulate the taxicab industry so as to remove it as a dangerous competitor of street cars.

After pointing out at length that the commission has authority to regulate taxicabs, a fact long since recognized by the utilities body, the brief requested a special hearing "to determine the best system of fixing rates." It was for such a purpose that the recent hearing was held.

Filed in behalf of the 900 members of the association, the brief was signed by M. W. Poole, president, and John H. Cookman, secretary. It was prepared by Attorneys Daniel S. Ring and Walter S. Bastian.

The association, which is composed of a conservative labor group, has never previously taken sides in a local controversy not strictly confined to capital-labor policies, the brief stated. Its members have not always aligned themselves with their employers, the Capital Traction Co., it added.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BRITISH ELECTION.

ENGLAND is trying to figure out whether she has been through a national election or a testimonial to the good old days of hoop skirts and tandems.

* * * *

The Tories are in complete power in an election that was practically unanimous, the other parties losing more seats than a chair shop in a fire.

* * * *

The British now get an all-Tory Parliament with the best display of double chins and assorted whiskers in years. It is really a case of an empire gone side whiskers.

* * * *

It was an election according to the dispatches but it was an indorsement of the iron deer, hair sofa, magic lantern and coach-and-four era according to the returns.

* * * *

The new British government is so conservative that it will probably regard music with dinner as radical. "Safety-First!" becomes the slogan of Great Britain whose people now rally 'round a sign reading, "DO NOT DISTURB."

The National Labor party was almost destroyed. It didn't win enough seats for one Labor orator to throw during a debate with an opponent.

* * * *

The National Liberals got but 66 seats, all in the back rows behind pillars. The most liberal measure they will see passed by the next Parliament is a law making mustache cups optional in the British home.

* * * *

The Lloyd George Liberal party elected Lloyd George, his family and a friend, giving them four chairs, but making no provision for guests or distant relatives.

* * * *

The Independents got a couple of seats. A British Independent is a man who can carry his umbrella to business on a clear day or leave it alone.

* * * *

Lady Astor was reelected, guaranteeing the usual sound effects in the next Parliament and assuring the newspapermen of a continuance of good copy.

The most pitiful victim of the landslide is Ramsay MacDonald. He was vindicated, indorsed, reinstated and reelected. This means that he will have to serve his full sentence with no time off for good behavior.

* * * *

In their appeals to the nation, the Tory leaders urged the voters not to rock the boat. The voters responded by equipping the boat with pontoons, dragging it up to the top of an inland hill and marking it "No passengers."

* * * *

The election surprised even the most hopeful conservatives. Only a few weeks previous there had been insubordination in the British fleet and rumors of serious unrest. But when an Englishman feels that unrest is getting the best of him he goes out and casts his ballot for the sturdy British citizen who wears rubbers, reads the small type on the back of railroad tickets, shaves with an old-fashioned razor, takes a good nap after dinner and always pulls the shades down when he changes his shoes.

* * * *

* * * *

And if she wants to sit down she now holds the best seats in the house.

* * * *

THE RUMBLE SEAT M. P.'s.

The Liberals, Laborites and Socialists won a total of only 58 seats in the British election. And they're all rumble seats, at that.

* * * *

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, finding himself, believe it or not, the head of a Tory government, must wonder whether he was elected or taken prisoner.

* * * *

Elmer Twitchell's fear is that the British Old Guard will let the election result go to its head and speedily pass legislation bringing back the bustle, restoring the trick bicycle act to vaudeville and making iron dogs compulsory.

* * * *

FALL FROM WINDOW IS SOLVED BY POLICE

Carl Huff Recovers Enough to State He Was Washing Windows.

Mystery of his fall from a third-floor window of a rooming house at 148 Eleventh street southeast was solved for police last night when Carl Huff, 40-year-old electrician, recovered consciousness at Casualty Hospital and told detectives that he had toppled 20 feet to the ground while washing windows.

Roy W. Harding, 30 years old, of 3304 Veazy street northwest, who was held for investigation after Huff was found underneath the window Thursday night, was released yesterday in custody of his attorney, T. F. Burke. Police had arrested him when circumstances of Huff's fall appeared suspicious.

Huff is still in a serious condition at the hospital. He suffered a fractured skull, but his neck was not broken as was at first feared. Physicians, however, say his condition is still grave.

Poolroom Killer Is Given 10 Years

19-Year-Old R. E. Martz Receives Sentence for His Part in Fatal Brawl.

Robert E. Martz, 19-year-old pool room habitue, was sent to jail for ten years yesterday when he was called before Justice F. D. Letts in the District Supreme Court to receive sentence following a plea of guilty to second-degree murder.

Martz was indicted for first degree murder, but because of his youth, he was allowed by Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica to enter a plea to a lesser offense.

A stirring plea for the mercy of the court was made by Attorney Denny Hughes.

SIEGAL IS CONVICTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Jury Finds Lawyer Guilty of Seeking to Fabricate Alibi for Client.

After almost 24 hours, a jury in Criminal Court yesterday found Abner Siegal, attorney, guilty of bribing a guard at the District Jail. The verdict came just when courthouse attaches were expressing the belief that there would be "a hung jury."

Siegal was in court with his attorney, E. Russell Kelly, when the sentence was pronounced. He walked from the room a moment later when Justice James M. Proctor allowed him to remain at liberty on bond pending an appeal.

Siegal was found guilty of having given Harry S. Dean, a guard at the District Jail, $250 to change the records at the jail so that a man suspected of murder in Wilkes Barre, Pa., would have an alibi. The alibi was to be that the suspect could not have committed the murder because he was in jail here at the time.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who prosecuted the case, was not in court when the jury returned. He is confined to his home by illness.

Brothers Are Arrested In Rum Raid on Home

Two brothers were held by police after a raid by members of the headquarters vice squad yesterday afternoon in which the raiders, under Sergt. N. O. Holmes, said they found a quantity of alleged liquor at the residence, 700 Sixth street southwest.

The prisoners gave their names as James Patrick Shugart, 26 years old, and Henry Harry Shugart, 17 years old. Police said they confiscated 31 gallons of wine, 100 bottles of beer and 7 quarts of whisky, and charged the brothers with illegal possession of intoxicants.

Two Missing Boys Are Being Sought

Schoolmates, 11, Believed on Way to Southland; Police Notified.

Two small boys, both 11 years old and schoolmates, were believed by their relatives last night to be on their way to the far South after disappearing yesterday from their classes. One of the young runaways at least is avoiding the cold weather, which goes with a Washington winter. He is a native of Atlanta, Ga.

The aunt of one of the boys, Mrs. R. W. Hawkins, of the West Clifton Terrace Apartments, asked police to start a search for the pair. She said her nephew, Richard Hall, had disappeared with H. Bruce Clark, jr., from Wilson Normal School.

Young Hall has been staying with his aunt and uncle in Washington while he attended school. His mother is living in Atlanta, where she has a position with the Southern Railway, and the boy is believed to be on his way there.

Brother of Child Who Died On Holiday Eve Hit by Auto

Ill fortune continued to cling about the family of Patrolman B. M. Strong, of the Fourth Precinct, last night. His 6-year-old son, Bruce, jr., was a victim of an automobile accident.

Only the day before Bruce's little sister had been found dead on the floor of their home at 506½ Second street southeast, victim of a heart attack, as she reached for a Halloween prize she had won at Garfield Playground.

Bruce was knocked down by an automobile near his home. He failed to see an automobile driven by Willy Long, colored, 22 years old, of 92 Myrtle street, approaching. Long took the child to Providence Hospital, where it was found his injuries were not serious.

Bruce's little sister, Colette, did not tell her mother how badly she felt Wednesday because she wanted to play the part of "Mammy Witch" in the playground festival. She went to the fete and won consolation prize. Her body was found by her mother the next morning, where she had fallen while trying to look at the prize she had won.
